SOCCER PREVIEW

HEAVY PROGRAMME OF PRO. SOCCER THIS WEEKEND

THERE'S a heavy professional soccer programme this weekend with six matches being played in four centres. At Johannesburg, Real Fighters and Blackpool meet at 1.30, and in the main game Transvaal United are billed to meet Orlando Pirates. Avalon Athletic travel to Cape Town for the match against Cape Ramblers, and at Pietermaritzburg, Lincoln City and Coastals clash. Aces and Hearts play the main game at Currie's Fountain and at 1.30 Maritzburg City meet Berea.

Although four local teams are fixtured for Johannesburg neither of the two games is expected to be an exciting fixture. Real Fighters, with the 1-1 shock draw against Aces United meet a team that has failed to gain a single point from any of their four games, Blackpool United. United is going through a hard time and their present standard is far below that of last season.

Transvaal United have a slightly stronger opposition in Orlando Pirates. Pirates have so far earned four points from two games and they are favoured to win the main encounter.

Another two weak sides are billed to play at the Capital. Coastals, the former division II champions, meet Lincoln City.

On paper, Lincoln City appear to be the stronger side for they have four points from six games while their opponents have just managed one point from six games. Coastals, however, played a good game on Sunday and lost by the narrow margain of one goal against the unbeaten Hearts. This is certainly a good effort and if this standard is maintained they ought to do fairly well against the Maritzburg side.

STRONG OPPOSITION

Heart's strength will be put to some test this weekend when they meet the joint league champions, Aces United. Although Aces have been doing a little badly in their games, they should turn in a fine performance. Heart's log leaders with an unbeaten record, will put everything into this game for until now their strongest opposition has been Maritzburg City. have lost one and drawn

Regardless of the fact that Aces have lost one and drawn two of their six matches, Aces is still a team that many of the teams in the League fear. This match, because two local teams are featured, could certainly be a thrilling tussle.

In the early game Maritzburg City will make a strong bid to beat Berea. They have already lost to Hearts and Moroka Swallows and any more defeats will place them at a disadvantage in the league series.

DART CONTEST

A DART competition is to be held at the White House Hotel, Mount Edgecombe, on Saturday, May 4, commencing at 2.30 p.m.

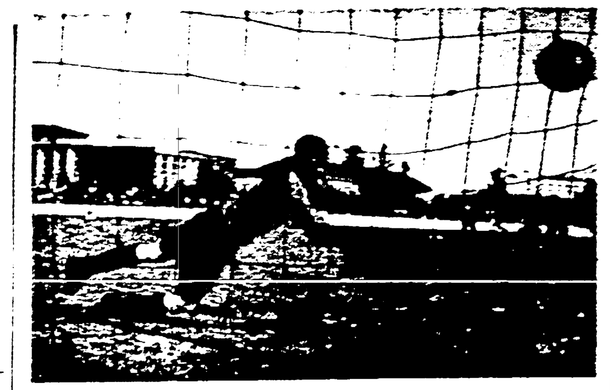
Doubles "301" matches will be played and trophies will be awarded to the winners and runner up.

V.I.P.'s missing at reception

WHAT had happened to many of the top Stanger personalities that were invited to the reception accorded to the visiting Border Vagrants cricket side in Stanger last weekend? That is the question the Stanger Cricket Union would like answered.

The function, however, turned out to be a huge success. The banquet was given by Mr. E. C. Mahomedy, president of the Stanger Cricket Union and the Lower Tugela Soccer Federation.

Messrs. P. K. Moodley, G. V. Naidoo, Councillor E. M. Moolla, Harold Samuel and Dr. I. Asmal of Stanger were among the speakers. Mr. S. Nursoo (manager), Mr R. Nash (president) and Mr R. Murphy (captain) spoke on behalf of the visitors.



A look of despair is on the face of S. Mutha, Hearts's goalkeeper, as this penalty shot crashes past him into the net. But Hearts beat their experienced opponents, Coastals, 3—2, at Currie's Fountain on Sunday.

Real fighters win prize

REAL FIGHTERS, the former Transvaal Division II team, qualify for the 1,000 cigarettes—presented by the United Tobacco Company—today for their very fine game against joint league champions, Aces United. The 1—1 draw was least expected. Aces were regarded as firm favourites.

The league at the moment is as follows:

	P	W	D	L	F	A	Pts.
Hearts	6	6	—	—	22	13	12
Avalon Athletic	5	5	—	—	23	4	10
Moroka Swallows	5	5	—	—	25	8	10

Vital game for Cape Ramblers

CAPE RAMBLERS' crucial game against Avalon Athletic, on Saturday at the Green Point Track has more to it than the result. For win they must if they wan to remain a force and a draweard in the national competition.

The home team's biggest threat is their waning public support, due to their poor display and persistence in relying on the number of "has-beens" in the side. This is what Cape fans disapprove of and clamour for new faces in a side they have idolised for two years.

Why Ramblers have not signed on new players is still a mystery.

NEW BLOOD

Rumblings in the administration indicate that there is a fierce battle being fought in the rooms. One prominent official has already resigned. Drastic changes can be expected, but this fact must be established that if Ramblers fail to introduce new blood protests from all over the country are bound to follow.

REF'S MEETING

The annual general meeting of the Natal Indian Referees' Association will be held at the Sri Vishnu School, Longmarket Street, Maritzburg on Sunday

BELATED START OF TENNIS SEASON

THE 1963 tennis season makes a belated start on Sunday with the first round of league fixtures. There are 10 teams, all in one division. The organising body, the Southern Natal Lawn Tennis Union, has decided that the small number of teams does not justify two divisions. This means that some of the teams which played in the "B" Division last year may find themselves hopelessly outmatched.

Umzinto should have a fairly comfortable initiation into the "A" Division. They are at home to M. L. Sultan II, who, on last year's performance appear to be too weak for the first division.

Sydenham travel to Avoca for what should be the best match of the weekend. Avoca, without Joe Luckray, will be below full strength and could be tested by the experienced Sydenham side. Luckraj's injured hand is expected to keep him out of tennis for about two months. However, with Ramlakan and V. G. Persadh in the side, Avoca should not have the edge in this match.

Central, without Mandan, will not be as strong as in the past, but are not likely to be extended by he Avoca second team. Ex-Royal player M. Ally plays his first match for Central and is expected to partner T. H. Naran.

Early favourite for the league crown, Moonlighters, with Parbhoo Roopnarain and "Randy" Mandan in the side should prove too strong for M. L. Sultan I, who are newcomers to the first division.

In the remaining match Royal will be at home to Moonlighters II. Royal with "Ginger" Mahomedy and R. A. Omar as the main pair, and veterans Moolla and Bassa still going strong, appear to have a well-balanced team. The strength of the Moonlighters second team is not known.

FIXTURES FOR SUNDAY

Umzinto vs. M. L. Sultan II; Avoca I vs. Sydenham; Central vs. Avoca II; M. L. Sultan I vs. Moonlighters I; Royal vs. Moonlighters II.

SWIMMING GALA ON SATURDAY

SIX of the present record-holders will be taking part in the swimming gala at the Balkumar Singh Swimming Baths, Asherville, this Saturday. This gala was scheduled for last Saturday, but the rain washed it out completely. In spite of the pouring rain a large number of people had turned up at the Baths.

Those holding the records and taking part this weekend are: Pamela Jithoo (Barracuda) — juvenile 25 metres breast stroke, metres breast stroke2ETANIOI time 25.3/5sec.; Lea Naidoo (Blue Marlin) — senior 200 metres freestyle, 3min. 22.2/5sec.; Usha Rani Singh (Blue Marlin) —25 metres freestyle, 23.4/5sec.; P. Moodley (Barracuda)—junior 50 metres freestyle, 50sec.; and Sonny Pillay (Blue Marlin) — 200 metres breast stroke, 3min. 25sec.

This time the Indian clubs will have to worry about the Coloured side, Pioneers, from the Tills Crescent Baths. Their performances at previous galas have been very impressive and it seems that with a little more effort they should win the very attractive composite cup.

Many of the leading personalities who were to have attended the gala last Saturday promised to attend this Saturday.

VICIOUS ATTACK BY GANGSTERS

Soccer player shot, singer stabbed after dance

GUNSHOTS shattered the still midnight air in Albert Street, Durban, last Saturday when lanky jazz singer Denzil Charles and soccerite Cedric "Spinner" Engelhart were attacked by gangsters. People living in the flats in the Albert and Beatriet Streets area jumped from their beds when they were awakened by the sound of gunfire "going off like crackers."

Denzil Charles is well known in entertainment circles and has appeared in a number of shows, among them being "African Jazz," "Coon Carnival" and "Nite in Havana."

Engelhart was captain of the Springbok Football Club and played centre-forward for Coastals in the second division last year. He is married and has one child.

Neither man could really say why they were attacked, but Charles felt that the reason could be an old grudge. The police are investigating the matter, but up to the time of going to press no arrests had been made.

One of the attacked men, Engelhart was admitted to Addington Hospital with a bullet wound in his leg and a wound on his hand inflicted by a bush-knife.

Charles was wounded with a bush-knife on the shoulder and was discharged after he had received 16 stitches. His cheek was also slightly nicked with the bush-knife. He was in considerable pain when a "Leader" reporter interviewed him at his home.

Engelhart and Charles were returning from a dance at about a quarter past twelve. They had crossed Cartwright's Flat, the vacant plot between Umgeni Road and Albert Street, and were in front of Valjee's Building when they were set upon from behind.

Charles had noticed some men sitting in parked cars as they crossed Albert Street but he did not take particular notice of them.

They did not hear the men get out of the cars and they could not say whether any members of the gang had lain in wait for them in the shadows of the buildings.

EARLIER IN THE EVENING, WHILE THEY WERE AT THE HOTEL, SOMEBODY HAD WARNED THEM THAT "SOME FRIENDS" WERE LOOKING FOR THEM. CHARLES AND ENGELHART THOUGHT THAT THE PERSONS REFERRED TO WERE ACQUAINTANCES FROM JOHANNESBURG. LITTLE DID THEY REALISE WHO THE "FRIENDS" WERE.

The two men were taken by surprise by the gang as they made their way home after the dance. Engelhart believed that their attackers numbered about six, but the number could have been more, according to Charles.

"They took us like bees," said Charles. "We did not know what was happening and it was fairly difficult to make out who the attackers were as the lights were not very good."

Engelhart told "The Leader" reporter that "the going was rough. And when I saw the bush-knife I started to run."

He was wounded on his right hand—across the index finger and thumb—as he tried to break away from the attackers.

As he ran he heard revolver shots ring out.

"I was struck by the second bullet but I managed to run from Albert Stret into Beatrice Street. Half way down, near the Y.M.C.A., my leg gave up and I collapsed on the island which runs down the centre of the road."

THE BULLET ENTERED JUST BELOW THE CALF OF HIS RIGHT LEG. HE BELIEVED THE GANG LEFT HIM FOR DEAD WHEN HE COLLAPSED.

African passers-by helped him to his feet and he joined Charles, who only then, after the initial shock was over, realised that he was wounded. He had not felt any pain at the time he was hacked with the bush-knife.

Mrs. Charles told "The Leader" reporter that had the blow from the bush-knife been lower it might have been fatal to her son.

"But," she added, "the hand of God is very long and so is the arm of the law."

Jazz singer, Denzil Charles, obviously in pain, rests at his home. He was viciously stabbed in the shoulder and the wound had to receive 16 stitches. A gash high on his cheek can be clearly seen.

Cedric "Spinner" Engelhart, a former Coastals centre forward, photographed in Addington Hospital recovering from his wounds. A heavy bandage covers the bullet wound in his right leg.

G. Areas pressure on Indians, says counsel in Naicker case

THE effect of Group Areas Proclamations in some 75 cities and towns througout the country would demonstrate that the only inference that could be drawn from the implementation of the Act was economic and social pressure of an extreme kind.

This was said by the counsel for the defence at the trial of Dr G. M. Naicker and Mrs. Naicker in the Durban Magistrate's Court last week.

The President of the South African and the Natal Indian Congresses and Mrs. Naicker were appearing before Mr. J. L. Pretorious on a charge of contravening the Group Areas Act.

The accused were members of the Indian group, according to the charge, and were therefore disqualified persons, living in a White area. Stamford Hill had been proclaimed for White ownership and occupation under Proclamation 152 of 1958, but Dr. Naicker had refused to apply for a permit to live in his home, at the pleasure of the Group Areas Board.

In a statement indicating the line of defence, counsel said that Proclamation 152 of 1958 which had a bearing on the area in question was ultra vires and void.

It was stated that certain preliminary requirements, as required by law, had not been complied with.

Evidence would be led that the Group Areas Board had failed in its duty to take into account the availability of suitable alternative accommodation; that the report to the Minister of Community Development was not a proper report and that the Minister himself had failed in his statutory duty.

The evidence would show that the position of the Indian community was one of frustration.

The magistrate, however, stated that the court was not in a position to pronounce upon the validity or otherwise of a proclamation. He had no jurisdiction in the matter as it was well outside his province.

"If and when it does come to the defence stage I feel that I might not feel disposed to hear evidence on that aspect," he said.

The case was adjourned to May 8.

Mr. F. Botes appeared for the State and Mr. A. Fischer, Q.C., and Mr. I. Mahomed (instructed by N. T. Naicker and Co.) for the accused.

NEW BRANCH OF SUNGUM

THE Saiva Sithantha Sungum, a cultural, education and religious organisation of Durban opened yet another branch last week, when Sri Karunianandа Swamigal, spiritual head of the sungum performed the opening ceremony for the Mayville branch at the AYS Indian School.

More than 200 people attended the function. Prominent cultural and religious leaders spoke on the work carried out by the sungum in propagating the teachings of its founder, Sri Siva Soobramoniar Guru Swamigal. Other items included the singing of verses from the "Soobramonium," a collection of Tamil devotional lyrics by the Guruswamigal.

The sungum now has nearly 30 branches throughout Natal, and among its members are several Europeans, among whom are lecturers and doctors.

Self-help saved community, says Social Worker

"SELF-HELP is probably the cardinal point on which the Indian community exists and if it were not for this, the community would have been out of existence long ago." Dr. K. Ginwala, a Durban social worker, told the annual conference of the National Council of Women in Pietermaritzberg, last week."

Giving examples of the number of cases of self-help among the Indians, Dr. Ginwala who is the Council's Asian Affairs Adviser, said that last year alone five of the voluntary welfare organisations collected from the Indian community approximately R17,918. She cited the Natal Indian Teachers' Society which has formed a school building trust fund to which all the members—about 2,000 of them—contributed six per cent. of their salaries each year.

"These examples," she said, "should dispel any misconceptions that the Indian community does not help its members."

Nearly 70 per cent of the community lived below the bread line, and only about eight per cent. may be regarded as belonging to the upper rich class.

Another misconception about the Indians was that they had a high birthrate. But according to statistics from the Durban Medical Officer of Health, the birth rate of the Indian population last year was 32.61 as against 19.45 for the European, 45.75 for the Coloured, and 32.00 for the African. ... ...

Dr. Ginwala pointed out that last year's Indian birthrate was equal to the European birthrate in 1950.

"If one took the birthrate in the Afrikaner platteland," she said, "it would be most illuminating."

UNEMPLOYMENT

Dealing with Indian unemployment, Dr. Ginwala said that it was difficult to repeatedly witness the once able-bodied man or woman being subjected to hardships because of a "deficiency" in avenues of employment, and to consequently witness again his "stagnation and ultimate degradation."

"It is not a question of isolated cases facing eviction for non-payment of rent; destitution today has reached momentous proportions and it is commonplace to encounter innumerable people whose main concern is where the rent and meal would come from."

"It is natural in such an event that one should turn one's mind to the ravages which the plight of the unemployed is having on his body and soul, and the disrupting effects on his person on the circumstances which compel him to seek aid from the only source available — the welfare organisation," Dr. Ginwala said.

Think of these things

Jesus said: "Verily, Verily, I say unto you, He that believeth on me, the works that I do shall he do also; and greater works than these shall he do; because I go unto my Father. And whatsoever ye shall ask in my name, that will I do, that the Father may be glorified in the Son. If ye shall ask anything in my name, I will do it." John 14, v. 12, 13, 14.

Jesus Christ, the Son of God, came into the world, that the world through Him might be saved, for God, the Father, so loved the world, you and I, that He gave His only Son that whosoever would believe in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life. For God did not send His Son into the world to condemn the world, but that sinners like you and I might be saved. The wages of sin is death, but the gift of God is life eternal, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Whoever— that is you and I—if we believe in Jesus Christ we will have everlasting life, we will not fear death, for Jesus has conquered death—death now holds no fears—death is now a victory. Shall we face everlasting life or everlasting death? He that believeth on the Son HATH everlasting life; and he that believeth not on the Son shall not see life, but the wrath of God abideth on him. And greater things than these shall be ours, for God has raised his Son from the dead and He sits now at the right hand of God the Father. Let us believe in and worship the LIVING Christ—the resurrected Saviour—and accept Him as our personal Saviour, then the works that Jesus did, we shall do also—and greater works than these—and whatever we ask in Jesus' name we SHALL receive. Accept Jesus and take Him at His word.

Are you sick? Are you depressed? Are you "enduring" a burden? Have you no peace? Are you tormented?

Jesus has borne our afflictions, sin, sickness and depression upon Himself on the Cross of Calvary.

"And these signs shall follow them that believe, in my name shall they cast out devils . . . they shall lay hands on the sick and they SHALL recover." THINK ON THESE THINGS

AROUND THE CAPITAL

With C. G. HOODLEY

THE Family Planning Clinic for Asiatics and Coloureds, opened at Grey's Hospital in October last year, has been a boon to many people. More than 100 women have attended the clinic up till now and it is becoming increasingly popular.

Mrs. C. Gerhard, acting chairman of the Pietermaritzburg branch of the Planned Parenthood Association of Natal, told me in an interview:

"Family planning, in different forms, has been practised for many years and it is recognised as important by every thinking person today. Not only is it important to each individual family. It is also important to the community and to nations as a whole.

"Scientists have repeatedly warned that the world is rapidly becoming over-populated and that if the population continues to grow at the same rate as at present there will soon be many more starving millions, for there is a limit to food production.

"Today, family planning clinics throughout the world are bringing knowledge and instruction within the reach of country people. Parents are realising more fully the advantages of spacing their children. No longer is it necessary for women to be worn out and exhausted by continual child-bearing. No longer is it necessary for unwanted children to be born into this world.

"Each child on the planned family has a better chance because the mother is better able to devote to it the time and care required during its formative years."

Mrs. Gerhard said that, in Pietermaritzburg and in Durban, these clinics are operated by the Planned Parenthood Association of Natal.

The fee for the first visit is R1. This amount only just covers the cost of the appliances supplied. Although the sum may seem a lot of money to some it must cause no embarrassment as it is paid in the first visit.

The Pietermaritzburg branch of the Association runs two clinics at present. The one at Grey's Hospital is open every Thursday from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. and another for all non-Europeans at the Local Health Centre. A clinic in Plessislaer is open every Monday from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m.

Although this is so the pensions will continue to be paid at the post office.

More amenities wanted for Chatsworth

GOOD roads, footpaths, community centre, playing fields for children and bus shelters are among the many amenities requested by the Mayville Indian Ratepayers' Association from the Durban City Council.

The other requests include a proper drainage system, parks and gardens, children's playing fields, the elimination of dangerous curves in Bellair Road, and the appointment of a pointsman at the intersection of Jan Smuts Highway, Bellair and Standard Roads.

In a letter to the City Council, Mr. Soobou Rajah, the secretary of the association, says: "On behalf of the Indian community of Mayville, I appeal to you not to use the implications of the Group Areas Act as a deterrent when dealing with the provision of amenities in the Mayville area.

"We feel very sore to note that while the Council does everything within its power — even going beyond its means — to provide amenities in the White areas, it fails to provide even the basic amenities that are urgently needed in Indian areas.

"It is high time that the Council took a stand and extended civic amenities to the residents in the Mayville area."

Candid Commentary . . . by Politicus

TRAGIC WEEK FOR S. AFRICA

WHAT a hectic week it has been in Parliament! What a hectic and tragic week it has been for the country! We have witnessed a Government determined to push through a Bill (which by the time this appears in print may be Law) which for its inroads on the personal liberties of the citizens of South Africa, is without parallel.

We have witnessed the sad demise of the official Parliamentary Opposition which gave support to the Second Reading—the Bill in principle!

We have witnessed an outraged protest from the English-language press.

We have seen the solitary figure of a woman stand up in single-handed parliamentary battle against this drastic action on the part of the Government.

We have seen the ladies of the Sash take up their positions once again in open public protest, to awaken the conscience of our rulers and the apathetic man-in-the street.

SIEGE

We have heard the outspoken Archbishop of Durban, the Most Rev. Denis Hurley say: "The situation envisaged by this Bill is no passing emergency. It is the recognition of a state of siege."

We have heard Alan Paton describe South Africa as a police State.

The real issue, said the Archbishop, is whether South Africa is going to make it a "fight to the finish" for White supremacy, or be prepared to negotiate for nobler things.

Mr. Vorster wants a fight to the finish. Most South Africans do not. What is the way out when, as Mrs. Helen Suzman points out, South Africans have been conditioned to accept the Government's action as necessary?

It is basic that the Government is wrong in its policies and its actions. Then, why and how do they become necessary?

Frankly one does not know the answer. One way is for the best brains in this country, all those who are opposed to the Government's way of thinking, to get together and, putting their heads together, suggest some ways and means of putting an end to this internal cold war — a Peace Plan.

HOW LONG ARE WE GOING TO LIVE IN A STATE OF SIEGE?

Engagement ceremony may replace banns

THE Minister of Indian Affairs, Mr. W. A. Maree, will be asked by the South African Hindu Maha Sabha, a parent body of Hindus in this country, that the publication of banns at weddings be substituted with an engagement ceremony, as the Hindu religion does not provide for banns.

This was the essence of a four-hour deliberation on the marriage laws of the country in so far as they affected the Hindus, at a conference called by the sabha on Sunday. About 300 delegates representing the various affiliated units of the sabha, as well as Hindu priests, took part in the discussions.

Under Law 25 of 1961 no marriage officer could solemnize any marriage unless each of the parties in question had published marriage banns in a congregation to which he or she belonged.

The conference felt that this provision was a moot point for the Hindus religion did not provide for the publication of banns.

"A Hindu marriage," the conference stated, "is preceded by an engagement ceremony which for all practical purposes is more demanding than the requirements of the publication of banns. The publication of banns may be possible in urban areas, but it would be difficult in rural areas."

OFFICIALS

Referring to marriage officers appointed by the Minister to officiate at weddings, the conference stated that this could not be extended to the Hindus.

"It will be observed," the conference stated, "that in the case of Christian churches, Moslem mosques, and Jewish synagogues there are priests, moulvis and rabbis attached to these places of worship. That is not the case with Hindu temples.

"None of the Hindu temples in South Africa has introduced any priest from India or elsewhere in the manner as the churches, mosques and synagogues. The Hindu temples throughout South Africa have relied upon the local people to officiate at temples.

"No Hindu marriage is solemnised directly inside a place of worship.

"They are performed in halls, private homes and in the grounds of temples. This applies to all Hindus—Tamil, Telegu, Hindi and Gujerati-speaking peoples. After the completion of the marriage ceremonies the bridal couples severally proceed to the temple where prayers are offered."

The sabha resolved to ask the Minister to recognise marriage officers it had appointed and who had been nominated by its affiliated organisations.

National bird

THE Government has decided to designate the peacock (Pavo Cristatus) as the national bird of India. The decision has been taken after considering the views of the State Governments and opinions expressed in the Press.

The question of selecting a national bird has been under consideration since the Tokyo conference of the International Council for Bird Preservation held in May, 1960. That conference had recommended that each country should formally designate a species of its national bird in order to focus public attention on the question of preservation of wild life in general and birds in particular.

India ahead of China with Atom

PRIME Minister Nehru said in the Rajya Sabha (Council of States) last week that the development of atomic energy in India was far ahead of China. He said that Government had no reports about China having exploded an atom bomb recently.

Replying to questions, Mr Nehru reiterated the Government's firm conclusion" not to direct atomic energy towards the preparation of nuclear weapons.

While agreeing that nuclear explosions by China would undoubtedly change the military situation in Asia, he pointed out that the development of atomic weapons by her was "a very, very far cry". It might take her 10 years to develop these weapons even if China succeeded in having an atomic test, "and much may happen in 10 years' time."

He said: "We are developing atomic energy in a variety of ways and are probably, at the present moment, sixth or seventh among the most advanced countries in this respect, including the great (nuclear) powers, but we have not directed it towards the preparation of nuclear weapons."

Scheme to mend broken homes

MEND broken homes, patch up the quarrels of married couples and then you have a well-knit family. A well-knit family is the basis of a happy nation. This is the creed being followed by the newly formed Tharu Arupta Karhagam of South Africa, which is planning to build a home in Clare Estate to house, educate and rehabilitate couples from broken homes.

The karhagam, founded on the teachings of the great South Indian poet-saint, Saint Ramalingar, is implementing one of its first plans to put into practical use the philosophy of the sage by building the institution.

RECONCILIATION

The home is to be built on a 3½-acre site and will comprise several hutments to house inmates from broken homes — men and women — until such time they are reconciled to each other under the council and guidance of education officers of the karhagam. An assembly hall, in which lectures on the various aspects of husband-wife relationship would be given periodically to the inmates during their stay there.

A spokesman for the karhagam told "The Leader" that much of the social distress and the evils that flower from it, could be averted if people from broken homes were rehabilitated and educated to lead a happy and contented life after a period of re-adjustment at the institution. "As it is the divorce rate among Indians, particularly the Hindus, which at one time was unknown among them, was now alarming," the spokesman said.

"Broken homes lead to instability in the social and economic structure of the family. This in turn led to frustration of the community," he said.

LEADER OPINION

Chatsworth and the NIC

THERE have been some hot words over the Chatsworth Housing Scheme between the chairman of the Durban City Council's Housing Committee and the Natal Indian Congress. The Congress, in a statement, has strongly criticised and pointed out some of the shortcomings of the scheme. Councillor Harris, on the other hand, has painted a rosy picture and, in effect, requested the N.I.C. to mind its own business.

We hold no brief for the N.I.C. Nor do we have any special love for the Durban City Council. We know that, in pursuance of the Government's massive group areas design, the Durban City Council is trying its level best to do what it can to meet the demands of Indian housing which, having been neglected for years and years, are very urgent.

SHORTCOMINGS

The City Council cannot claim that its Scheme is perfect in every respect, or that it is above criticism. It has its shortcomings and it is the duty of Indian spokesmen to draw the attention of the Council to these shortcomings.

This is exactly what, we believe, the N.I.C. has done. It has a right to be heard, and Councillor Harris is quite wrong in ignoring its protest.

The N.I.C. must follow up its Press statement with a full scale investigation of the position and make a factual assault which would lay bare the very real shortcomings at Chatsworth. If necessary, it must back up this factual assault by the experiences of the people who live at Chatsworth.

We believe if the N.I.C. were to do this, the City Council would not dare [illegible] the N.I.C. As matters stand, they appear to have made out a prima facie case, but have not proved their charges.

PEOPLE WILL LIVE IN FEAR

S.A.I.C. strongly condemn Bill as 'drastic and frightening'

TO live in fear of God is one thing but to live in fear of the Minister of Justice is another. For that is what is envisaged by this new Bill introduced by Minister Vorster in Parliament. The General Laws Amendment Bill is the most far reaching measure ever to be introduced in the South African Parliament in its inglorious history of racial and suppressive laws since Union more than 50 years ago, says a statement issued by the South African Indian Congress.

Under this Bill the Minister of Justice will be entitled to impose up to life imprisonment on his political opponents after they have been tried and sentenced by the Courts of our land and after they have served their sentence in accordance with the verdict of the Courts. The Minister will now become the "Super Judge" over-riding the decisions in regard to sentences passed by the highest Judges of our land.

"The effect of this amendment to our laws is to introduce into our legal system the most drastic of all dictatorial powers the rulers of a State can have—that is the detention indefinitely of people without trial and recourse to the ordinary processes of law. Such powers even in the hands of the most tolerant rulers have never been condoned but when wielded by leaders of a Party like the Nationalist Party which openly advocates racialism and is bent on silencing opposition to its policy then such powers can only lead to a State similar to that of Nazi Germany under Adolf Hitler.

LIVE IN FEAR

The second provision in this law which is both drastic and frightening is the provision for detention of persons for interrogation for an indefinite period in instalments of three months at a time. This can have the effect of terrorising all people with the slightest political inclination who will live in fear of being picked up and then detained for questioning indefinitely or until the Commissioner of Police is satisfied.

Habeas Corpus—the right to be released unless charged in a Court of Law will be abolished. The civilised world has for centuries held sacred this old principle of law which was inaugurated in the 13th century in England to safeguard the civil liberty of the individual.

The severe sentences for certain political offences with a minimum of five years, trial in camera and the penalty of death for actions relating to the freedoms and aspirations of the people for justice, is to be the more so as such sentences are being abolished in most other democratic countries of the world.

The statement continues: "It is regrettable the official opposition has not strenuously opposed the measure and it has been left to the only Progressive Party representative Mrs. Helen Suzman to voice the feelings of millions outside the House against this draconian measure.

"There can be no doubt that the mass of the non-European people are opposed to this measure, and large sections of the White population are also opposed to it and have shown this through their organisations such as the Church bodies, the Black Sash and the Progressive and Liberal Parties.

The Congresses, who represent the non-White people, will oppose it to the bitter end—assured in the thought that victory must ultimately be on the side of right."

Fast-moving Western

A HARD-RIDING, fast-moving adventure yarn of the Old West, Zenith Pictures' "Five Guns to Tombstone", released through United Artists, is a good old-fashioned Western in the true sense of the word. It will show at the Raj Cinema next Monday and Tuesday.

James Brown heads a fine cast as reformed gunman Billy Wade, whose definitely unreformed brother escapes from jail and frames him in an effort to bring Billy back to the gang. How Billy clears himself, after almost being lynched, killing his own brother and thwarting a stagecoach hold-up, is the plot of this exciting Western, zestfully directed by Edward L. Cahn.

Pretty Della Sharman (who will remind you of Grace Kelly) debuts as Brown's fiance, and young John Wilder is the bad brother's teen-age son. Others in the cast are Walter Coy as the villainous gang leader, Robert Karnes as the convict brother, and Jeff de Benning plays the courageous marshal. Robert E. Kent produced the film.

He drops accent

LAURENCE HARVEY had to lose his British accent for Hal Wallis's "A Girl Named Tamiko," a romantic drama of modern Japan in which Harvey plays a Russian-Chinese photographer.

Tennessee's comedy is hit

TONY FRANCIOSA, Jane Fonda and Jim Hutton form the laugh triumverate of "Period of Adjustment," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's screen version of Tennessee Williams' big stage hit and his first comedy, which will be screened at the Shah Jehan from May 1.

The story of the trials and tribulations of a pair of newly-weds whose disillusionment with married life begins even before the honeymoon is over, has all the raciness of Tennessee Williams' popular works, but this time the famous playwright has mixed his tongue-in-cheek barbs with touches of tenderness and sympathy, all of which add up to a delightful film.

The pert and attractive Miss Fonda plays Isabel, the nurse in a V.A. Hospital, who cures patient George Haverstick (Jim Hutton) just in time to marry him. But the submissive George of the hospital bed is far from the domineering and grumpy husband who, after a rainstorm, lands Isabel soaking wet in a dirty and depressing motel and whose idea of an ideal honeymoon supper is a hamburger in a roadside joint.

Quarrels and recriminations lead George to look up his Korean war buddy Ralph (Tony Franciosa), who has married his boss's daughter and from whom he hopes to get a few tips on "What Makes Marriage Work." But Ralph's own marital status with Dorothea, who is certain that he married her only to further his business career, is approaching the divorce stage and he could use a few tips himself.

What happens when these four disillusioned people get together and thrash out their respective dilemmas makes for a picture with plenty of laughs in situations and dialogue.

Film on last day in life of Gandai

"NINE HOURS TO RAMA," Mark Robson's two-hour colour "epic" about the last day in the life of Mahatma Gandhi, is set to open at the Avalon the week after next.

Filmed in India last year, "Nine Hours to Rama" is based on the novel, "Day of Darkness," by Stanley Wolpert, and stars Horst Buchloz, Jose Ferrer, Valerie Gearon, Don Borisenko, Robert Morley and Diane Baker.

J. S. Casshyap, the 64-year-old Indian actor who is said to have a remarkable resemblance to one of India's greatest sons, portrays the Mahatma.

Other Indian screen stars also appear. David and Jairaj have key roles in the picture and Narendra Nath, former Indian Davis Cup player, is also featured. The dance sequences for the film were supervised by Ram Gopal.

Great dramatic moments in the film include reconstructions of the prayer-meeting assassination of Gandhiji and of his funeral procession for which thousands of film extras were recruited.

"Pehli Raat," starring Nimmi (above), Sohrab Modi and Johnny Walker, will be screened at the Roxy Cinema as an Eid attraction.

This picture, together with a 20-minute qawali short makes up an ideal programme for the occasion.

"Pehli Raat" is a strong social drama. It is the story of a woman who is widowed on her wedding night and the trials she has to undergo because of the tragedy.

The supporting short, "Yusuf Azad and Party," is just what the title indicates it is. The master qawal and his group should keep qawali fans well entertained.

Gunfight is climax

IN the tense Western "Duel at Silver Creek" which shows at the Raj Cinema next Wednesday to Saturday, Lightning Tyrone, marshall of Silver City vows to jail a band of claim jumpers when his best friend is killed.

He deputises the Silver Kid, (Audie Murphy) despite the fact that he has been named as the killer hunted by Lightning.

CLIMAX

The film builds up to a savage gunfight with the claim jumpers, and the climax of the film should satisfy all lovers of Western pictures.

"Grahasti" the Hindi smash hit which had the cinema crowds storming the Bombay theatre for its premiere, opens at the Avalon next Monday on a one-week engagement. The film, a domestic social, was produced by S. S. Vasan and directed by Kishore Sahu, and stars Ashok Kumar, Nirupa Roy (above), Lalita Pawar, Manoj and Indrani Mukherjee.

FUND CANNOT SUBSCRIBE TO EVERY APPEAL

SIR,—Molvi Sema states that his conversion of a number of Africans to Islam perturbed officials of the Muslim Charitable Fund and that "they were apprehensive in assisting our project as it would bring them into disrepute with the Government."

This is nonsense. Muslim Merchants Charitable Fund's refusal to donate to Molvi Sema's "ideal-[illegible]" has nothing to do with what he says. The members of the Muslim Merchants Charitable Fund have the scantiest knowledge of the Molvi Sema's work. It is about two years since they [illegible] Molvi Sema and one or two of his friends for collection of [illegible] for this work.

There seems to be an idea that no matter what appeal is made to the Muslim Merchants Charitable Fund we have to make a contribution to it. It would appear that we are not expected to investigate the project, examine it, or to relate it to other priority needs. The resources of the Fund are limited and it is ridiculous to [illegible] that the Fund must subscribe to every conceivable appeal made to it.

The members of the Muslim Merchants Charitable Fund based their policy on a principle of Islam that charity begins at home. Here in Durban and District we have a multitude of Muslim problems to solve which, if all the charity of muslims in the whole country were diverted to them, they could not be solved.

We have thousands of Muslim children lacking the most elementary religious education, and who receive very little secular education.

We have hundreds of children going without a proper meal daily, and with them deserted mothers, widows, disabled people who are constantly in need of care and charity. Our community's health services are meagre. The problems are legion.

Added to our own problems are those of thousands of non-Muslim Indians, whose difficulties are even greater than those of our own community.

Further there are the Africans upon whose labour and creative work so many of us depend for our livelihood and prosperity. Not a day passes without calls upon us for help in African education and social welfare.

Faced with these facts, how can the Fund justify projects and undertaking to an extent beyond the limits of its capacity or engage in work, no matter how good, which Molvi Sema and few others undertake, no matter how good, which Molvi Sema and a few others undertake and in which perhaps they have converted a few Africans to Islam at the expense of thousands of Rand a year.

We members of the Muslim Merchants Charitable Fund live in the midst of the surrounding problems of our Muslim people non-Muslim Indians and Africans, and the record of our Fund and of the individual members of the Fund, collectively and in individual ways in charitable contribution and in work to these great problems will stand examination and investigation by anyone seeking the truth.

It is our policy to consolidate the work we are doing in the solution of these real problems around us and not to be lead away by the idealism of people like Molvi Sema. On this Molvi Sema and company allege that we are acting contrary to the principles. Thousands of sincere Muslims hold in greatest regard and esteem the charitable work of members of the Fund.

As for our contributions to projects outside Durban and Natal, I quoted in your issue of April 19th, the case of the Orphan Home at Capetown. The contribution was approximately 4,000 Rand and not 400 Rand as was reported in your columns.

Views on religion

Sir,—Your widely read newspaper serves the public as a medium for conveying different shades of opinion and I would like space to put forward some of my views on religion.

I make an appeal to religious canvassers not to try and talk people into changing their religion.

If this happens life itself becomes misery and the person lands himself into all sorts of difficulties and the Love of God is lost. Who is held responsible for this sort of crime?

Referring to the Hindu, we are not short of religion. All wise men come from the East, and we are the seeds of that land. Any amount of shelves can be filled with the volumes of our books, so why not let us study our own philosophy.

A good advice to the hard-working canvassers would be to ask people to remain in their respective denomination, or go among those people who have no religion and preach the gospel to them. In this way one would agree that the worker does a two-way service to mankind and not creating religious confusion.

Holy Quran is only word of God

Sir, — Your correspondent Charles Alexander thinks he is an authority on the Holy Quran. The Dutch Reformed Church, because it has hopelessly failed to convert Muslims to Christianity, is trying to undermine the morale of the Muslims by giving its own interpretation to the versus of the Holy Quran.

For the past thousand years missionaries as well as critical scholars have tried to find faults with the Holy Quran, and, although they have gone to great pains to show their followers that they have succeeded, they have not been able to convince anybody. On the contrary great men of the West ... [illegible] ... Christians at that [illegible] have [illegible] the Holy Quran and have in fact, drawn on its [illegible] wisdom.

For instance when the world was absolutely ignorant of the law of contracts the Holy Quran instructed its followers to reduce to writing all future undertakings. Its foresight in outlawing usury at a time when that destructive cancer was rampant, has become a boon to the suffering humanity. Its direction to its adherents not to enter houses other than their own, without first obtaining permission, goes to show that the Book that contains such socio-economic laws cannot be, as your correspondent states, a fraud.

I do not want to eulogise the Holy Quran. It is not necessary. Greater pens than mine have done it in all the lands of the world.

Whereas it is universally known that since its very beginning not a single dot of the Holy Quran has been altered by human agency, it is also universally known that the Holy Bible has seen many changes effected in it by puny human beings. If Christianity has stood the test of time, surely it would not be necessary for Churches to introduce Rock 'n Roll sessions therein to attract the youth?

Mr. Alexander need not waste his pity on Muslims for knowing the Holy Quran parrot-fashion. It is agreed that all the Muslims do not know Arabic as a language, but they DO know the [illegible] of it. Translations in all the major languages of the world are available for us to understand its contents. Finally, allow me to assure Mr. Alexander that in the same manner as every Christian is not a research student, every Muslim is also not a scholar [illegible] ... those who have done their research and studied the Holy Quran as it is to be studied, are thoroughly convinced that there is no more word of God other than the Holy Quran.

Exhibition by dancers

DURBAN'S most popular dancing duo, the Nydoo Sisters, — Kumari Rani and Kumari Prema—will feature in an evening of classical Indian dances on Sunday, May 5, in the Radhakrishnan Hall, Carlisle Street, Durban, at 7 p.m.

Entitled "Dances of India" the programme is being presented by the staff of the Clairwood Indian High School in aid of the V. Naidu Bursary Fund, founded to perpetuate the memory of the late Mr. V. Naidu, the first principal of the school.

The Nydoo Sisters, who studied the various Indian dances, including the bharatanatyam, under expert tuition in India, made a name for themselves in many shows throughout the Republic. Their latest is a documentary film of their dances by African Film Productions at their Killarney Studios in Johannesburg.

The dancers will also appear in the festival of Indian dances, held by the Ramakrishna Centre in August this year in the Witwatersrand University Great Hall in a programme to observe the centenary of Swami Vivekananda.

Their Durban dances will be interspersed with variety and vocal items by popular Durban artists, in the Hindi, Tamil and Telegu languages, as well as instrumental music.

The V. Naidu Fund has so far given five bursaries of R50 each to ex-students of the school to study for a teacher's certificate.

Volunteer for welfare work, women urged

Miss K. Goordeen, president of the Durban Indian Women's Association, has appealed for more Indian women to join voluntary welfare organisations and take an active interest in community affairs.

She said that she was disappointed at the "negligible" number of women who showed an interest in social welfare work and cultural and educational affairs.

"The time has come for more of our women to take their rightful place in society and contribute to its progress", she said.

The engagement is announced of Mothillall, the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. R. Doobie of 17 Parthab Road, Avoca and formerly of 25 Commonage Road, Avoca, to Kalawathie, the second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Sahdeo of Glen Anil (Springvale). D565

Inquiry not finished

The referee, Mr. F. D. Eagles, reported that there was some misconduct by both Maritzburg City players and officials.

Whatever the outcome of the inquiry, the result of the match will not be affected.

"LEADER" SPORTS STAFF

A SPLENDID century by R. Jacobs made it possible for Roslyns of the Durban Cricket Association to win the Shell Cup final at Stanger on Sunday. Roslyns beat Royals by 50 runs on the first innings. Apart from Jacobs no other Roslyn batsman passed 20 runs.

Royals put up a fairly good show in the first innings knocking up 177 runs. Dawood Asmall was top scorer with 38. Balkisoon (24), Dayal (24), M. Pillay (20), G. Govender (19) and Harold Samuel (14) built up the total.

CENTURY

Roslyns replied with 227 with R. Jacobs scoring 134. Only two centuries were scored in the Shell Cup competition and both of them came from Roslyn players. The first was against Queens of North Coast. H. Samuel took six for 71. Although he took six wickets, some feel that he should not have continued bowling because of a back injury. Under the circumstances, it was felt, that another bowler would have done better. M. R. Singh finished with three wickets for 0 runs.

Sydenham score narrow tennis win over Avoca

By EBRAHIM OSMAN

IN the opening round of the 1963 tennis league competition Sydenham scored a narrow victory over the more fancied Avoca side by five matches to four. Without Luckraj, there was a marked imbalance about the Avoca side. Their experimental pairing of the Persadh brothers—V. and G.—failed to click and this probably swung the match Sydenham's way.

By contrast, the other matches were all one-sided affairs. Central proved too strong for the Avoca "B" side and won 5—0; Royal beat Moonlighters "B" and Umzinto, the home team, playing their first match in the "A" scored a convincing victory over M. L. Sultan "B". Moonlighters "A," the early favourites for the league crown, overwhelmed newcomers M. L. Sultan "A" by 9 matches to nil.

On Sunday, Central will be at home to Avoca I in what should be a key league match. If Avoca are still without Luckraj, they might find the more balanced Central side too strong. For Central, Ally and Naran and veterans D. Laljee and R. S. Moodley form two fairly strong pairs, capable of beating the best.

Avoca may decide to pin their hopes on a strong first pair in Ramlakan and V. Persadh. But this could easily make the other two pairs much weaker. If, however, Luckraj is fit to play, Avoca could have the edge.

Other fixtures are (home teams first): Avoca "B" v. Sydenham; M. L. Sultan "B" v. Royal; Umzinto v. Sultan "A." 3 p.m.

Successful netball season

The Maritzburg and District Netball Association ended a successful inaugural season and the quality of play was most promising. League games were played at the Pietermaritzburg Indian Girls' High School and at Northdale Stadium.

This was disclosed by Miss K. Haffejee in her presidential address to the Association's first annual meeting held last Saturday.

Miss Haffejee was re-elected president, Miss S. Rajaram and Mrs. C. Phillips are joint secretaries and Miss S. Moodley is the treasurer.

There is room for more clubs and those interested are asked to contact Miss Haffejee at her home address, 338 Victoria Road, or to telephone her, 14928, after 5 p.m.

Pretos Fruit for Umkomaas handicap

By "Ambassador"

THERE are nine races on the programme for the Clairwood Turf Club's race meeting on Saturday at the Suburban Course, Clairwood.

The chief attraction will be the Umkomaas Handicap Top ... run over one mile. Several of the runners look dangerous, but I will side with Pretos Fruit, Elixir and Involved.

Elixir has been away from ... for some time. Never the less he was a great performer before his long spell. Taking into account his past record, he is capable of causing an upset.

Pretos Fruit is a game little ... who has impressed over all distances. He should not be found wanting if he is in good physical condition.

SOCCER PREVIEW

MARITZBURG DERBY WILL BE "DO-OR-DIE" GAME

"Leader" Staff Reporter

THE local derby at the Royal Showgrounds, Pietermaritzburg, between Lincoln City and Maritzburg City is a "do-or-die" game, according to an official of Maritzburg City. Mr. M. Allie, the manager of Maritzburg City said: "Both our teams have met twice—once in the first round of the league and again in the second round—and on both occasions we drew. We will hate to see this happen again. There must be a definite decision and we are leaving nothing undone to see that the scales swing in our favour."

In the past this fixture has turned the town into something like a carnival. Streets, homes and business places were gaily decorated in the colours of the club which the individuals supported and virtually the whole town prepared itself for the game. Such is the interest and the enthusiasm in this match.

Nothing less is expected this weekend. Each one is trying to outdo the other in so far as decorations and flags are concerned. Women and girls are in fact getting ready dresses and saris in the appropriate colours.

The match itself promises plenty of thrills. Lincoln City gained a good victory (over Coastals) in good time to give them some chance against Maritzburg City, while Maritzburg did themselves some disservice by losing to a team like Berea.

The league table shows that Maritzburg only enjoys a two-point advantage over Lincoln and both of them have played seven games. This by comparison is not a satisfactory performance on the part of Maritzburg City—a team that won the national knock-out cup.

Mr. Allie, Maritzburg's manager, was confident of victory. "We are out to win and nothing will deter us. Not even the 5-4 defeat at the hands of Berea.

Lincoln City is also equally confident. "Our side is in first class condition and on present form we cannot be beaten. But things happen in soccer as in every other game," an official said. "Whether we win or lose, we will put up a good show."

Maritzburg Hotspurs, the previously unbeaten side, have now been accepted by the League as a second division side and they play the first match against Maritzburg United in the curtain raiser a 11.20 p.m.

IN DURBAN

Moroka Swallows will be in Durban this week-end for the match against Berea. Swallows' colours are flying high and they are the only Transvaal side with an unbeaten record in the competition this season. They come with a strong side. They will have to be doubly sure of themselves, especially because of Berea's fine win over Maritzburg City. In fact Carlton Moloi of Swallows was in Durban watching the Berea and City match.

If the Durban side play as they did last week, Swallows will have to fight hard to win. Links Padayachee and Zindela should again prove extremely useful to a team that is desperately struggling for the points.

NATALSPRUIT

There are two matches again in Transvaal this Saturday. At 3.30 Orlando Pirates play Real Fighters and Blackpool United take on Transvaal United at 1.30

Record crowd expected for Ngidi-Hlathi fight

By C. G. MOODLEY

INDICATIONS are that a very big crowd will watch the non-title bout between Joe Ngidi, the South African welter- and middleweight boxing champion, and Battling "Bush" Hlati, from the Transvaal, under floodlights at the Showgrounds in Pietermaritzburg on May 4.

Interest is mounting over the fight because it is the first non-White professional boxing tournament held in Pietermaritzburg in two years and because of the novelty of it being in the open air under floodlights.

Hlathi has an impressive record while campaigning in Rhodesia, Portuguese East Africa, and in his native Transvaal. That is the reason why he has been rated number two contender for Ngidi's crown and he is reported fighting fit by his manager, Benjamin Jele.

Ngidi is training at the Edendale YMCA. In his last fight at Ladysmith, he k.o.'d Joe Flash in the eighth round of a scheduled 10 round bout.

If Ngidi loses, he has promised to stake his crown against Hlathi.

Both boxers are confident that their non-title fight on Saturday night will not last the distance.

Main supporting bout on promoter Nimrod Tetswayo's bill is a "grudge" fight between Chester Blaster from Durban and Elias Ntshangase of Pietermaritzburg.

The other matchings are (bantamweight) Ahmed Haffejee (Tvl.) v. Nicholas Cele (Pmb.), featherweight — Cyril Moorhead (Pmb.) v. Joseph Mkhize (Dbn.), Tommy Leonard (Pmb.) v. Sam Radebe (Dbn.); Moses Ndaba (Pmb.) v. Petros Hlongwane Joshua (Pmb.) v. Moses Bhengu (Dbn.). Booking is at J. F. King's in Pietermaritzburg and at Burma House in Durban.

Buses for all suburban routes are available after the fights.

NARROW WIN FOR AVALON AT CAPE

AVALON ATHLETIC triumphed over Cape Ramblers by the narrow margin of two goals to one, on Saturday afternoon, at the Green Point Track, Cape Town, before a poor crowd of about 2,000.

Avalon did, however, please Cape fans for the first time, playing sparkling football, unlike their two matches when they lost with dismal performances.

Soby "Scara" Wanda was the best forward on the field, conspicuous with his brilliant ball-control, and weaving runs which had the home defence guessing. Both goals were scored by him, one from a penalty when Swartz handled in the box early in the second half.

For Ramblers young Derrick Sassman, in the goals, played a superb game, making daring and spectacular saves. The rest of the team played much improved soccer, but glaring defects among the forwards was noticeable.

SITTERS MISSED

Besides Cousins and Plooner nobody looked dangerous, whilst Belgiums had his worst game passing a number of sitters.

Phaeton M'than has also seen better days, while Francis was given little scope by Dagnin. It was a fine kick by Dagnin that brought Ramblers' goal, netted by Stuurman for the equaliser. Five minutes from the end Avalon snatched victory, when Wanda found the net after a goal scrimmage.

Hearts and Ace s thrill crowds with good soccer

"Leader" Sports Staff

HEARTS kept to form and Berea surprised the crowd with brilliant victories over Aces United and Maritzburg City in the two league matches played in Durban on Sunday. Hearts special weekend training some 20 miles from Durban paid handsome dividends in a 3—0 victory over the joint league champions, while Berea gained an unexpected but well-deserved 5—4 win over City. Berea were leading 3—0 at the end of the first half.

Berea got into their stride early in the game and played a game which they have not equalled this season. The fleet-footed Links Padayachee made a good attempt in the opening minutes to score but the ball just slipped past the posts. Although M. M. Freddy was quick to take a shot he too failed, but Zindela was there to let Berea take a 1-0 lead. Berea's centre forward worked the ball towards the goals beautifully and netted the second goal, but learnt to his disappointment that he was ruled off-side.

FREE KICK

Berea was awarded a free kick near the half line for a foul. Links tried a long range kick and the ball fell almost at the foot of Zindela and very near City's goals. Zindela had no difficulty in netting this. In the 35th minute Links Padayachee strengthened Berea's chances with the third goal.

The game was resumed after half-time with the Durban side enjoying a 3-0 advantage. City were not going to take things lying down and they fought back with grim determination. In a goalmouth scramble Vassie Govindsamy made a bid to score and the ball hit a player and shot into the net. Links had the crowd cheering when he scored the fourth goal direct from a corner kick (4-1). City got their second goal through Bomber Chamane. Bomber scored another but the linesman was waving his flag for off-side. Meanwhile the referee had allowed the goal. The moments were tense when the referee had a quick consultation with the linesman. City supporters were pleased when the goal was allowed to stand. The score at this stage was 4-3 in favour of the visitors. The third goal within three minutes came when Freddy increased Berea's total to five (5-3).

The spectators expressed loud disappointment when Links Padayachee fell in the penalty box—apparently tripped by an opposing player. Bomber Chamane put further excitement into the game when he scored another goal—leaving Maritzburg to score one more goal for a draw.

TENSE FINISH

With two minutes still left for play, City placed some hopes on a corner but this failed. Shortly afterwards City missed a brilliant opportunity to equalise when Vassie kicked just above the bar. The match ended with Berea winning 5-4.

HEARTS v. UNITED

Both Hearts and Aces United played cautiously in the first forty minutes, although they played entertaining soccer. After about 10 minutes play Lionel Hommel, who was obviously injured, was replaced by former Lincoln City's Horace.

Hearts kept their opponents at bay and United were, in fact, completely at loss against this once bottom of the league side.

MISSED PENALTY

Aces United's first chance to score came through a penalty. While Heart's 'keeper held the ball Gava Ellis attempted to score. At this stage Mackie Nair tackled Ellis unfairly and the referee awarded a penalty. But Zen Zeni kicked the ball out.

The first goal came from a Heart's corner netted by Boycie Zungu in the last minute before interval. Almost immediately Sonnie Morgan, Aces United, missed a certain goal when the ball hit the bar and returned to the field.

In the fifteenth minute of the second half, Saba Wellington passed the ball to Pimpi Sithole and Sithole netted for Hearts second goal. Five minutes later Ace Godfrey scored another to give Hearts a well-deserved 3-0 victory.

MOLOI HAS NEW JOB

CARLTON MOLOI of Moroka Swallows was in Durban on a special mission on Sunday. He was here to watch closely the techniques adopted by Hearts.

Hearts are billed to meet Moroka Swallows in Johannesburg on Saturday week.

At the same time Carlton was able to see Berea beat Maritzburg City.

Mr. Jaroslav Houba, the international tennis coach, has returned to Durban to coach for the season. He spent some time in Europe studying teaching techniques. Mr. Houba is pictured with a group of small but enthusiastic pupils from St. Anthony's School, Durban.

Lincoln coast to 5-1 win over Coastals

LINCOLN CITY coasted to a 5—1 victory over Coastals in the SASL before the smallest crowd of the season at the Show grounds in Pietermaritzburg last Sunday afternoon.

When the first half ended with the scores level at 1—1, nobody dreamt of the debacle that was to follow. In fact, many spectators expected a Coastals victory so well did the visitors play in the first half.

But, on second thoughts, Lincoln might well have doubled their victory margin had they fielded their regular side. As it was, Bophela turned out at inside left with Thiri Rampath leading the attack.

It was a sad afternoon for the ex-Lincoln City goalkeeper, Ajith Singh, now with Coastals. He will surely rue this match because he might have saved two of the shots that beat him.

Lincoln were a goal up in the first minute when Henry Oliver collected a Nzimande pass and raced through to beat Singh. After a spell of desultory football, Bobby Naidoo scored the equaliser from close in.

So the teams changed ends on even terms.

Coastals missed many chances after the interval by bunching together or being frequently caught off side. Ten minutes into the second half Nzimande put Lincoln two up—his first kick bouncing off Singh out of his charge.

Then when Bophela's hot-blooded shot was [illegible] defender, Thiri Rampath was at hand to score. Oliver closed the game off a Nzimande corner kick.

The Football Association of Maritzburg made an inauspicious start to its new season on [illegible] day, when neither Britannia nor Royals could field senior sides against Thistle and Young [illegible]ians respectively.

In the junior division Young Rangers beat M. L. Sultan 2—[illegible] and Tech beat Royals 7—[illegible]. Shamrocks beat Rovers [illegible]. Thistle beat Railway [illegible] in the junior league competition.

Pietermaritzburg Coloured soccer results on Saturday were: Hearts 6, Callies 2; Greens [illegible]; McGregors 0, Railway 2; [illegible] mos 2.

Women's hockey: Coastals 0, Oceans 0; Alston A 2, Hearts [illegible]; Alston B 2, Dynamos 2.

Sports Ass'n appeal

"Leader" Reporter

AN appeal for unity from the various affiliated organisations was made in the annual report presented by the secretary of the Merebank Sports Association at the annual meeting held last Sunday.

"Although it is two years old, the Sports Association is still very much in its infancy and its success depends entirely on the delegates", said the secretary. "Your sincere friendship and co-operation will enable the Association to achieve its aims and objects. My appeal to you, therefore, is to remain united as only a strong team can carry this organisation through its difficult years."

Mr R. Govindsamy (president), Mr. R. Hemraj (secretary) and Mr. C. Soobramoney Naidoo (treasurer) were re-elected. Mr. H. Sunker is the new record clerk.

Refs demand recognition

"Leader" Reporter

DELEGATES to the annual meeting of the Natal Indian Referees' Association, held in Pietermaritzburg on Sunday, considered that an injustice was being done to them by the appointment of only "White" referees and linesmen by the South African Soccer League.

There were many non-White referees who were on a par with "White" referees, and the meeting decided to seek recognition by the SASL.

In his secretarial report, Mr. Trevor Moodley suggested that the name "Indian" be deleted from the Association's title so as to fall in line with integrated sport.

He also mentioned the difficulties experienced in appointing referees for matches played throughout Natal. The solution, he suggested, was the demarcation of the Province into southern and northern Natal.

While more referees were urgently needed, the report criticised the apathy of district referees' associations in continuing membership of the Provincial organisation.

The following officials were elected at the meeting: Patron, Mr. S. Williams; president, Mr. L. S. Moodley; vice-presidents, Messrs. Joe Moses, P. M. Pillay and George Ellary; secretary/treasurer, Mr. Trevor Moodley; auditor, Mrs. S. N. Reddy; nominee of FAN, Mr. Joe Moses; nominee on SAIRA, Mr. Joe Moses and L. S. Moodley.

SOCCER MATCH SCENE WITH PHOTOGRAPHER

LEADER photographer, Mr. Bala Govender, was bodily handled and thrown out of the Royal Showground last Sunday by a White official. This official is alleged to have handled Mr. Govender roughly and to have referred to him as a "coolie." The incident occurred when Lincoln City and Coastals played the league fixture. Mr. Govender afterwards stayed out of the ground and did not take any pictures.

Mr. Govender made several attempts to get an admission card to the ground during the last season but he was not successful. On Sunday last he went to Maritzburg to take some pictures at the ground. As he did not have a Press card or a complimentary ticket, he was refused permission to enter the ground. He told the official that any South African Soccer League official would be able to identify him, but the official refused to co-operate.

Then a Lincoln official took Mr. Govender into the ground with the knowledge of the White official but later he manhandled Mr. Govender. He thereafter refused to accept a complimentary ticket or the price of a ticket.

A report has been made to the League and a further report is to be presented to them. Mr. A. Tango, secretary of the South African Soccer League, has agreed to look into the matter.

YOUTHS BEATEN UP AT VARSITY

Kicked and flogged in locked room allegations

"Leader" Reporter

TWO youths who went to salvage timber from the floats abandoned by the University of Natal students after the Charity Rag float procession last Saturday week are alleged to have been severely assaulted by one of the caretakers at Howard College, Durban.

POOBALAM VARDEN

One of the boys, Gurusamy Chetty, aged 14, a Std. VII pupil at the Greyville Indian School, alleged that he was locked in a room in the servants' quarters for 45 minutes during which time he was throttled, slapped, and when he fell, kicked on the head, and beaten with a rope "whip."

His friend Poobalan Varden, 12, who is in Std. IV at the Manor Gardens School was more fortunate. He got off lightly with only a "whipping."

Gurusamy's mother, Mrs. Chetty, has reported the matter to the police and it is understood that the boy's school has submitted a report of the alleged incident to Dr. E. G. Malherbe, Principal of the University of Natal.

It is also believed that the supervisor has himself reported the case to the police.

Gurusamy told me that he had gone to Howard College to collect wood from floats which had been abandoned after the Rag float procession. It had become the practice for many residents in the area to go to the college grounds each year and salvage whatever they could from the floats. Nobody had said anything to them, and nor were they prevented from helping themselves.

Gurusamy had gone alone to collect wood for the kitchen fire. He had collected a good quantity of timber which he had loaded onto a wooden wheelbarrow made by the students. And as he was making his way through the college grounds he saw Poobalan also with a load of planks and called out to him to join him.

As the two friends neared the gates the caretaker called them. Gurusamy said that he was not afraid as he did not think he had

Minister says flats must be converted to shops, offices

MR. A. K. HOOSEN, a Durban businessman, will have to convert his block of 15 luxury flats in 86 Lorne Street, into shops and offices if he wants the Minister of Community Development to consider "sympathetically" an application for a permit to enable the Indian group to occupy the premises.

This is indicated in a letter received by Mr. Hoosen from the Department of Community Development, in reply to an appeal he made to the Minister against a decision of the department asking him to wait a further two years before it could decide whether to issue the permit.

The letter states: "I refer to the appeal against the Minister's delegate's decision to postpone the determination in respect of flats on the first, second and third floors of the building in 86 Lorne Street for a period of two years from July 13, 1962, and to refuse the issue of a permit to occupy the flats and to inform you that the Minister has dismissed the appeal.

"The Minister," continued the letter, "has, however, indicated that applications for occupation permits in respect of individual Indians will receive sympathetic consideration if the flats are converted into shops and offices."

Mr. Hoosen told "The Leader": "Conversion is impossible at this stage as the building has already been constructed. The flats are built in such a way that they could be used by any racial group. All that I ask is that the authorities grant me a permit with a time limit if necessary."

A surprising feature of the whole transaction, Mr Hoosen said, was that while he was being persistently refused the permit, even a temporary one, some individuals and organisations, which have put up buildings or extended them by a few storeys, were given temporary occupation permits. These buildings were not far from the one in question, and yet they were given the permits.

In the meantime, Mr. Hoosen is losing thousands of rand a year in rents, rates and interest on his R60,000 building. Added to this was the fact that the unoccupied block has now become turned into a vice den by undesirable elements.

He has also sustained heavy losses at the hands of vagrants who have broken several doors, windows, and blackened the walls of the flats inside by building fireplaces inside.

PASTOR ROWLANDS BACK FROM INDIA

Went, saw and conquered

HE went, he saw and he conquered the hearts and souls of thousands in South India and Ceylon. His name? Who else but bald, Bristol-born and genial Pastor J. F. Rowlands, founder and spiritual head of the Bethesda Temple Organisation of South Africa.

The pastor returned to Durban after a hectic three-month tour of Madras and Ceylon, where he held mammoth crusades several companies at Bethesda general branches established there.

His missionary zeal bubbling over the brim, Pastor Rowlands with his characteristic humility, charm and magnetic personality, captured even the heart of a member of the modern Dravida Munnetra Kazhagam (DMK), a political organisation. He is now waiting to be baptised.

GIFTED SHEPHERD

A report in the Madras Weekly from Lucas St Salmon of Irvine Independent Tabernacle of Madras, says:

"It would be an understatement if I failed to mention that Pastor Rowlands's visit in no small degree the success of the Madras Crusade. Pastor Rowlands is a gifted shepherd of souls. Both of us enjoyed the fellowship and prayer together. We need an army of such men."

All of a sudden our beloved Pastor's eyes noticed a student reading in the park and started a conversation with him. He belonged to a political party which denies God. As a result of this contact he attended all the services and now he is desirous of taking Christ.

The members of Bethesda congregation at the Independent in Carlisle Street, Durban, are holding a reception for him on Sunday, May 12.

Not enough industries to absorb students

MR. G. DELAMONEY, president of the Natal Technical Teachers' Association, said at the weekend that there were not sufficient Indian industrial undertakings in the Province to absorb the large number of students graduating from the M. L. Sultan Technical College's division of technology.

He also expressed concern at the lack of facilities for apprenticeship training for Indians, with the result that suitable employment for technically trained Indians was far from satisfactory.

"There is no doubt that with the prospects of good industrial growth in Natal there would be increasing need for trained personnel. With the adequate Indian facilities at our institutions we are doing a great disservice to our technical students. I hope that the authorities will do what they can to remedy the position."

Referring to Indian voting strength, Mr. Delamoney said: "With the ever-mounting cost of living and the increased demands made on the Indian family, it is now becoming more and more imperative that our women have to seek employment to assist in the family budget. Hence it is incumbent upon us to see that proper training facilities are created for their education and training so as to enable them to obtain this much-needed employment."

Unwed mothers-parents to blame

SIR,—I read with great interest Mrs. Ramasar's article under the heading, "Plea for sensible approach to problem of unwed mothers," in your paper dated 26-4-63. I do not wish to debate on this topic, but now that Mrs. Ramasar is looking forward to a solution I thought I would give my opinion.

In her article Mrs. Ramasar says that "most girls become victims of situations which they themselves created." Though I agree with Mrs. Ramasar, I do not think it is right for us to blame the girls alone. I feel the parents themselves stand for a major criticism.

It is the duty of the parents to teach their children the path of righteousness so that they may grow into good men and women of tomorrow. But how many of our parents do so? Without any hesitation I would say the number is drastically low. In many cases the parents feel that in sending their children to school they have achieved a major goal, and thereafter they do not have to look towards the discipline of the child, but leave everything in the able hands of the teacher. I must say this is the greatest mistake parents make. We must realise that the child spends only a fraction of a day with the teacher (five hours) and during this period he is entrusted with so many lessons that it becomes difficult to give personal attention to each individual. As a result of this the child soon drifts away and begins imitating her adults. As soon as the child grows into girlhood the parent feels that their daughter is now grown up.

FILM INFLUENCE

It is at this stage the girl, who was left free, now wishes to undergo the same experiences which she learnt from her adults, like going out to the cinemas accompanied by some "gay lothario." While mentioning the cinema I must not dispute the fact that today 72 per cent of our films, both in the English and Indian categories, exert a tremendous influence in delinquency. You will have noticed that most Indian films are based on the "girls meet boys" theme, where you find them singing in gay abandonment, the objections from the parents and finally a happy marriage.

There may be many other causes too innumerable to mention, but I must emphasise that the blame rests mostly with the parents.

Yours, etc.,
"ALL RIGHT."

MEANING OF THE BIBLE

Sir, — In reply to your correspondent O. M. Seepye's letter of April 20, it would be just as well that he knew the Holy Bible (which he professes to know so well) is essentially a library of religious literature containing scientific facts and philosophical principles. It is neither a scientific text book nor a philosophic treatise. The nature of its declaration is primarily religious and there are declarations conveying God and man and the inter-relationship between them. It is spiritual in that it produces a belief in the life which lies beyond the present. Wherever men have come to this Book, they have been diligent students obeying its first and simplest calls following in the paths of obedience as to teachings.

It is true there have been people like "O. M. Seepye" who have discovered immoralities and indecencies in the Bible. The answer to such statements is that no man, woman or child has ever come to the honest study of this wonderful Book. Admittedly the Bible is religious in the best sense of the word, because of the effect it produces, and it is well that critics calmly inquire whether it is conceivable that an untrue book can produce the result of truth, or a base book produce results so full of nobility, conduct and character.

Further it gives no pleasure to condemn or criticise sacred books of other religions.

Yours, etc.,
I. P. DAVID

Lavish weddings outdated

Sir, — May I take the opportunity of congratulating Mr. V. S. Naidu on his courageous stand on the question of marriage reform. Mr. Naidu has taken a bold step in introducing reforms for his sister's wedding.

The article is undoubtedly an eye-opener to the leaders of the Hindu community. I fully agree with Mr. Naidu in having a very short ceremony and restricting the invitations to a small number.

It must not be forgotten that the purchasing value of the rand has decreased considerably in the last 25 years. Further, with the present unemployment figures rising daily it is foolhardy to go ahead with outdated customs and lavish weddings.

Finally, may I add, in the Republic of South Africa no Hindu wedding has a legal force unless the couple are eventually married by the Protector of Indian Immigrants. So why waste money when, after a simple Hindu ceremony, the couple could easily procure a Marriage Certificate from the Protector's Office?

One must always remember the Marriage Certificate is the only thing that counts in the long run. It is hoped that others will also follow the footsteps of Mr. Naidu.

B. NAIDOO

Daughters-in law are too advanced

Sir, — The majority of daughters-in-law of today are too advanced. They all seem to have one thing in common. Most of them speak a lot of lies all the time, yet when elders and husbands are around then they respect them. The moment they leave, the Devil takes over. They tell their husbands they're gone shopping, but instead they are receiving cheap presents from every Tom Dick and Harry.

I think they should be forced to study religious matter and leave this type of galavanting alone.

AMIGO.

Muslims and the Koran

Sir,—Re "Reading the Koran like a Parrot," in fact I was quoting the "Muslim Digest," February 1963, page 67. The Muslim writer says: "Nowhere, I think, is the saying 'seeking wind and hearing leaf' applied more appropriately than in the case of Muslims and the Koran."

On page 68 he states: "What is the use of mere meaningless recital if it is not accompanied by comprehension." Does this not show that millions have died—millions alive who do not know that Allah required of them through the Koran?

Point 2—The Koran or the Bible?

The Koran is the work of one period and one man. The Bible contains the testimonies of Moses, Isaiah, Jeremiah, etc., which cover thousands of years and culminates in Jesus Christ.

If the Koran is of God then it must agree to all the revelation of the Bible. That Christ is the Son of Mary—the Son of God — God the Son. Prophet Mohammed confirms the truth: "Verily we have sent down the Law (Taurat) and the Evangel wherein are guidance and light." (Sura v. 48).

The Koran is supposed to be the word of God. Tradition says 225 verses have been abrogated (cancelled). How can Allah make a mistake in what He said before?

The Moslems are descendants of Ishmael, now, God rejected Ishmael but Isaac, Abraham's true son, He blessed. Our Lord Jesus Christ to fulfil this prophesy, was the promised Prophet-Priest and King. For He came from Ismael.

CHARLES ALEXANDER.

A PAID attendance of [illegible] people watched Lincoln City crack their Maritzburg [illegible] "hoodoo" with a resounding [illegible] victory at the Showgrounds on Sunday afternoon. Add to this number the complimentary ticket holders and members of the teams who played in the curtain-raiser, the total attendance set up a new ground record.

Women supporters lent [illegible] to the occasion by sporting [illegible] and blouses or dresses in the colours of red, white and [illegible] for Lincoln City and blue and white for Maritzburg City.

The Lincoln team looked smart in their brand new [illegible] and white jerseys and [illegible] and Maritzburg City were a sprightly lot in blue and white.

Comic relief was provided by a five-minute each way game between supporters of the two clubs. City turned out in regulation jerseys but Lincoln [illegible] in shirts, long pants [illegible] and some with bare feet.

Mystery of increasing number of missing persons

THE Indian community of Durban, consistently dogged by the grim unemployment position, the spectre of poverty, lack of housing, the inadequacy of educational facilities, and the uncertainty of tenure in the land of their birth, is faced with yet another problem — that of the ever-increasing corps of missing persons.

But for the tragedy that underlines them all, the spate of mysterious disappearances of these individuals could be a source of lively material for a South African Agatha Christie.

While a few have been found, in strange circumstances, there are still others of whom there have been no trace at all. Some have been missing since January this year and their whereabouts or what had happened to them is still a source of mystery.

Mr Johnny Govender, 22, who disappeared from his home in January, is now given up for dead by his friends and relatives. It is understood that he was involved in a gang fight prior to his disappearance.

South African goalkeeper, Mr. V. C. Moodley, a 38-year-old father of six children, of Newlands, has not yet been found since he was missing from his home more than a month ago. He was suffering from loss of memory, and just walked off from his home. Despite an organised search for him in the dense bushes adjoining his house by a party of sportsmen, and also a search throughout the country by both the police and volunteers, his whereabouts still remain a mystery.

Some members of his family feel that he might have died of hunger, for when he disappeared he had not eaten for nearly 10 days.

Meanwhile his wife and children and other members of his family await with hope and expectancy for his safe return.

Harrisingh Sahitram Singh, a 25-year-old youth of Merebank, who suffered from nervous breakdowns, and whose practice it was to be missing from his home for days on occasions, dived into the sea at the Reunion cutting on the South Coast, in full view of bathers and never came up again. He was missing from his home for a day, when the sad news of his tragic death reached his parents at about midnight.

Among those who disappeared and who were found or came back under baffling circumstances were an 85-year-old man of Clairwood, and two children aged 15 and 16 years.

Ropers Jacob, of Cato Manor, walked away from his place of employment in a beachfront restaurant and his distraught parents awaited his return for nearly four weeks, after having made exhaustive and endless inquiries at homes of friends, relatives, and at hospitals, mortuaries and every conceivable place. Then the youngster made a dramatic appearance with the story that he went for a "ride" to Johannesburg in a friend's car.

He told his parents that he was lost in the golden city and walked all the way to a relative's home in Northern Natal, who then sent him home. Beyond that the parents were not able to pry into the mystery of his disappearance and his re-appearance.

Then there was the case of 14-year-old Ismail Mahomed Laher, who wandered off after having lunch about two weeks ago and was not found until last week. His parents, who live in Victoria Street, spent days and nights trying to locate his whereabouts.

A week later his parents received word that he was picked up in Cape Town by members of a Muslim society there, after a description of the missing boy was published in a newspaper in the peninsula. How he got to Cape Town is still a mystery to the parents, for the boy would not give details.

Mr. Ramalingam "Cook" Moodley, 85, of Sir Kurma Reddi Road, Clairwood, left home at about 7 o'clock on the morning of April 17 for his usual walk. Four days later he was picked up by a driver of a bakery van who fortunately knew him, near Beachwood in the Umgeni area, walking towards Durban North.

No one is yet able to find out where Mr Moodley stayed in the interim, as he is still suffering from amnesia. When found he had lost his trousers and was in his underpants.

Durban actor returning to India for film work

"Leader" Reporter

MR. SWAMIVEL PILLAY, the Durban actor, who made a name for himself in South India a few years ago by appearing in films and on the stage there, will be going back to India in September this year to become a fully-fledged screen actor.

He has been given tempting offers by some of the Tamil screen's top producers to appear in their productions. Bharatha Dasan Films have offered him a first payment of 20,000 rupees (about R2,500) to appear in a major role in their "Pandiyan Parisu" (The King's Gift), now awaiting shooting in Madras.

Added to this he has received offers from Virutha N. Ramsamy Films' "Thalapathi", Karudasi Pictures' "Thangaan Yen Thangam", and Krishna Movies' "Avanom or Manithan."

Mr. Pillay first went to India to study dramatics and stage techniques under distinguished teachers in Madras in 1960. He worked under Viruthai N. Ramsamy, learning some of the intricate techniques of stagecraft, including lighting and special effects, as well as playwriting. During his studies he was spotted by a touring dramatic company and appeared on the stage in bit parts for the T.K.S. [illegible], one of the best-known [illegible] producers of South India.

BORN ACTOR

Subsequently he was given a chance on the screen and proved himself to be a born actor [illegible] the medium of celluloid. He was hailed by critics and the [illegible] and "Pesum Padam", one of South India's leading film magazines, spoke well of his performances. Some of the films he appeared in include "[illegible] Samathu", "Nella Muhurtam" and "Gonam Irundhal Kodi [illegible]".

Mr. Pillay would not have achieved his ambition had it not been for the Clare Estate and Vishnu Temple Trust which financed his first trip and paid tuition expenses while [illegible] in Madras.

The September trip is being financed by several Durban businessmen who, seeing his possibilities as a film star, have voluntarily booked his passage.

Vice-President receives hon. doctorate in Cairo

MORE than three thousand people from all walks of life attended a colourful ceremony at Cairo University recently at which an an honorary doctorate was conferred on Vice-President Dr. Zakir Hussain.

Welcoming the Vice-President, the University Rector, Dr. Ahmed Badawi, remarked: "Welcome to you in your own home. Welcome to you in the country we know you love as much as you love your own country. And greetings to you from the people who reciprocate love for love, sincerity for sincerity, and share with your people the noblest, the trust and the loftiest of human sentiments.

"Indeed our pains are common, our hopes and aspirations are common and our targets and aims are one and the same. More than 30 years ago, India's immortal leader Mahatma Gandhi passed by the shores of Egypt on the way to the Round Table Conference. To him went the hearts of people of this country and the soul of Egypt fled to him, blessing his noble message and finding in it the hopes of the entire East for freedom and peace".

TRIBUTES

Paying rich tributes to Dr Hussain and his achievements the Rector observed: "This prime university of the people is indeed deeply gratified and highly honoured, knowing as it does your lofty principles and excellent human qualities and your genuine efforts in the cause of truth, to confer on you an honorary doctorate."

In the course of his reply, Dr. Hussain referred to Indo-Arab relations and contacts between the two countries which were of far reaching cultural significance. He pointed out that the advent of Islam and the message of the Prophet of Arabia introduced a new dimension into Indian life and influenced it tremendously.

He said: "The catholicity of the message and the great assimilative quality of Indian genius joined to create a situation of great cultural significance. Even today, after the unfortunate partition of the Indian sub-continent, India has no less than 50 million Muslim citizens, the third largest Muslim population in the world. They are placed in an interesting creative situation from which one can promise oneself significant development. In history, Muslims have either ruled exclusively in a country or have been ruled by non-Muslims. Here 50 million Muslim citizens of India are co-rulers with their countrymen of other faiths in a secular democracy. This new situation will, I feel, make them contribute significantly to a cultural synthesis of great value."

Stressing the importance of co-operation as the ideal for the future, the Vice President said: "This ideal is needed to give life its direction and its vigour. This was given to my people by one of the greatest men of our times, Mahatma Gandhi, and is elaborated and sustained by our distinguished President Dr. Radhakrishnan and our Prime Minister Nehru.

"It has been given to you by your great President Gamal Abdel Nasser who symbolises in his transparent sincerity, his great earnestness his iron determination, his utter impatience with all that corrodes and corrupts people's souls, his passionate devotion to the ideal of peace and social justice — who symbolises, I say, the spirit of the rising Arab people.

"He has given you the vision of a united Arab based on clean and firm foundations of social justice and fair play. It is this vision which will lead you forward."

SAFETY SIGNS FOR MEREWENT SCHEME

FOLLOWING representations by the Merebank Tenants' Welfare Association, and an on-the-spot inspection of roads in the Merebank area, the Acting Chief Constable of Durban, Mr. L. Busby, has informed Mr. G. Tommy, secretary of the association, that "School" and "Keep Left" signs would be erected at appropriate places in the Merewent housing scheme.

Mr. Busby said that the "School" signs would be erected near the Indian schools in the area, while a "Keep left" sign would be erected on the island in Buldana Road.

Mr. Tommy also went with Mr. A. R. Sandwith, of the Road Safety Council on an inspection of the area. According to him, Mr. Sandwith felt strongly about the Marine Drive bus terminus, which he said constituted a danger to the residents.

NEW ROUTES

Mr. Tommy told "The Leader" that he would suggest the terminus be moved to the corner of Buldana and Travancore Drive.

He further suggested that it would save the residents a lot of confusion and ease their difficulties if all the buses serving the Marine Drive, Warangal Road and Happy Valley routes used the same routes in the housing scheme near the oil refinery — that is, along Badoullah Drive, Warangal Road, Buldana Road — instead of the various routes presently taken by some of the buses.

Honours for doctors

AN Indian and an African were among the doctors who successfully sat for the South African College of Physicians, Surgeons and Gynaecologists' examinations held in Cape Town at the end of April.

Dr. M. G. H. Mayat was awarded a Fellowship of the College of Obstetrics and Gynaecology. There were five candidates and he was one of the two who passed.

Dr. G. Ngkane obtained a diploma in Obstetrics and Gynaecology. He graduated at the Durban Medical School and is at present in the Department of Obstetrics. He is married to Dr. Lutuli, daughter of ex-chief Lutuli.

Apprentice pharmacists making history

THREE Durban youths are making history by becoming the first batch of Indians to serve as apprentice pharmacists in the various chemist establishments in the city.

They are Mr. A. V. D. Makan, who is employed at the King Edward VIII Hospital pharmacy, and Mr. Ashok Patel and Mr. Yakoob Essop Manjoo, who are serving their apprenticeship in two of the city's leading pharmacies.

A Rhodes University student, Mr. Makan, is the first Indian in South Africa to become an apprentice. He began at the hospital in January, 1962, and has another seven months to complete his two years' apprenticeship before he proceeds to Rhodes to write his final examinations which takes another two years.

After matriculating at Sastri College, Mr. Makan went to Fort Hare and obtained his B.Sc. degree. Thereafter he proceeded to Rhodes University and studied for the B.Sc. (Pharmacy) degree.

Mr. Ashok Patel matriculated at the Stanger Indian High School. After completing his first year as a B.Sc (Pharmacy) student he is now doing his two years' apprenticeship before going to Rhodes to complete the course.

Mr. Yakoob Essop Manjoo is a student of the Indian University College. After completing his apprenticeship he will complete the course at the college.

MORE AVENUES

The apprentices have been recommended by the Natal Pharmaceutical Society for apprenticeship.

It is hoped by leading members of the community that other avenues, which were hitherto closed for Indians, will be thrown open for Indians.

Opportunity for all in India—Nehru

ADDRESSING a public meeting at Raipur last week, Prime Minister Nehru declared that India would always remain a nation in which all communities would enjoy equal opportunities to pursue their faith. India has been and will be a country where every one, irrespective of his religion, would be able to live peacefully and follow his religion, he added.

The Prime Minister said he was happy to see the unity pervailing among the people when the country was facing threats from China. This was a good sign—to see people sinking their differences and uniting to fight a common enemy.

Mr. Nehru said that India never favoured any military alliance because such an alliance would have brought the country under the influence of others.

India's policy of non-alignment, he said, had paid dividends. Now she was receiving friendly assistance from the United Kingdom, America and some other countries without joining any power blocs.

ALERT

Mr. Nehru said China had attacked India for the obvious reason that it did not like any other Asian country to grow and develop faster than she could. The trouble with the Chinese was likely to continue for several years and, therefore, people should remain on the alert, he said.

Earlier, addressing steel workers at Bhilai, the Prime Minister said the Chinese had been making preparations to attack India for some years. India, on the other hand, was a peace-loving country and had been hurt by the Chinese attack to [illegible] take military preparations. [illegible] were not for attacking [illegible] only "to resist the [illegible] our soil," he said.

Referring to steel [illegible] Nehru said that the [illegible] country was [illegible] quantity of steel [illegible] country. Steel and [illegible] were two basic [illegible] make progress, he added.

LEADER OPINION

A WRONG DECISION

THE Durban City Council has decided that it cannot pay Indians on the basis of equal pay for equal work. In the words of the Mayor "We (the City Council) have got to have more than altruistic grounds to run this multi-racial City."

Now the demand for equal pay is not based on any altruistic grounds. The payment of lower wages to Indians who do the same work as Whites is sheer exploitation.

As Councillor Bolton pointed out, many non-Whites had higher educational qualifications than their White counterparts.

But Councillor Hardman who opposed equal pay said that "Indians as a general rule have a very much lower standard of living than the Europeans."

True, but what is the cause of this? Councillor Hardman should know that it is because they are not paid fair and equal wages that their standard of living is lower.

One argument used against the proposal for equal wages was that the Council could not afford doing so. This with a Council and City which spends thousands upon thousands of ratepayers' money in West Street chains and flower pots, beach amenities and other such luxuries for Whites!

THEY SHOULD TRY AND THINK UP ANOTHER ARGUMENT.

North coast trains

THE non-European Railway Passengers' Welfare Association is making urgent representations to the System [illegible] Durban, in connection with the curtailing of the train services on the North Coast line.

Mr. J. Bissoondeo [illegible] of the Association said the curtailment was seriously [illegible] the workers [illegible] North Coast, and it was essential that the full service be re-introduced immediately.

Candid Commentary . . . by Politicus

USING A HAMMER WHEN A SWATTER WOULD DO

THEY have made a Napoleon of Mr. Robert Sobukwe. Overnight he has become a martyr and a great name. In no time the Pan-African Congress has become a big name. Why?

In order to justify the assumption of emergency powers without actually declaring an emergency the Government must do everything to make the White man's blood curdle. It must keep them frightened and seemingly secure.

The PAC is a vociferous minority group of Africans who do not enjoy any appreciable support even among Africans. Unfortunately they have played into the hands of the Government, and the country finds itself where it is today.

The PAC's anti White and anti-Indian policy needs to be fought, but not by sledge-hammer methods, which bring disgrace to the country as a whole — because a country is judged by the calibre of its Government.

Unfortunately the Government prefers to use a sledge-hammer where a fly-swatter would have done.

Widowed mothers — drastic plight of children

THE plight of children of [illegible] widowed mothers, who receive State grants, has been reviewed in the secretarial report of the [illegible] Central local committee of the Durban Indian Child Welfare Society, tabled at the committee's ninth annual meeting last week.

The report says that the poor examination results obtained by grant-receiving children is due to the meagre maintenance grants paid to them.

The report says: "On analysing the examination results of our grantees' children invariably we find that they are very poor indeed. When we examine their home conditions we notice that they are really shocking and it is no wonder that the children cannot do any better at school. Very often they are undernourished and have not the physical strength to cope with the work.

"If these conditions are known to principals and teachers some special attention could be given to these poor children.

"These circumstances are due mainly to the meagre maintenance grants which are barely enough to feed and clothe the children, let alone educate them; unemployment of older children and inadequate remuneration our grantees receive from employment. Further when they do begin working their grants are decreased. One often wonders how they are able to exist under such conditions," says the report.

The report adds that although the grantees will be receiving a bonus this year, it is hoped that some substantial increase would be made to their grants in the near future in order to better the existing conditions.

CONTROLLING INFECTIOUS DISEASES

Chatsworth "doubling up" a health hazard—says report

IF a directive of the National Housing Commission that two families be accommodated in sub-economic houses to be built at Chatsworth, is implemented it will lead to a health hazard and a contravention of the Slums Act, says a report by the Durban City Council's Sub-Committee on Housing.

The report sets out the views of the Town Clerk, City Treasurer, City Engineer, Medical Officer of Health, and the City Electrical Engineer.

Dr. C. B. Mackenzie, the Acting Medical Officer of Health, is concerned over the public health aspect of accommodating two families—about fifteen people on an average—in four-roomed houses, particularly from the point of view of controlling infectious diseases.

SCHOOL SHORTAGE

"Under the 'doubling-up' directive the density of population may well be higher than the maximum laid down in the Slums Act", says the report. "The resulting increased density of population will cause a serious shortage of schools, open spaces, recreational and other facilities, and will accentuate difficulties in providing sewerage, transport and other services."

Dealing with a suggestion that the development of Chatsworth be accelerated, the officials say that it is not practicable to complete the scheme before the middle of 1967 as originally envisaged.

"Even if it were possible to increase the building rate from 4,000 houses a year to, say, 5,000, the overall saving in time would not be more than about nine months.

"It is unlikely that the Southern Sewerage Works will be ready until about 1965, and it would be unwise to accelerate the development of Chatsworth before then. Even under the present programmes for Chatsworth and Umlazi it appears that a crisis will arise within the next two years in regard to the capacity of the South Coast Road to carry the daily bus traffic from these two major schemes. Acceleration of the development of the township will also strain the provision of other services," adds the report.

No change in India's non-alignment policy

MRS. INDIRA GANDHI, who is now visiting the United States, told the National Broadcasting Corporation in New York last week that the Chinese invasion of India had not brought about any change in India's policy of non-alignment, but it seemed to have brought about changes in the world's alignment policies. On the one side there was a growing split between China and the Soviet Union and on the other one of America's allies, Pakistan, was flirting with China.

Mrs. Gandhi said the return of Indian prisoners by the Chinese did not given any indication, one way or the other, about Communist China's future intentions. Their return was, however, very welcome to India, particularly because the Chinese had allowed no contacts with the prisoners either through the International or India Red Cross. The Chinese, she said, were concentrating troops along the border and their diplomatic notes were becoming acrimonious. So, there was no way of predicting what would happen when the snows melt in the Himalayas.

DIVISION

She said the Chinese would very much like India to align herself closely with the West. If India were to do so, then there would be a division between India and other countries of South-East Asia and they would move closer to the communist camp. "As it is, with non-alignment," she said, India was able to hold them all together.

"Forever my love"

Impressive scenes in Romantic drama

THE romantic love life of the Emperor of Austria and his eventual marriage to Princess Elizabeth is colourfully depicted in "Forever My Love," the new Paramount release which opens at the Raj Cinema next week.

This true-life tale had captured the hearts of cinemagoers wherever it was shown. It ran for 12 weeks in Johannesburg, nine weeks in Cape Town and a record-breaking five weeks in Durban.

Acclaimed a second "Student Prince", this gay film recreates a colourful romantic slice of history in the life of Franz Joseph.

In the summer of 1853 messages of congratulations had already been prepared by all courts of Europe, so certain was everyone that the young ruler would comply with his mother's plan and marry Princess Helene.

But for the first time in his life, Franz Joseph openly defied court conventions and political intrigue and chose Elizabeth, Helene's sister, with whom he had fallen in love, as his bride.

Here is an enjoyable screen romance photographed in Technicolour amid some historical settings in Vienna. Romy Schneider portrays the role of Princess Elizabeth and fills the screen with her grace and charm. Co-starred with her is Karl Boehm, who gives an outstanding performance as the Emperor of Austria, Franz Josef.

Some of the most impressive scenes in the film are the big reception held on the Emperor's birthday, the Royal wedding at St Augustine's Church in Vienna and the bride's voyage down the Danube to Vienna with the banks lined with cheering crowds.

The film was written and directed by Ernst Marischka. His handling of many of the spectacular scenes is outstanding. Also quite noticeable is the contrast between royal pomp and splendour and the glorious scenery of the high forests and mountain streams of Vienna.

It is a film that all the family should enjoy.

The music score by G. Ramanathan is excellent and is one of the highlights of the film. Before taking part in the film Sounderarajan had a following of millions as a singer.

SOPHIA LOREN HEADS CAST IN COMEDY

HEADED by a distinguished international cast that stars Academy winner Sophia Loren and famed French actor Robert Hossein, the new multi-million dollar production "Madame" opens at the Shah Jehan shortly. Filmed by veteran director Christian Jaque in France, Spain and Italy, the comic-romance recalls the splendour and excitement of the court and empire of Napoleon Bonaparte.

Based on a play by Victorien Sardou, this film tells the lively and delightful story of Catherine Heubscher who, whether laundress or Duchess, always remained "Sans Gene" . . . uninhibited and carefree.

Miss Loren, fresh from her successful characterisation in "Two Women" and "Boccaccio 70" which was banned till recently for release in South Africa, found a common bond with her new role.

MAMMOTH SCENES

Many nationalities are represented by the large cast. From France is Robert Hossein, an actor, author and director, who portrays Miss Loren's lover, a rugged young officer, and Julien Bertheau who essays the role of Napoleon. Marina Berti and Gabriella Palotta, playing Napoleon's sisters who are jealous of Loren, are from Italy, and other parts are essayed by Spanish, German and Polish players.

The filming of "Madame" took 25 weeks and employed 3,500 men and fifteen hundred horses in the battle scenes depicting Napoleon's mammoth Italian campaign.

"Longest Day" breaks records

DARRYL F. ZANUCK'S magnificent production, "The Longest Day", which was nominated for an Academy Award for the "Best Motion Picture of the Year", will soon be shown at the Avalon.

The film has already been chosen as the best film of the year by the National Board of Review of the United States.

Undoubtedly this brilliant recreation story of "D" Day is destined to become one of the most honoured films.

Its success story is truly amazing. It is breaking records at box-offices all over the world.

With 42 internationally famous stars "The Longest Day" is certain to become one of all time box office champions in the annals of the motion picture industry.

"The stripper" — Jerry Wald's last film

"THE STRIPPER" is Jerry Wald's last picture. As a writer, producer and executive producer Wald had a hand in the making of nearly 300 motion pictures before his untimely demise at the age of 49. He dedicated his life to the making of polished pictures, and this was no exception. Whether the production be out and out commercial, like the fabulously successful "Peyton Place", or a sincerely artistic effort such as the Academy Award performance picture "Johnny Belinda" or "Sons and Lovers", no picture he ever made was put together without meticulous care and skill.

"The Stripper," which stars Joanne Woodward and Richard Beymer, tells the story of a young woman who returns to her small town in Kansas after an unsuccessful try at show business. She brings with her a welcome touch of glamour and excitement even though she has not been a success. [illegible] a haven from the harsh life she has been forced to lead in the outside world, she falls in love with a local boy, somewhat younger than herself. When he eventually comes to the realisation of the futility of the relationship she achieves an understanding of herself that enables her to face life realistically without having to lean on anyone.

The story is rich in humour, warmth, compassion and poignancy. The role of 'Lila' is tailor-made for the splendid acting ability of Miss Woodward, who will be remembered for her Academy Award winning performance in "The Three Faces of Eve" and other fine portrayals.

After his superb performances in "Adventures of a Young Man" and "West Side Story," Richard Beymer emerged as a top personality.

Franklin Schaffner, the brilliant young director who has won two coveted "Emmy" awards for his fine television shows, makes his motion picture debut at the helm of "The Stripper".

Connie sings in six languages

CONNIE FRANCIS has recorded songs in six languages from the sound track of her new MGM romantic comedy, "Follow the Boys," opening soon at the Shah Jehan.

Miss Francis sings four numbers in the story of the girls who go from port to port to follow the boys of the 6th U.S. Fleet.

She didn't need any help in recording the songs in English, German, Italian and Spanish but enlisted the aid of dialogue coaches for the French and Japanese versions.

Drama of three women

THE International Film Society presents Ingmar Bergman's "So Close To Life" at the Indian Cane Growers Hall on Sunday. The film produced in Sweden depicts three women who are [illegible] contrasted.

One is happily married and looks forward to the birth of a son. Another is unhappily married and sees in her miscarriage a manifestation of marital failure. The third is not married but regards her child as a punishment of marital failure. The third is not married but regards her child as a punishment for her sins. Bergman sees the importance of human planning in relation to the [illegible] casual touch of fate. The second sees no point in continuing with her marriage. The third is destined to give birth to a healthy child in spite of attempts [illegible]. During her stay in hospital she learns to recognise that others have feelings and attitudes which, although different from her own, are worthy of respect.

The first twenty minutes are grim as one could expect in a film of this nature. The clinical detail, the terrifying scene where the first woman nearly loses her child creates a tense atmosphere. The whole film is set in the single ward.

The tension is maintained throughout and the acting is good. Sub-titles are in English.

Gary meets his match

CARY GRANT, acknowledged to be one of the best dressed men on the screen, plays a sequence in "That Touch of Mink" with only a bath towel wrapped round his middle. Unclad in this way, Cary dashes out of an athletic club, across a street filled with gawking pedestrians, and into a taxi.

This is only one of the hilarious scenes in this film which also stars the incomparable Doris Day and opens at the Raj Cinema on May 16.

MEETS HIS MATCH

Grant plays the part of a highly successful man both in business and in non-marriageable romantic dalliances with attractive women.

He meets his match, however, when he tangles with Doris Day and suggests a non-platonic jaunt to Bermuda.

The film has received rave notices in both America and Britain, and is regarded as one of the finest comedies produced by Universal International.

Frankenstein returns

STORIES of horror have never failed to excite and to chill, and Columbia Pictures' "The Revenge of Frankenstein" is a billion-volt shocker, starring Peter Cushing, Eunice Gayson, Francis Matthews and Michael Gwynn.

Cushing's Frankenstein is suave, immaculately groomed and completely dedicated to this ghoulish occupation of using the eyes of one man, the torso of another and, now, the brain of a dwarf, to create a man-like creature. The "man" he finally contrives to kill, kills like a monster.

The film will be screened at the Shah Jehan next weekend.

Re-creates Ghandi

THE Indian actor, J. S. Casshyap, who plays the Mahatma, in "Nine Hours to Rama", not only has the emaciated physique and the down-to-perfection gestures, but also has re-created Gandhi's speech—the faltering, reedy tones and the gentle inflections that were so much the secret of the leader's non-violent power.

Close-ups of Casshyap are startling, and a searing overhead shot, as he walks feebly through the crowd of devotees who have jammed the garden to hear him at prayer has an impact that is more newsreel than make-believe.

In the garden the assassin's bullets strike him down, and here "Nine Hours to Rama" ends.

The film will show at the Avalon from next Monday.

EXTRADITION: CHIEF APPEALS TO QUEEN

LONDON, Tuesday. — A petition will be presented to Queen Elizabeth tomorrow in a last-minute bid to prevent Nigerian Chief Anthony Enahoro being sent home to face charges of treasonable felony, usually reliable political sources said tonight.

The sources said that a special aircraft had arrived at London Airport tonight to take Chief Enahoro back to Lagos after a five-month legal battle.

The House of Lords Appeals Committee today rejected his latest bid against extradition requests by the Nigerian Government.

Negroes pack jails in the "Deep South"

BIRMINGHAM (Alabama), Tuesday. — Harassed city officials today surveyed the jam-packed jails of this Deep Southern city as thousands more Negroes prepared for another massive anti-segregation demonstration.

"When the sun goes down today there will be so many Negroes in jail that the people of Birmingham will hate to see a Negro," the Rev. James Bevel, one of the leaders of the integration drive, told reporters.

Already the city's jails have overflowed with some 2,500 Negroes and Whites arrested since the start of the demonstrations last Thursday. Police estimated that 1,000 of them were arrested yesterday alone.

Mr Bevel also told reporters: "We could have had 2,500 arrested yesterday but we got tired."

Yesterday the marchers came in waves from a church at the edge of the city's business district. Unlike the first days of the demonstration there were no attempts to subdue them with high-pressure fire-fighting hoses and vicious police dogs. Police merely stopped each group after it had walked about a block, arrested them for parading without a permit, loaded them into buses and drove them off to prison.

Sullen crowd

A sullen crowd of some 2,000 other Negroes watched and in some cases cheered but demonstration leaders urged them to keep quiet. The only eruptions of trouble came when police pulled a Negro woman to the ground and forcefully subdued her when she refused to respond to an order to leave. A Negro man ripped a policeman's shirt and attempted to snatch his revolver but was also subdued and arrested.

Many of the Negro demonstrators are young teenage school children who have been playing truant to joint in the marches.

Most of the tenagers arrested yesterday were driven straight to the State Fair Ground near the city to join 518 Negro girls held there in a special camp since Friday.

Dundee child welfare meeting

AT the annual meeting of the Dundee and District Indian Child Welfare Society held on April 21, at the Dundee Hindu Temple Hall, Mr B. A. Naidoo, the hon. organising secretary of the Natal Indian Council for Child Welfare and the first Regional Worker of the South African National Council for Child Welfare, was the guest speaker.

In his address he showed the need for close co-operation among various agencies in the community. He drew a close analogy between the working of the different organisms in the human body and the functions of different organisations in society. Mr Naidoo said that the malfunctioning or breakdown of any one unit in the organism would have a serious effect upon all the others thus even on the personal level it was important for every unit to be interested in the welfare of all the others.

School to close

ONE of Durban's oldest Indian schools, the St. Michael's Government-aided Primary School at Rossburgh, will be closed down at the end of this year by the proprietors, the Diocese of Natal.

The school has more than 800 pupils. Parents are worried that the shut-down will bring hardship to many of the children, as classrooms in the neighbouring Clairwood and Merebank areas are already overflowing.

In a letter to parents the grantee of the school, Father R. Cuthbertson, said that cost of maintenance was extremely heavy and the implementation of the Group Areas Act would render the school buildings redundant.

The letter stated: "Considerable sums of money are needed to put this very old building into a sound state of repair, and this the Church is unable to undertake."

The Diocese has sold the property, which is on the Main South Coast Road, to an industrial concern.

Father Cuthbertson has urged parents to make early alternative arrangements for their children from the beginning of 1964.

Iqbal Day celebrated in Transvaal

From Our Correspondent

FOR the first time in the Transvaal "Iqbal Day" was celebrated. The Islamic Missionary Society arranged a lively programme including speeches, recitals of Iqbal's poetry and quawalies.

The function was held at the Nana Memorial Hall and some 900 men, women and children were present.

The topics alloted to speakers were well designed which allowed for a broad coverage. Mr. A. S. K. Joomal, a well known Johannesburg personality in the educational field discussed Iqbal as a philosopher.

Mr. Abdulla Deedat expounded on the richness and beauty of Dr. Iqbal's poetry. He quoted at length and translated it into English for the benefit of those who did not understand Urdu. There were many to whom Urdu was completely foreign.

Sir Mahomed Iqbal was not only a philosopher, but also an educationist. Mr. A. G. Ebrahim spoke on the contribution Dr. Iqbal made to education. "Dr. Iqbal", he said, "was responsible for introducing child psychology as an aid to teaching. He was vehemently opposed to mechanical methods of reciting and memorising." "This," he continued, "is being predominantly practised to-day in our Madressas where as Western educatists are fully utilising child psychology as an aid to teaching with astonishing success."

W. German metal crisis halted

BONN, Tuesday. — A crisis in West Germany's engineering industry was halted today when agreement was reached on a pay rise for three and a half million metal workers after a 12-hour bargaining session in Bonn.

Professor Ludwig Erhard, the Economics Minister, who called the two sides together to end a snowballing strike, said after the settlement that a disaster had been averted and the country's economy could now be kept stable.

MR. R. KARTHIGASEN CHETTY, the vice-president of the newly-formed "South Indian Progithers" Association is sailing by the S.S. Karanja with Mrs. Chetty on May 12 for India to visit his family after 23 years.

Mr. Chetty has taken a keen interest in the cultural life of the people and played an important role in the advancement of the Tamil language, culture and religion. As a foundation member of the "Tamil Ellenger Sungam", whose aims and objects was to encourage youths to take an interest in the vernacular, Mr. Chetty played an important part.

The caretaker then called out to two African caretakers, who were walking behind the boys, to catch them.

The boys were then taken into a room in the servants' quarters and the door was locked after them. Gurusamy alleged that he was slapped and when he fell he was kicked on the head. The caretaker is alleged to have picked up an iron but the African caretiker had prevented him from striking the boy with it. The African caretaker handed him the rope "whip" instead.

SCREAMED

Both boys screamed and cried but were only released after 45 minutes.

Gurusamy's face was swollen and he was in great pain. He had to sit for 15 minutes before he could make his way home.

His mother told me that he could not sleep and spent a very restless night after the alleged incident. He did not attend school for three days last week.

In the junior matches Young Grange trounced Umhloti 5—1, and Verulam High gained an easy 4—1 win over Verulam Juniors.

Ass'n officials not present at swim gala

IT is a sad reflection on the Natal Indian Amateur Swimming Association if they fail to take an active part in any swimming gala that is organised—and especially when they are aware of it.

Early in the season, we urged the officials that among other things they should keep a proper record of all the galas, and times for each event should be kept so that sportsmen would be able to see if new records were being set up or not. This has been sadly lacking in galas at the Balkumar Singh Baths.

It was quite a problem when the organisers of last week's gala tried to check the times for the various events. It actually meant raking up all the records of all the galas over the past years. And most of the records were not available. And in some cases where times were available, they were obviously wrong. This is the fault of getting officials to judge times when they can hardly handle a stop-watch.

ONE TIMEKEEPER

At last Saturday's gala of the three officially appointed timekeepers only one turned up. And these three were not appointed by the Association but by the organisers themselves. We believe that the Association should have seen to it that the list of officials who would be available for a gala should be handed to the club that is organising a gala. And it is absolutely essential that these officials must make it their duty to be present come what may unless of course they give reasonable notice to the organisers.

The effect of their absence at Saturday's gala meant that only one person kept time. This made it all the more difficult because the organisers had already announced that those competitors setting up new times would receive trophies.

This state of affairs is highly unsatisfactory. As officials of a body calling itself the Natal Indian Amateur Swimming Association, a great deal more is required than the present inadequate set-up.

PAPWA FUND

Although funds are coming in slowly, the Papwa Trust Fund is optimistic that Papwa will be able to go overseas again this year. A concerted effort is being made and I understood that a special drive will be made on schools.

Although one does not expect much from children, we think the principals should co-operate with the Fund and help raise as much as is possible.

Tournament to aid Papwa

THE Durban Indian Golf Club is staging a special tournament for May 19 and the proceeds will go to the Papwa Fund which will in turn help send Papwa overseas to take part in the European circuit.

The competition will be played over 36 holes and is open to players from anywhere in the Republic. Outright prizes will be awarded and the entry fee has been fixed at R1.

The Papwa Fund has announced the programme for the European tour. He leaves Durban by air on June 14 and leaves Johannesburg the following day. He will be away for two months and will return to South Africa on August 15.

The programme is: June 14, leave Durban; June 15, leave Johannesburg; June 20, Yorkshire Evening News Golf Tournament; June 28 and 29, Dunlop Masters; July 10 and 12, British Open; July 13 and 15, French Open (awaiting confirmation); August 3 and 4, Dutch Open; August 9 and 11, German Open; August 15, Return to South Africa.

New Zealand tour for "Papwa" almost certain

"Leader" Sports Staff

ACCORDING to information pieced together here in Durban it seems that Papwa Sewsunker, the Natal Open champion and the runner-up in the national tournament, is almost certain to accept the invitation extended to him by the New Zealand Professional Golfers to play in tournaments there. But a great deal will depend on what terms are being offered and how the golfer fares while in Europe.

New Zealand's invitation was sent to the South African Professional Golfer's Association and the invitation has been passed onto Sewsunker.

It is learnt that the New Zealand invitation is quite tempting as prize money will be awarded to players finishing up to about the twentieth position with the first prize purse reaching R1,000 in some cases.

His participation there is likely to attract a great deal of interest particularly because of controversy between the two countries in so far as rugby is concerned. There is a large group in the country that does not approve of New Zealand playing rugby against South Africa because of the racial restrictions that are applied in South Africa.

In the meanwhile, it is reported from Johannesburg that Papwa's name was "inadvertently" omitted from the list of leading prizewinners on the South African circuit.

Papwa has won close on R1,800 in both the White and non-White tournaments and if both the competitions are considered the Indian should take third place, but if only the White matches are taken into consideration Papwa lies in second place—08 below Hutchinson and .46 better than Verwey—who lies third. Papwa has won R1,200 in the White tournaments and is third behind Verwey (R1,645) and Hutchinson (R1,470).

SHOCK RESIGNATION OF SOCCER CHIEF

"Leader" Sports Staff

MR. D. N. BANSDA, a pioneer of pro. soccer in South Africa and co-founder of the Cape Ramblers F.C., dropped a bombshell when he announced his resignation from the club he helped build up to its present status in the First Division of the S.A.S. League.

From the inception of Cape Ramblers in 1961 he was at the helm of affairs, serving as Secretary, President and Director, and saw men like Bennie Katz, H. E. Parker and Frank Brache leave the club whilst he held the fort.

Interviewed, Mr Bansda was non-committal, and said he did not want to hurt the prestige and position of the club which he had served to the best of his ability.

NO REMUNERATION

His letter of resignation was shown, wherein he stated that under no circumstances would he jeopardise the club, but was prepared to give them his assistance at all times. He also refused to accept any remuneration for services rendered to the company, of which he was a director.

Mr Bansda has over the past two and a half years cemented the foundations of pro soccer and his successors will not find their task as difficult as a few years ago.

He will continue to serve pro soccer, and the S.A. Soccer League, which he represents in the Cape. The duties involved are numerous, and sometimes difficult, but his sincerity and experience will stand him in good stead.

Winter race season begins on Saturday

By "AMBASSADOR"

DURBAN'S famous winter racing season begins this week with a nine-race programme run on Saturday at Greyville. The principal event is the Natal Breeders' Stakes which should provide a close and exciting finish.

Review Order was an easy winner last year and if his weight of 9st 4lb does not trouble him, he should ... with the winners.

Nerium has a fine record and if he is in peak fitness I cannot see him being beaten.

Judging from the form book, Cosmonaut is capable of upsetting the experts, but in any case he should be well up in the field at the finishing post.

Taking everything into consideration I take Nerium ... from Review Order and Cosmonaut.

Lincoln win team prize

IT was Lincoln City all the way in the first round of the South African Soccer League competition at Pietermaritzburg on Sunday, when they convincingly defeated Maritzburg City 4—0.

Lincoln City's win puts them joint third with Aces United and Maritzburg City, although Aces still have a match in hand. Both the Pietermaritzburg teams have played eight matches so far.

Lincoln's fine performance earns them the award of the "Team of the Week" title and the 1,000 cigarettes donated by the United Tobacco Company.

Giants clash this week-end

"Leader" Sports Staff

AVALON ATHLETIC face the first of their toughest opposition this weekend when they will be away in Johannesburg for the match against the unbeaten Moroka Swallows. There are three other matches, in Durban, Pietermaritzburg and Cape Town. In Durban, Aces United meet Pirates, and at the capital Maritzburg City are billed to meet Transvaal United. Real Fighters travel down to Cape Town for the game against Cape Ramblers.

The Johannesburg clash can really be dubbed as the clash of the giants, because both the sides playing this weekend have not yet been beaten and both of them have 12 points each from six games.

As it stands at the moment Avalon Athletic hold a slender lead when the goal average is taken into consideration, but their recent performance has left much to be desired and if there is no improvement, Moroka Swallows might emerge victors. Swallows are playing on their own ground. Swallows' brand of soccer is, obviously better than that of the Durban side and the only factor, very slightly though, the home team Aces United have an import. An old and tough game at Curries Fountain on Sunday when they are matched against Orlando Pirates.

ACES SLIPPING

A glance at the league table shows that by comparison with their 1962 performances, Aces are slipping and badly, too. Of the seven matches they have played, Aces have won three, drawn two, and lost another two and have only eight points. Pirates also have won four of their games and lost two.

Aces have the home-ground advantage in this game and as a result they have a better chance of winning. Despite the fact that they have been doing somewhat poorly, they are still a side to be reckoned with.

PIETERMARITZBURG

Although it is still early it seems as if Maritzburg City, who were among the early favourites for the league cup, seemed to be pushing it further and further away. They have lost four games, including the last three. Their opposition for this weekend is not a side that is very strong, but this cannot be used to say that they will lose again. Their victory admittedly the only one was against Cape Ramblers and this was least expected. If they can turn in a similar performance again, then who knows, they might pick up another two points. But the home team has the better chance.

CAPE TOWN

Two of the weaker sides meet in Cape Town on Saturday. Cape Ramblers and Real Fighters—both of whom are fighting to gain a few extra points. Fighters have played one more game than Ramblers and Fighters have four points while Ramblers have only two.

Hotspurs make inauspicious debut

MARITZBURG HOTSPURS made an inauspicious debut in the NSL's second league at the Show-rounds on Sunday when they were crushed 5—1 by Maritzburg United.

The Spurs had no answer to the speedy hard-tackling United and faulty marksmanship cost them many chances.

United's inside right, Tony Governder, had a field day in scoring a hat-trick, in the first half. He set United on the road to victory when Krista Pillay dropped a ball in error at his feet for Governder to shoot into an empty net.

He scored his second goal while Krista Pillay was lying injured in his penalty area. Pillay's replacement, M. Naidoo, looked on helplessly as Governder's next too planted on the far upright into the net.

United went further ahead through a penalty goal by Ched, the and another from Saleh Mia. Another Mia shot was deflected by a Spurs defender into his goal.

Towards the end, Alamelu scored Spurs' lone goal.

Lincoln break "hoodoo" with 4-0 victory

By C. G. MOONEY

PLAYING immaturate football, Lincoln City broke their "hoodoo" with a convincing last defeat of Maritzburg City in the NAN.L. before more than 1000 spectators at the Show grounds in Pietermaritzburg last Sunday afternoon.

Three first half goals and another 10 minutes from the end, sealed a real victory for Lincoln Playing in his usual formed form at left wing, Baphela underlined himself by scoring two fabulous goals shortly off

Football officials elected

BOTH the Northern and South Natal Soccer Boards held special general meetings in Durban and Pietermaritzburg during the weekend and adopted a constitution and elected officials.

Mr N. S. Middleton was elected president of the Northern Natal zone, and Mr. K. Manwarring president of Southern Natal. The Northern Natal headquarters will be at Pietermaritzburg.

The officials are:

Northern Natal: Mr M Naidoo, patron, Mr. N. S. Middleton, president, Messrs. Fred Kallier, S. Harmonn and W. B. Noel, vice-presidents, Mr. Dick Pownsamy, secretary, Mr A. H. Rawat, treasurer and Mr. S. Thompson, record clerk.

Southern Natal: Mr. S. L. Singh, Chief A. J Luthuli and Mr. Solly Samuels, patrons; Mr. K. Manwarring, president; Mr. George Singh, vice-president; Mr. S. K. Geetay, secretary; Mr. Charles M. Pillay, treasurer and Mr. F. Afreed, record clerk.

Southern Natal will appoint a sub-committee shortly to discuss the question of competitions and to get trophies.

Second defeat for Avoca

By EBRAHIM OSMAN

IN a hard-fought tennis league match, Central beat Avoca by five matches to three. Avoca again badly missed Luckraj. Without him they were unable to field two well balanced pairs to bring home the necessary five matches for victory.

For Central the "A" pair, Naran and Ally, won their three matches and made each each from the "B" and "C" pairs made the tour safe for the home team.

This defeat probably puts Avoca (last year's league-cup champions) out of the running for the league.

LEAGUE HONOURS

At Avoca, Sydenham beat Avoca B by five matches to nil and continue their challenge for the league honours.

Hosal, also in the running for the league, did not play their match against M. L. Sultan B. Hosal continued in winning stream by beating Sultan A by five matches to two.

This weekend the league position should become very much clearer when Hosal meet Central at Hosal. The result will depend very much on whether Mahomedy and Omar for Hosal or Ally and Naran for Central can go through unbeaten for the day. I expect a narrow victory for the side which wins this clash of the A pairs.

In the other fixtures, M. L. Sultan B will be at home to Sydenham, Avoca B travel to Umgeni and Avoca A will be at home to Sultan A, while Moosa Jackers A and B will be engaged in a local "derby" on the Sydenham court.

STARTER PISTOLS

MR. A. G. Narayudu, a local school principal, said in "The Leader" that he had been informed by the Durban Chief Magistrate that permission for the use of a "starter's pistols for athletic meetings, must be obtained direct from the Inspector of Explosives and not the Chief Magistrate.

This is a departure from the usual rules where permission was granted by the Magistrate.

You must use your head in soccer, and Berea's Homiel is doing just that as he makes an attempt to reach the ball before a Swallows defender. Swallows won the game 4—2.

New darts ass'n opposes present organisation

A NEW national darts association is expected to be formed in Durban this weekend, and according to information received, it will be in opposition to the existing organisation which has just concluded a tournament in Cape Town.

A formal meeting to discuss the proposed new body their support but all of them are not expected to be present at the meeting.

Those who are against the new organisation their support told The Leader that they were dissatisfied with the way in which the affairs of the existing Board were run, and the chief grievance was the refusal of the Board to lend support to the South African Sports Association and the South African Non-Racial Olympic Games Committee.

Berea beaten by Swallows

"Leader" Sports Staff

MOROKA SWALLOWS retained their unbeaten record with a 4-2 victory over Berea in a league match at Curries Fountain last Sunday.

Berea carried the fight to the strong opponents, and many concentrated attack had them reeling for most of the game. Swallows had a more pointed finish and got the more well-planned pattern of attack.

Swallows' first two goals came through Maseko and Ralphs. A little shaken by this, Berea gradually settled down and among Links Padayachee, who was watched closely, scored for Berea to make the score 2-1.

After missing some scoring chances Berea saw the game suddenly turn against them when Ignatius Mabaso, breaking away in a lone run, made Swallows third goal.

HIT THE NET

Attacking constantly, Berea now signing Rathinasamy Govender, saw his header hit the net. "Ace" Gounden followed with fourth goal in another sudden turn of the scale to Swallows.

MEREBANK MEETING

The third annual meeting of the Merebank Sport Association will be held in Merebank this Sunday commencing at 6.00 p.m.

The election of officers and the question of the proposed new grounds are the main items on the agenda.

ASHERVILLE PANICS — SPECULATORS MOVE IN

Area not proclaimed under G. Areas Act

"Leader" Reporter

RESIDENTS of Asherville, the select and most modern Indian residential area just a stone's throw away from the city, are in a state of panic. The reason? They do not know what their future is as the area has not yet been proclaimed under the Group Areas Act, despite the fact that Indians moved into it nine years ago.

Many of them have the nightmare feeling that they may be forced out of the area to the more Indian housing schemes springing up far from the city, or being given either to Coloureds or Europeans.

As a result of this uncertainty, building projects in the area have come to a standstill in most cases. Those who wanted to extend their buildings or build new ones, or put up an additional outbuilding, have shelved the plans temporarily pending the decision of the Board.

Although this matter has come up at nearly every annual meeting of the Asherville Indian Ratepayers' Association, the organisation was powerless to do anything to alleviate the fears.

In the first place the association would be placed in an embarassing situation if it made representations to the authorities to have the whole of the area proclaimed for Indian ownership and occupation, as it had persistently opposed the Group Areas Act on the grounds that it was an immoral and unjust piece of legislation.

On the other hand the residents have to guarantee that the area would not be depreciated even after it was zoned for Indians. A one of the officials of the association put it "The residents would still be living in Asherville were proclaimed."

Asherville is flanked on the

CINEMA DIRECTORS SUED FOR R36,000

WHAT is believed to be one of the longest defamation cases on record in the Supreme Court, Durban, reached its 23rd day on Wednesday, in the matter of Dorothy Vengetas versus Manghi Allaramy Naidoo, a furniture manufacturer of South Coast Road, Wentworth, Durban, and five others, who together with the firm, defendant are directors of Padma Theatres, Clairwood. Mr. Vengetas has sued the defendants jointly and severally for the sum of R36,000.

The case is likely to last for at least another two weeks, if defence counsel insists on calling more witnesses.

The case arises out of a report of the 13th annual meeting of Padma Theatres which Mr Vengetas alleges contained defamatory statements regarding himself, and that it was jointly published by the defendants to persons present at the meeting held on February 26, 1961.

Among the 25 people present at the meeting was a Press reporter.

Mr Vengetas alleges that an article based upon the report was published in the Newspaper magazine, containing statements which were of a defamatory nature.

MISREPRESENTATION

The report alleged that Mr Vengetas misappropriated monies of the firm of Padma Theatres (Pty) Ltd., and said: "The subject of alleged misbehaviour and dishonesty of the manager, Mr S. Vengetas, was fully discussed in the presence of the accused and every member of the Board had the opportunity to question, and so they did, and it was ascertained that the allegations were justified."

The annual report continues: "Although Mr. S. Pathraju (one of the directors since deceased) persisted to consider him should his behaviour be

Daddy joins Coastals

MR DADDY NYDOO, former Durban United player, has joined Coastals F.C. in the same capacity. This is the latest development in the behind-the-scenes row which has been going on for some time over the position of the club's administrator.

Nydoo is a head last season of the U. Coastals directorate. They are led by S. Maharaj, chairman, Y. Balakrishnan, secretary, and George Naidoo, Pillay, Son Naidoo and Sooriyan have retained their membership.

Now promotion this season of the U. Coastals to the Natal Soccer League has strengthened in the Coastals camp. This season, the club has not fared too well, and the new regime under Sam Maharaj needed a few weeks to settle down. The club, it is said, "The Leader" understand to be anxious to find out and there seemingly no question of

Think of these things

"And Elijah came unto all the people, and said 'How long halt ye between two opinions? If the Lord be God, follow him: but if Baal, then follow him.' And the people answered him not a word."

And God spoke these words saying, "I am the Lord Thy God . . . thou shalt have no other gods before me; thou shalt not make unto thee any graven image . . . and thou shalt not bow down thyself to them, nor serve them. . . ." The people had turned from God and were worshipping Baal and idols and graven images and the wrath of God was upon them. Elijah called up the people and said, " Let us make sacrifice to our Gods—you to your idols and I to my God. We will built altars and place wood upon them and sacrifice a bullock, but put no fire into the wood, but call upon your gods to accept your sacrifice by making the wood and the flesh to burn with fire from heaven." And the people did this and called upon their gods all day and nothing happened. Then Elijah poured buckets of water upon his sacrifice and called upon the only God, the almighty God, the Father of Jesus Christ, to consume the wood and sacrifice with fire.

By THE GOOD DISCIPLE

"Then the fire of the Lord fell, and consumed the sacrifice and the wood and the stones and the water." And when the people saw it they fell on their faces and said "The Lord He is God, the Lord He is God."

Jesus said, "Let not your heart be troubled, ye believe in God, believe also in me." Believest thou not that I am in the Father and the Father in Me? I am the way, the truth and the life, no man cometh to the Father but by Me. He that believeth on the Son hath everlasting life; and he that believeth not the Son shall not see life but the wrath of God abideth on him. For God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son that whosoever believeth in Him shall not perish, but have everlasting life. For God sent not His Son into the world to condemn the world; but that the world through Him might be saved. He that believeth shall be saved; but he that believeth not shall be damned.

How long halt ye between two opinions? If the Lord be God, follow him: but if Baal, then follow him. He that believeth not that the Lord is God shall be damned.

Seek ye the Lord while he may be found; call upon Him while He is near. Let the wicked forsake his way, and the unrighteous man his thoughts, and let him return unto the Lord, and he will have mercy upon him; for He will abundantly pardon. Think on these things.

Missing for two weeks

"Leader" Reporter

The poverty-stricken family of Mr. S. Chatoor of 196 Standard Road, Mayville, has been burdened with yet another problem to that of finding another meal. They are now searching for their 24-year-old son, Dhramraj, who has been missing from home since May 4.

The tragedy is that the missing person is suffering from a nervous breakdown and has an occasional attack of fits. He is also crippled and cannot use his hands.

One of the sisters of the missing man said that at about 3 o'clock she saw her brother sitting in a nearby tearoom. A few minutes later she went to call him to have his tea, but he was nowhere to be seen. She reported it to her parents, and a search was made for him without any success.

The hours began to pass and still no sign of Dharmaraj. They visited hospitals, mortuaries, made enquiries at police stations and at homes of friends and relatives where he was likely to have gone, but it was fruitless. It is now nearly two weeks since he disappeared and the anxious parents have not yet heard word of his whereabouts or his plight.

The family moved into Mayville about six weeks ago from Richmond.

Dhramaraj is about 5ft 6in. in height, fair in complexion and well built. When last seen he was wearing black trousers, white shirt and was barefooted. Anyone knowing his whereabouts should telephone the nearest police station.

LAWBREAKERS beware! The next time you embark on your criminal adventures it may not be a uniformed, baton-swinging officer of the law who will pounce upon you. It may be your erstwhile friend or relative in tie and collar, or plain crew neck shirt, who will wield the baton over your head and snap a pair of handcuffs around your wrists.

And he won't be a "dick" either, for he will be one of the hundreds of police reservists that are being recruited in many Indian areas in and around Durban.

The reservists, now popularly referred to as "home guards" will ensure the security of life and property of the individual in areas where police stations are far away, in times of emergency. Many Indians are showing a keen interest in joining the Reserve — which is a warning to hoodlums, dagga smokers, shebeen runners and brothel keepers to watch out, for if any trouble breaks out the reservists will be ready for action.

More than 40 people have been recruited in the Chatsworth housing scheme. More are likely to follow as officials of the Chatsworth Township Association make their weekly rounds to enrol the reservists.

On Monday night the reservists were given a talk on their duties by a senior police officer of the Bellair Police Station.

One of the reservists said that hitherto individuals were unable to intervene and stop fights, or prevent hoodlums from terrorising people in the area. Now they have the right to intervene and arrest.

Each of the reservists will be given an identification badge, a pair of handcuffs and a baton.

Terror stalks bus ranks

"Leader" Reporter

PEDESTRIANS who use the Victoria Street and Winterton Walk bus ranks are daily faced with the hazards of violence and robbery. Although some cases are brought to the notice of the police the majority go unnoticed.

The culprits are mostly African youths operating in gangs, and the victims are frequently Indian women and girls. Once the culprits strike they disappear quickly into the milling crowd of men and women who daily frequent this route either to and from Durban. If by chance they are caught the loot often disappears from their deft hands and is passed on to their companions who are soon lost.

The victims rarely report to the police or visit identification parades. It is difficult to identify the culprits who take no more than a few seconds to strike at his victim and disappear almost immediately.

NO ONE HELPED

Another incident occured last week when a 16-year-old Indian girl, the sole support of a widowed mother and brother and sisters was robbed in sight of several people. Yet, no one dared to intervene.

Dhanum is 16 years old and after months in search of work she eventually found a position in a clothing factory. Her first pay packet contained R2.50 and she was keen to hand this money over to her mother.

When she entered the Victoria Street bus rank in the early afternoon of last Friday with the multitude of men and women homeward bound, her pay packet was snatched by an African youth. Dhanum was too dazed to explain, but she remembers that a young African held on to her handbag and pulled out the purse — in full view of passers by. Although she pleaded for help, no one dared to intervene.

A senior social worker commenting on this incident, said that bag-snatching and intimidation by Africans was typical of the lawlessness that prevailed daily at the Victoria Street and Winterton Walk bus ranks. Indian women fell easy prey to these holligans and thieves because they were too terrified to scream at the sight of a knife or other murderous weapon.

Time and again responsible Indian organisations and individuals have appealed to the authorities to curb the activities of these hooligans, but nothing of significance has yet been done.

My informant suggested that the policing of these areas by plain clothes policeman would minimise the present high rate of bag snatching and thefts from law abiding citizens. He added that penalties for such crimes should be of such severity that it would deter the criminal from pursuing his activities.

ANOTHER VICTIM IN "ROBBERY MILE"

"Leader" Reporter

MR. R. BRIDJLALL, a Press photographer of Durban, was waylaid and robbed of his camera and electronic flash gun, worth about R200 last week.

He was yet another victim in the "robbery mile" in Alice Street, between Grey Street and Centenary Road.

He told "The Leader" that he was walking up Alice Street to catch a bus home when he was accosted by six burly Africans. They simply bumped into him, dropped him on the ground and then, with an amazing ease, relieved him of his belongings. They left him as if nothing had happened.

Mr. Bridjlall's cries for help from passers-by was of no avail, as they were afraid to get mixed up in street fighting with the thugs, who are known to be desperate characters armed with knives and guns.

Alice Street is the scene of a crime each night and becomes more serious particularly on Friday and Saturday evenings, when workers are robbed of their wages and couples assaulted and their belongings taken.

Pleas to the police for adequate protection for the law-abiding citizens does not seem to be successful. Meanwhile, the robbers carry on their activities with almost gay abandon without the law intervening to prevent innocent victims from assault and robbery.

BEATEN UP

In some instances the thugs just delight in hitting all and sundry without even robbing them. They chase their victims, trip them to the ground, and manhandle them. In several cases they freely used knives and stabbed their victims.

Pedestrians feel that it is high time that the police maintained a constant patrol in the area, and brought the culprits to bay.

National bird

A question was asked in the Lok Sabha (House of the People) recently regarding the selection of India's national bird.

Explaining the selection, the peacock, the Minister of Agriculture, Mr. Ram Subhag Singh, said: "The dignity and grace of the peacock, its spectacular coloration and its long association with India's culture, mythology and folk lore were some of the considerations which weighed in favour of designating peacock as the national bird.

"Other considerations were its popularity and its occurrence in almost all parts of the country.

Dr. Naicker to appeal against G.A. conviction

"Leader" Reporter

DR. GANGATHURA MOHAMBRY NAICKER, president of the N.I.C. and his wife, Mariemoothamall Naicker, appeared before Mr. J. J. Pretorius in the Durban Magistrates' Court last week charged with contravening the Group Areas Act. They were found guilty as charged and were each fined R50 or 30 days imprisonment. A further 30 days imprisonment suspended for nine months on condition they vacated the premises occupied by them on or before the 11th February, 1964. Notice of appeal was lodged.

Dr. Naicker and his wife were alleged to be members of the Indian group, and according to the charge were therefore disqualified persons living in a White area. The accused refused to apply for a permit to live in their home at the pleasure of the Group Areas Board.

Earlier, Mr. A. Fisher, Q.C., who appeared for the accused, submitted that the law was ultra vires in respect of the occupation of the property by the accused. Mr. Fisher submitted that that the Indians of South Africa did not regard India as their national home and their attitude was the same as that of South Africans with foreign names. Although Du Plessis was of French origin, a South African bearing that name did not regard France as his national home, nor the Cape Malays who immigrated from Indonesia did not consider that country as their national home.

In his summing up Mr. Pretorius said: "In all these circumstances it is found that the two accused are disqualified persons and that they are, or were, in wrongful and unlawful occupation of the premises. I am of the opinion that mens rea does not enter into the present proceedings. Even if it does, then it should be mentioned that the accused have had ample opportunity to consider their position and rectify matters. Proclamation 152 was published as early as June 6, 1958."

New luxury hotel

"Leader" Reporter

YET another addition to the ever-growing number of luxury non-European hotels in Durban is the R150,000 Rajmahal Hotel, which is being built in the densely populated Merebank Housing Scheme.

The hotel will be situated at the corner of Kajrah and Ajmer Roads, near the planned shopping and civic centre in Bombay Square.

Mr. Ramphal Singh, the owner of the hotel, who also owns the luxury Admiral Hotel in Overport, told "The Leader" that he had spared no money or efforts to make Rajmahal a model of perfection, beauty, luxury and comfort.

Unique features incorporated in the hotel include a 800-seater luxury and modern cinema, complete with Cinemascope screen and Dunlopillo seating.

Other striking features of this ambitious undertaking include a billiards room, a games room, and curry room built on the most modern lines and which would accommodate 400 persons in comfort. The dining room will seat 120 people.

30 years with police

"Leader" Reporter

AFTER a record service of 30 years with the South African Police, Sergt. J. Beepathram of Clairwood retired last week.

Mr. Beepathram started as a constable in the force at Camperdown in 1926. Nine years later he was transferred to Stanger, where he was appointed court orderly.

After receiving a good service medal he was promoted sergeant in 1943 and transferred to Durban.

A few years later he took charge of the Clairwood Police Station, where he was stationed until his retirement.

The esteem in which he was held by his superiors is reflected in the following letter he received from the Commissioner of Police at Pretoria.

"It is with pleasure that I wish to express to you on the occasion of your retirement from the South African Police my appreciation for the devoted, loyal and efficient service rendered to the State.

"Your characted has been assessed as exemplary. The achievement of this distinction proves that you have served throughout with an unblemished record."

Rent control wanted

"Leader" Reporter

INDIAN retailers in the heart of the Durban commercial area are concerned about what they claim "exorbitant" rent, and goodwill asked for them when applying for premises.

At a meeting of the Durban Indian Retailers' Association held last week, the members decided to approach the Government to ask for a control on rent on business properties in the city.

GROUP AREAS

It was stated at the meeting that the landlords tried to justify their claim for high rent by stating that the price of property had risen considerably as a result of the implementation of the Group Areas Act.

The new president of the association is Mr. Ratilall Mistri, who took the place vacated by the death of Mr. Govan Mani.

YOU'RE ON THE WRONG TRACK, Mr. JOOSUB

IN every oppressed group there is to be found a group of vested interest which is forever trying to curry favour with the powers that be—trying hard to gain a concession here, a concession there, trying desperately hard, by every reasonable approach, to impress those in authority with what they regard as but reasonable demands.

That is to be expected. But in every instance it has been proved that however hard the vested interest tries to impress the powers that be, it fails miserably in its efforts. The failure is not for want of trying but because those in authority refuse to concede an inch.

The powers that be must answer their reasonable demands with but a little more sugar coating to the bitter pill. The pill remains and it has to be swallowed!

That is precisely what has happened in the last two weeks with Mr. H. E. Joosub and his colleagues of Pretoria. Mr. Joosub represents a firmly entrenched vested interest, and he has done his diplomatic best to impress the Minister of Indian Affairs about the "hardships" (a masterpiece of understatement, surely!) that Indians generally suffer under the Law of the Ghetto.

In case Mr. Joosub's Press statement should have created a false impression, the Minister has rushed in with his own statement, and said bluntly:

"It must be accepted that all Indians, including Indian traders, will ultimately have to be removed from the proclaimed White group areas."

Now what could be clearer than that! Give Mr. Maree credit for removing all doubt about what transpired at his meeting with Mr. Joosub's deputation.

FANATICAL

There is one thing about this Government. It is determined and fanatical in its belief that apartheid is the solution to this country's problems.

It is determined and fanatical in the execution of its policies and plans. Let there be no mistake about that. The granite wall is still there.

The deputation of Indians from all parts of the Transvaal requested Mr. Maree to appoint a commission of inquiry into the application of the Group Areas Act. A reasonable request surely under the circumstances.

Mr. Maree has refused to accede to this simple request. Is he afraid of the obvious finding of such an impartial commission?

It could be one of the most telling indictments of apartheid and its application under the high-sounding Group Areas Act.

Mr. Joosub's deputation are deserving more of our sympathy than of our condemnation for they must now sit back and lick their wounds.

"IT MUST BE ACCEPTED . . ." says Mr. Maree. Can there be any doubt about the Government's intentions?

"ACCEPT SEPARATE DEVELOPMENT" PLEA

FAVOURABLE changes in official policy towards the Indians—particularly Indian businessmen—are expected to follow the appeal to the community by Mr. H. E. Joosub, of Pretoria, to "accept the fact of separate development."

Mr. Joosub appealed, however, to Indians to concentrate on persuading the authorities that there could not be a separate economy for the Indians in South Africa and that they would have to be integrated into the economy of the country as a whole.

Mr. Joosub who recently accused the Department of Community Development of causing hardship to Indian traders by its application of the Group Areas Act, made his appeal after a two hour talk in Pretoria with the Minister of Indian Affairs, Mr. W. A. Maree.

At their meeting Mr. Maree promised to appoint a inter-Departmental committee to investigate these complaints and Mr. Joosub said afterwards that he believed the outcome would be to "ease the strain" and make it possible for Indian traders to continue to occupy their existing business premises for the present generation at least.

Joosub's deputation to form a "representative body" to co-operate with the Department of Indian Affairs and acquit it with the grievances of Indians.

Mr. Joosub criticised South African Indians who were "waiting for pressures from outside to change the Government's racial policies and secure the withdrawal of the Group Areas Act."

He said: "No outsiders can help us solve our problems. We do not ask for intervention." He added that there was no prejudice against Indians in South Africa.

"If there were the Indian traders would not have had the patronage of the Whites and the other racial groups. Most Indians have built up their businesses on the goodwill of the Whites," Mr. Joosub said. "That goodwill still exists."

Volunteers

AN earnest appeal has been made by the Muslim Yatama Wal Masakeen for 300 volunteers to assist in its annual street collection on Saturday.

The Home for orphans and destitutes has set a target for R2,000 and needs as many volunteers as possible. Last year R1,684.42 was realised and the entire sum was utilised in providing free school books for indigent children, irrespective of race, colour or creed.

FOR NEEDY

School books were given to 1,700 children from 88 Government-aided schools and 40 pupils from 11 secondary schools. The entire takings from the street collection will once again be used in providing school books for needy children.

There will be a cake sale in conjunction with the street collection. Donations of cakes, samoosas, pickles and other confectionary may be sent to the office of the Home, 341 Pine Street, or the secretary at Messrs. A. I. Kajee, 37 Albert Street, Durban. Donations in cash and kind will be collected by telephoning 69090 (office) or 64551 (secretary).

Separate councils for townships not wanted

"Leader" Reporter

DURBAN Indians are up in arms at the proposal that the townships of Chatsworth, Merebank and Asherville will soon have their own administrative councillors and mayors to bring them in line with the Group Areas policy.

Commenting on this new move, Mr. P. R. Pather, the Secretary of the Natal Indian Organisation, said that any attempts to disintegrate the local community would fail. Indians considered themselves as South Africans first and owed allegiance to the country unreservedly. Under the circumstances it was only natural that a Government should allow a country to develop on its own resources without dividing the community. "In any case," added Mr. Pather, "we have always been against the implementation of the Group Areas Act and consequent disintegration of a country.

RESISTED

Mr. N. T. Naicker, the Secretary of the Natal Indian Congress, stated that the Congress has always been against segregation in any form, therefore any suggestions for the implementation of the Group Areas Act to appoint Indian Councillors and Mayor will be resisted by the Congress.

He added that the creation of different townships for different racial groups was tantamount to relegating the population into ghettoes.

Meanwhile, Transvaal's Indian and Coloured townships will [illegible] governing themselves.

According to reports, there are over 60,000 Coloureds in the Bosmont - Coronationville - Newclare-Riverlea complex. The two Indian townships — Laudium in Pretoria and Lenasia on the Rand — will have consultative committees, with the ultimate establishment of city councils or town councils in all these group areas.

LEADER OPINION

W. INDIES Vs. ENGLAND

IN Birmingham, in the United States, an inspiring struggle is at present in progress for the dignity and self-respect of man. The battle is on. There is no doubt about how it will end for "freedom's battle once begun, though oft in doubt, is ever won."

That is one side of the picture. There is another side to it, too. Across the Atlantic, on the green cricket fields of England, another kind of battle is being waged.

There, the happy-go-lucky West Indies cricketers under that great captain, Frank Worrell, have just begun their tour, and with the opening matches have once more captured the imagination of cricket lovers throughout the globe.

And we in the Republic, must wonder how it is that the colour of a man is so easily forgotten and how simple it is for "White" men and "Black" men (as we are so used to talking in our peculiar South African English) to engage in friendly battle and bring delight and pleasure to thousands upon thousands of human beings.

We wonder, too, and are ashamed of our own peculiar standards of behaviour and "South African way of life" which prohibits such battles to be waged on our own green but not so friendly cricket fields.

We feel sorry for ourselves. Still cricket has a thrill all its own, and we look forward with keen interest at the outcome of the coming Test Series between Worrell's gay cricketers and Dexter's fighting eleven. Of particular interest would be the performance of such masters as Worrell, Sobers, Kanhai, Hall and the new discovery Griffith. The dramatics of Freddy Trueman and the hard-hitting of Dexter and Barrington must be a delight to watch.

May the best team win.

Maritzburg Chest sets target of R55,000

"Leader" Reporter

THE Pietermaritzburg and District Community Chest has set a target of R55,000 for 1963 to enable the 18 affiliated welfare organisations to discharge their obligations to the less fortunate members of the community irrespective of race, colour or creed.

In its appeal for funds, the Chest states that by installing collection boxes in every shop and office, a weekly contribution of from five cents to 25 cents by every member of the staff or member of the community would soon realise the required amount to support these organisations, which between them care for several thousands individuals.

The Chest maintains that five cents a week from each contributor will buy enough nourishment and comfort to keep a child or person free from diseases which are the result of malnutrition.

In a letter to the Chest the Chamber of Commerce in Pietermaritzburg said that the citizens of the community should accept responsibility for financing the welfare organisations on a business basis through the medium of the Chest.

S. AFRICAN INDIANS NOT FOREIGNERS—Prof. PAUW

"Leader" Reporter

A DECLARATION that the University of South Africa did not consider its students of Indian origin as foreigners, was made last week by Professor S. Pauw, principal of the university, at a graduation ceremony held at the Indian University College, Durban.

He further declared that the university felt the same about the 1,022 students from Africa outside the Republic and the 74 from outside Africa.

"The university's duty," said Prof. Pauw, "is to provide educational services to all on a high level. It does not consider it part of its duty to change the South African way of life or the laws or customs of the country.

"It confines itself to the essential task of a university which is to promote the growth of persons, knowledge and culture."

The university considered it a "great privilege" to serve all sections of the people of South Africa. It was not concerned with politics and was one of the most vigorous focal points of good race relations. In spite of its multi-racial character it succeeded in making provision on a basis of equality for all students without giving offence to anyone.

At the same time it accepted the laws and customs of the country as the framework within which it had to fulfil its educational function.

Prof. Pauw was of the opinion that because the university treated its students on a basis of goodwill and common decency no unpleasant incidents on a racial basis had been reported to him since he became principal more than seven years ago.

"People who are animated by positive attitudes," he said, "ususally succeed in avoiding unpleasantness in spite of difficult circumstances."

Indian troops praised

U.N. Secretary-General U Thant, has in a message on the occasion of the return to India of the first contingent of Indian troops serving with the U.N. in the Congo thanked them for their fine work and splendid contribution to peace.

Mr. U Thant in his message says that service in the cause of peace-keeping operations is difficult and sometimes hazardous. The Indian contingent played a vital role in the success of U.N. operations and in achieving their objectives. He praised their tact, patience and high military skill.

cart by Overport, which has been proclaimed a White area, and on the west by Sherwood, also a European zone, thus making it a so-called "black pocket" in between these two White areas.

It is a known policy of both the Durban City Council and the Government to eliminate these "black spots" so as to have a continuous and unbroken White area within a certain radius from the City Hall. In any event the existence of the Indian area in their midst would not be tolerated by many European residents themselves.

The Indians' suspicions emanate from the fact that the Board has not yet considered the future of the area.

"Perhaps the board is waiting for the Indians townships and housing schemes to be fully developed before it decides to move the Indians out of the area to live there," was the curt comment of one of the residents.

SELLING

It is understood that many people are selling out in the area and moving to places proclaimed for Indians.

Meanwhile, it is further understood, Indian speculators, gambling on the future of the area, are buying up the houses for as much as R10,000 each.

Asherville, named after Mrs. Mary Asher, a former City Councillor, was established in 1954 mainly for the middle income group, under a loans to individuals scheme. There are about 800 houses built under this scheme, and the owners have sunk thousands of Rand in beautifying their gardens and homes.

It is the most select and modern residential area for Indians in the whole of the Republic.

Stylish comedy play at M.L. Sultan Hall

"Leader" Reporter

SHERIDAN'S stylish comedy of manners, "School for Scandal," is currently being staged at the M. L. Sultan Hall Theatre by the non-racial Durban Academy of Theatre Arts.

Sheridan's play was chosen because it is a matriculation setwork for Natal schools this year, and D.A.T.A. plans to make it a policy to stage school setworks regularly. The play will run until next Wednesday.

Doreen Donnelly, one of the country's most experienced directors, has produced the play on behalf of DATA. She has wide overseas experience, including work with Shakespearean actor/manager, Edward Dunstan, the Oxford Reps and the Oxford Education Committee, where she taught and directed.

"This is the most exciting and challenging thing I have done so far," Miss Donnelly said. "I am a great admirer of Krishna Shah and I am happy to be in on the most ambitious project so far undertaken by the group he founded."

DATA's first theatrical venture was the experimental "Trio Against Trains,"—three one-act plays by local writers.

The play has a large cast: there are 12 men's and four women's speaking parts, and four extras. The cast includes: Ray Jegesur, the star of "King of the Dark Chamber," and Lord Peter Teazle, Devi Bughwan, an experienced actor/director and DATA's theatrical director, as Lady Teazle, and Rad Thumbadoo, who also appeared in "King of the Dark Chamber," who plays the role of Joseph Surface.

Muthal Naidoo, a young and promising actress/director (she directed "The Importance of Being Ernest" for the Girls' High School recently) plays Mrs. Candour.

A HUMAN DRAMA

"HANDS of a Stranger", a thrilling human interest drama, opens at the Raj next Monday.

The hands of James Stapleton, talented concert pianist, are horribly mutilated in a traffic accident. Paul Lukather, a young surgeon, performs a startling operation in the hope that the musician will be able to play again.

The surgery is a success physically but Stapleton cannot accept the new situation. He becomes involved in two tragic accidents which trigger him on a trail of vengeance, determined to kill the three surgeons his twisted hands hold responsible.

Booking open for 'Ben-Hur'

BOOKING for "Ben-Hur" is now open at the Astra Cinema and there will be two performances daily after its opening on Monday, June 3, at 7.15 p.m.

The William Wyler presentation of "Ben-Hur", based on General Lew Wallace's famed novel, won 11 Academy Awards, including the "Oscar" for Best Picture of the Year. This is the greatest number of awards ever received by a picture in the history of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences.

PLUSH FILM

BETWEEN history and legend, few characters have had the colour, earthiness and charm of Catherine Heubscher, who comes to life on the screen in MGM's latest production, "Madame," opening at the Shah Jehan next week.

Sophia Loren and Robert Hossein star in this multi-million dollar film set against the plush decors of France in the Napoleonic era.

BIG LIVELY MUSICAL

THE golden mystery of show business is the blockbuster hit. No one knows exactly how it happens but, when an author's conception of a character and an actor's performance are perfectly mated, there is a magic interchange that produces something bigger and livelier than life.

Few shows have had more blockbuster magic than Meredith Willson's "The Music Man", the smash Broadway musical which plays at the Raj this weekend.

The bright-spirited, star-spangled entertainer about the exuberant music man who sells boys bands has been made into a lavishly mounted musical by Warner Bros. and stars Robert Preston, Shirley Jones and Buddy Hackett.

JUNIOR LEADER

THE art of writing English simply and well has fallen on bad days and Indian children, particularly, have fallen victims to it. I know English is a foreign language, but really speaking, Hindi, Tamil, Telegu, Urdu and Gujerati are more foreign to us in South Africa than English.

Yes, the English language has come to stay with us, and yet we make so little effort to speak or write it well. Over the years, Chachajan has received thousands and thousands of letters so poorly expressed, let alone the poor handwriting in which they are written. Even now, most of the letters I receive would do well with generous correction! I am not trying to discourage you. I want to help you, and if you are really interested in getting down to the business of writing well, then just follow these simple rules.

Whatever you write, do follow one simple rule. Write simply! Children in primary and high schools like to flirt with "big words." The more high-sounding and pedantic the word is, the better it has a chance of slipping into their writing. Only use a "big word" if you cannot think of a simpler one for it. Do not say "veracity" when "truth" will do. Do not write "indistinct" when "clear" is the word that is wanted. Always use the simple word which everybody will understand, and your expression too will be the better for it.

Always write down your ideas in paragraphs. A paragraph must have only ONE IDEA. Every sentence in that paragraph must be linked up with one idea, and if other things come to mind, then you must create separate paragraphs for the new ideas. A paragraph, of course, is written about two inches away from the margin.

When writing do not strive after effect. A short sentence is better than a long one, although it is a good idea to have a few short sentences followed by a [illegible]. Do not write down [illegible] that comes into your [illegible]. Take your time about [illegible]. Several sentences may [illegible] mind when you are [illegible] thinking about your [illegible] but decide on the [illegible] that is simple and says [illegible] want to say. If you [illegible] carefully again what I have [illegible] so far, you will realise [illegible] have written simply and [illegible] without too many big [illegible] to spoil the flow.

[illegible] not too fond of adjectives. If you can help it, use as [illegible] adjectives as possible in [illegible]. The power of an English sentence is in its VERB, [illegible] adjectives. Adjectives [illegible] are used by lazy writers [illegible], particularly are so [illegible] adjectives!

[illegible] you write down a sentence, examine its verb, and [illegible] are satisfied that it [illegible] your meaning clearly [illegible] "punch" then only [illegible] on with the next [illegible].

[illegible] your punctuation. The [illegible] use of the full stop, [illegible] question mark, semicolon and colon are important. [illegible] grammar book will tell you [illegible].

[illegible] write well you must also [illegible] and widely. Keep your [illegible] open when you read and [illegible] how writers express themselves.

[illegible] copying someone else's [illegible] is a literary crime. You [illegible] model your style of writing [illegible] someone else's you like, but [illegible] always better to cultivate [illegible] own style.

[illegible] these rules, and you [illegible] definitely write better. It [illegible] take you many years to [illegible] all the rules. Do not get discouraged if you do not succeed at first.

PEACE

AROUND THE CAPITAL

SINCE its establishment five years ago, the greatest obstacle the Northdale Social Club has been encountering is finance. Hard hit by unemployment and poverty, the people of Northdale are greatly in need of assistance, especially in providing education for their children.

The Social Club has supplied free text books and other school requisites for hundreds of children but many more have been disappointed simply because of insufficient money and the club's secretarial report sounds a note of regret that help has not been forthcoming from the well-to-do people of Pietermaritzburg.

In supplying free books to more than a hundred children in February this year, the Club fell into debt. To repay this debt, the Club is screening the Tamil "hit" film, "Parthal Pasitheeram" in the Roxy Cinema at three shows on Sunday — 1 p.m., 4.30 p.m. and at 7.45 p.m.

Starring in the film are Sivaji Ganesan, Gemini Ganesan, "Mooch" Thangavelu, Savithri, B. Saroja Devi, Sowcar Janaki, M. Sareja and Master Kamal.

The Club has placed on record its thanks for financial assistance given it by the Rotary Club, The Round Table, Lion's International, the Junior Chamber of Commerce and the Pietermaritzburg City Council.

Besides supplying free school books, the Club caters for many branches outdoor sport and indoor recreational facilities.

Club officials elected at its fourth annual general meeting are Patrons, Councillor C. B. Downes, Lt.-Col. C. W. Wood, Dr. S. Beharie, D. V. Chetty and Mr. L. Goldberg; president, Mr. K. P. Nadasen; secretary, Mr. T. M. Subrayen; assistant secretary, Mr. V. Padayachee; treasurer, Mr. Raymond Poonsamy.

CAGED BIRD SHOW

THE Natal Caged Bird Society is holding a caged canary exhibition in the Nizamia school hall on Saturday, commencing at 2 p.m. Many varieties of rare canaries will be on show and they will provide a treat for bird lovers.

SERVICE RECORD

MEET Mr. Sewpaul — sports administrator, social and religious worker, educationist.

Mr. Sewpaul carries his 67 years lightly. He became a sports administrator in 1927, when he represented the once famous Royals Cricket and Soccer Clubs on the councils of the Pietermaritzburg Cricket Union and the Football Association.

As an educationist, he is the power behind the throne of the Shri Vishnu Temple—its Government-aided English-medium school of which he is the grantee, and its vernacular school. Recently, he was instrumental in raising R400 by public subscription to pay for the cost of replacing the Vishnu schoolhouse's cement floors with marley tiles.

He has been working for the same company of market agents — first for Mr. J. W. Poole, and now for his son, Mr. J. B. Poole for 47 years — an unblemished record of service.

When will he retire? His bright eyes twinkle as he smiles and says, "Ah, that depends on my boss."

RAMESHAR BHUGWANDASS

Mr. Rameshar Bhugwandass, grantee of the Isnembe Indian School, passed away peacefully at his residence on Wednesday, March 20, 1963, at the age of 65.

The principal, staff and pupils of the school formed a guard of honour opposite the school to pay their last respects to the deceased as the funeral cortege passed by.

Mr Bhugwandass was born in Tongaat in 1898. At first he was employed as a foreman on Mr. Heenan's farm at Isnembe and later became a successful sugar cane farmer. He served many organisations in Isnembe and other centres. He was great in mind and bounteous at heart, a benefactor, a friend and an adviser.

He is survived by his wife, three sons, six daughters and many grandchildren to mourn their loss.

But tears of the heart forever stay.

A. P. GOVENDER. — In loving memory of my dear Husband and our beloved Dad, who was called to rest on May 21, 1962.

May comes with sad regrets
A month we'll never forget
Quick and sudden came the call
His death surprised us all
Its only those who know can tell
The sorrows of parting without farewell
On earth you toiled, in Heaven you'll rest
God bless you, Dad, you were one of the best.

—Ever remembered by his loving wife, children, son-in-law, daughter-in-law and grandchildren, Pietermaritzburg.

Rain stops vital tennis match

By EBRAHIM OSMAN

THE vital league match between Royal and Central did not take place on Sunday because the Royal court was unplayable after the early morning rain. Sydenham retained their unbeaten record with a 5-0 victory over Sultan "B", and Sultan "A" were outclassed by Avoca, 5-0. Umzinto "A" beat Avoca "B" 5-0.

On Sunday, Avoca "A" meet the strong Royals at Avoca. On paper Royal appear to have a well-balanced side with ex-Kismet players, "Ginger" Mahomedy and "Lightning" Kadwa forming the "A" pair. Unless Avoca have Luckraj back in the side they are likely to have trouble in trying to balance their pairs and are almost certain to slide to their third league defeat.

Moonlighters "A" travel to Umzinto where they are likely to prove too strong for the home "B" team. There should be a fairly even match at the Sydenham court where two weak sides meet—Moonlighters "B" and Avoca "B". Central will be at home to Umzinto "A" and though they could be made to fight hard, are unlikely to lose their unbeaten record. At the Sultan court there will be a home fixture between the "A" and "B" teams.

With some teams affiliating late, there will be some reorganisation of fixtures. Umzinto "B" has come in after the drawing up of the first round fixtures. Brighton has also decided to join and a team from Pietermaritzburg is expected to affiliate.

Late Mrs. A. Lockhat

The Principal of the Ahmedia Government-Aided Indian School, Mr. M. S. Ismail, convened a special assembly of teachers and pupils last Monday to pay tribute to the memory of the late Mrs. Aisha Lockhat, the wife of the founder of the school.

As a mark of respect, the school closed early and prayers were offered.

satisfactory in future. Vengetas with excessive liquor in his system, became very abusive. He used to stand outside the theatre using obscene language calling the Managing Director (Mr. M. A. Nydoo) and other directors in all funny names. As a matter of fact he was one day taken away by the police for being a public nuisance.

The report also contained allegations to the effect that Mr. Vengetas printed 250,000 cinema tickets valued at about R2,000 without authority of his superiors, which in Mr. Vengetas's opinion meant, and was understood to mean, that by having the tickets printed and or by taking possession of the tickets, he intended to defraud the said company, or acted with some sinister motive, or acted improperly, or acted contrary to his duties as manager or acted in the furtherance of his own ends and against the interests of the company.

Mr. G. B. Muller, with him Mr. J. Hewitt, instructed by R. S. Pather and Company, is appearing for Mr Vengetas, and Mr. J. Broome, instructed by Lionel Meskin, is appearing for the defendants.

Sparks City outplay Boystown

"Leader" Sports Staff

IN spite of failing to take advantage of a penalty quite early in the game, and yet after trailing 0-2 in the first half, Sparks City completely outplayed Boystown in a league match at Asherville on Sunday. Sparks City eventually won the game 6-2. In the other games Essendene United beat the new Dahlian Stars 2-0, while Mayfair easily gained full points from Aster.

Boystown's inner right, S. Chookie, got the game started with a beautiful goal. Centre forward Bobby Moodley increased the lead and it seemed that Boystown were set for a big victory.

But this was not to be so. Although Norman Naidoo got City supporters worried when he failed to score off a penalty, he compensated for his failure with two quick goals—the first from a long pass and the other a header off a K. Joseph pass.

The third goal came from Joseph and the fourth from Peter. The final two goals from Gen made the final score 6-2.

Hearts and Swallows in key game for soccer honours

"Leader" Sports Staff

AVALON ATHLETIC held Moroka Swallows to a draw. What then is Hearts chance against this top Rand side on Saturday. Will Hearts return with the unbeaten record and two points and thus bring to an end Swallow's good record. Or will Hearts disappoint their local fans by at least failing to do what Avalon was able to do? That is the question professional soccer followers throughout the country will be asking until Saturday—the day when Hearts met Moroka Swallows.

This is one of the key games in the hunt for the South African Soccer League honours. The team that wins this weekend's game has a good chance of finishing at the top of the first round.

At this stage Hearts have a one-point lead over Avalon and Moroka Swallows. All of them have played seven games. Hearts have 14 points as against the 13 by Swallows and Avalon.

PLAYERS AT BEST

As can be expected, Hearts will do all that is possible to win the game. They have a fine side and all their players are at their best. Their training has been very consistent and rigid, and the manner in which they undertake their task will make the other teams envious.

Hearts are playing in the Transvaal for the first time this season and this places them at some disadvantage.

This encounter is between two of the League's best and fittest sides and whatever the outcome the anticipated record crowd should be able to see soccer at its best.

The struggling Aces have a much easier game this weekend, against Transvaal United. Hardly over the two recent shocks against Hearts and Pirates, Aces face the bottom of the league team. Of course, they cannot afford to lose to United and at any rate this would seem unlikely, but one does not so easily forget the drawn game against Coastals — when they could just as well have lost.

PIETERMARITZBURG

Blackpool, already suffering internal administration difficulties, which is telling on the playing fields, will be in the Natal capital on Sunday for the fixtures against the up and coming Lincoln City. Blackpool have been doing rather badly so far and have been able to manage just three points from six games, whereas Lincoln City have two more points and have played two more games.

The recent thrashing Lincoln dished out to Maritzburg City is still fresh in their minds and this certainly boosted their morale to a large extent.

Soccer at Mayville

"Leader" Sports Staff

MANNING Rangers and Crimson Lads provide the main fixture at the Mayville Ground on Sunday when they meet in a Senior "A" league fixture. Preceding this match is the Moonlighters-Mayville clash at 2 p.m.

Crimson Lads lost the game against Cato Stars last weekend, but still they could be expected to prove a fairly tough opposition for Manning Rangers.

Cato Stars and Sutherlands play on the adjoining ground at 2.15 p.m.

In the matches played a week ago Sutherlands defeated Daffodils 3-0, and Manning Rangers went down to Mayville 2-1. In the remaining senior match Cato Stars defeated Crimson Lads 1-0. In the junior matches Manning Rangers beat Daffodils 3-1 and Aryan Wanderers held Crimson Lads to a 1-1 draw.

Split in darts association is bad for the game

WE reported last week that a new body to control darts in the country was being formed in opposition to the one that already exists. It has not been easy to determine the exact reason for the split, but whatever the reason, we do not think this is a good thing.

Sport in South Africa is at the cross roads and our administrators must make it their duty to build up whatever sport they are connected with. We cannot afford to let differences creep in at this stage. It will be a bold effort if representatives of both the existing Board and the proposed new organisation got together to iron out the problems. This could be a difficult problem, but greater problems have been solved.

This is where officials of the South African Sports Association can step in. They must act as arbitrators to sort out matters. After all, if the new body is allowed to be formed, it will not help the present body or sport in general, and for this reason people like Mr. George Singh, M. N. Pather and the other members of SASA must step in—before it is too late.

We also reported then that the new body expressed dissatisfaction that the South African Darts Board of Control was not affiliated to either SASA or the South African Non-Racial Olympic Games Committee. This matter, too, should interest SASA officials. Rather than getting SASA to accept the new organisation something positive should be done about patching up the difficulties.

New R5,000 sponsored race at Scottsville

By "AMBASSADOR"

HIGHLIGHT of the nine-race programme at Scottsville on Saturday will be the R5,000 Smirnoff Plate for two-year-olds.

Several of the country's top horses are contesting this inaugural race, and the 22 runners constitute a formidable field.

Going by the form book I take Honest Rush to win from On the Beat, Afghan and Actor.

GOOD RECORD

Honest Rush was running strongly last Saturday at Greyville when he just failed to overhaul Patronike in the Natal Breeders' Stakes. He has a splendid record and has won two of his last three races in good style.

Nagoor Govender, of Stanger, qualified to meet Elias Tshabalala for the national featherweight crown when he gained a t.k.o. decision at the end of the six-round bout against Sexton Mabena at the Durban City Hall on Friday evening. Mabena retired from the fight, apparently with an injured wrist. Sexton Mabena is shown above avoiding a right from his Indian opponent.

Govender pleased with fight — now after title

By MORGAN NAIDOO

NAGOOR GOVENDER, the young Stanger Indian, has not been discourabed by the criticisms of local sports writers in connection with his sixth round t.k.o. decision he gained over Sexton Mabena at the Durban City Hall last Friday evening. "I was pleased with the fight," he told me, "and my aim now is to win the South African featherweight title.

Sexton Mabena was ahead in the fight until he surprisingly withdrew at the end of the sixth round. Nagoor was punching well, too, but not as strongly as his opponent. The first two rounds were evenly contested with the next two going to Sexton. The remaining two were about even. It was learnt that Mabena had withdrawn because of an injured wrist.

Bobby Moodley, fighting for the first time in the professional ranks, beat Frank Vert on points. Eddie Veeran managed the 10 rounds of the Natal flyweight title fight against the holder, Fighting April, but he proved no match for the more experienced April. It was difficult to understand why Veeran did not give up the fight in the fourth or fifth rounds.

Elias Tshabalala, the South African featherweight champion, knocked out substitute Moses Nxumalo in the sixth round of a scheduled six-rounder. Tshabalala is expected to be Nagoor Govender's next opponent.

Kangaroo Maoto and Dick Goba provided the evening's best bout, and this fight had more thrills in it than the main encounter. Although he fell in the first round, Maoto swung back into action and won on points.

Profits from Springfield golf for Papwa fund

CONSIDERABLE interest is being shown in the big golf tournament that is to be played at the Springfield course this Sunday. The entire profits from this match will be donated to the "Papwa Fund" so as to enable the golfer to campaign on the British circuit. Papwa is due to leave next month.

Mr S. Maduraimuthoo, the secretary of the Durban Indian Golf Club told "The Leader" that a large number of entries had already been received and he was sure that by the time the entries closed a record number of competitors would have entered. The participation of Papwa himself will highlight this 36-hole match.

Because of the large field, Mr. Maduraimuthoo emphasised that the first couple will definitely tee off at 8.30 a.m. He requested the cooperation of golfers to ensure that the competition did start as scheduled.

A medal competition will be held on Saturday but those taking part in Sunday's game will be allowed to practise on Saturday.

WINS AGAIN

G. I. Peters won yet another competition at Springfield on Saturday with a victory in the medal match. He scored [illegible].

A. C. and S. O. Suckas took the honours for the four-ball better ball match the following day with a score of [illegible]. P. Moonsamy and S. Naidoo finished one stroke behind — [illegible]. Ken Smith and R. Naidoo and R. and M. P. Pragg were joint third.

Ramblers win dull game

BEFORE a poor crowd of 450, Cape Ramblers won their first home game 6-4 against Real Fighters at the Green Point Track on Saturday morning.

Conditions were not conducive to good football as a steady drizzle prevailed throughout, which the visiting side found difficult to overcome. The game itself never reached any great heights with Ramblers only proving their superiority in the last 10 minutes when they rammed in three goals.

Wally Roomaney, playing on the right wing, had a good game, scoring three fine goals.

Aces U'td must play better soccer to regain popularity

"Leader" Sports Staff

ACES UNITED are fast losing their popularity among their Durban fans, and unless they make a striking comeback in the remaining matches they are unlikely to finish at the top of the 1963 league competition. Their failure against Orlando Pirates last Sunday pushed their chances a step backward.

MANDY DAVIS

Playing with former Blackpool keeper, Mandy Davis, Pirates held Aces to a goalless draw in the first half. Excited Pirates players saw Abraham Koza net a goal in the 15th minute, but the linesman had ruled off-side. Dan Naidoo brought off quite a few fine saves during the first session.

Immediately after the game had resumed Dingaan Pakaah opened Pirates' scoring but the visitors were not able to hold on to this much longer for Ronnie Green scored for Aces within two minutes of the first goal. Aces United took the lead in the 60th minute through another goal from Green. But two goals in three minutes from Abraham Koza and Kaizer Makwanazi enabled the visiting team to take control of the game. With time running out Aces hopes lay in clinching a draw but a poor finish by their forwards did not make this possible.

Pirates had the two points all sealed up when Kaizer Makwanazi scored in the last minute of the match.

Avalon Athletic emerged from the match against Moroka Swallows at Johannesburg on Saturday as a team that will have to be feared when the finals of the league are being decided. In a match watched by 35,000 people, which reached exciting moments several times, Avalon and Swallows played a 1-1 draw.

Denzil Easthorpe, Avalon's goalkeeper, played an outstanding game and played no small part in Avalon drawing the game.

Benny Maseko was the first to score when in the 25th minute he worked the ball neatly into the net. Earlier, Swallows had missed no less than three certain shots. Swallows hung on to the 1-0 lead until the middle of the second half. Then Dharam Mohan moved the ball in a solo effort towards the goals and a quick pass to Sears Wanda made it possible for Avalon to equalise.

The fate of the game was in the balance until the final whistle.

ORLANDO'S FIGHTING VICTORY WINS PRIZE

"Leader" Sports Staff

ORLANDO PIRATES' fighting victory over Aces United has just about put paid to the Durban team's chances in the South African Soccer League's R2,000 competition. Until this game was played, both the sides were on even terms in the log with eight points each, but the position now shows the Pirates have taken a two-point lead over the joint league champions.

For their fine game and the equally fine victory, Pirates have been voted the team of the week. Hearty congratulations, Pirates. Our Johannesburg representative, Mr A. G. Ebrahim, will make the necessary arrangements with United Tobacco Company to make the presentation of cigarettes in Johannesburg.

SPECIAL BRANCH RAID N.E.U.M.

Sequel to "Police Reserve" clash at Chatsworth

"Leader" Chief Reporter

SPECIAL Branch detectives of the South African Police this week visited the home of Mr. Enver Hassim, a Durban attorney and leading member of the Non-European Unity Movement and the African People's Democratic Union of South Africa, and removed certain documents and papers relating to these organisations.

This action arises out of an incident when the African Peoples Democratic Union went out to the Chatsworth Indian Housing Scheme on Monday and distributed leaflets calling on the residents not to join the Police Reserve.

In an exclusive interview with "The Leader," Mr. A. K. Essack of Pietermaritzburg, who is a top executive of the "Apdusa," said that the aim of the movement was to try and remove national oppression, irrespective of colour, both in politics and society. Contrary to public opinion it was not an organisation to overthrow law and order, he said.

Mr. Essack said that when members of his organisation went to Chatsworth to distribute pamphlets outlining the proposed activities of the Police Reserve, a resident of Chatsworth mustered a few individuals and under the guise of police reservists snatched a bundle of leaflets from a member and refused to hand them back. When his identity was questioned he was alleged to have denied that he was a member of the Police Reserve.

A senior police officer informed "The Leader" that the matter was now being investigated."

Mr. Essack said "Apdusa" welcomed the formation of a Police Reserve if it confined itself to the protection of crime and property. But if police reservists were used in time of national crisis it would culminate in political and social divisions among the various races with disastrous results.

"Miss Domino" crowned

Beautiful Miss Cathrine Wood, of Verulam, was selected Miss Domino at the Durban City Hall when the South African Rock-Band contest was held last week. Miss Wood is pictured with her princesses, Georgette Singh (left) and Gaharron Jacobs. In the Rock contest The Rebels, with their vocalist Essop Ganie, added a third national title to their group when they were declared the winners. The Jets and Footsteps were awarded second and third places respectively.

Varsity to make C.O.L. survey

ABOUT 5,000 "sample" families belonging to the low, middle and high income groups, as well as those living on the dole, will be interviewed by a team of 10 research workers of the University of Natal's Department of Economics in a survey of income and expenditure of the community.

The survey is under the direction of Dr. S. Cooppan of the University of Natal, and is likely to take several months before the team publishes its findings and recommendations.

Dr Cooppan told "The Leader" that a "pilot survey" had already been concluded, and that the survey proper was now under way. The survey would include every Indian settlement in Durban, such as the Chatsworth and Merewent Indian housing schemes, the many shack settlements, as well as the select areas of Asherville, Reservoir Hills and Clare Estate.

Survey workers will take into consideration the religions and the languages of their "guinea pigs" and will go into expenses incurred by the families for food, clothing, education, recreation, pleasures, health, doctors' and hospital fees, bus and train fares and other aspects of the daily life.

Pay-roll robbers foiled by courageous clerk

THREE African bandits made a daring attempt to steal a R622 payroll from a young Indian in broad daylight in busy West Street, Durban, last week, but the courage and presence of mind of the victim foiled the attempt.

Pint-sized Harry Sewpersadh, a 21-year-old clerical assistant employed by A. A. Savage & Co., of West Street, Durban, cashed his firm's weekly pay cheque of R622 from a nearby bank and was on his way back to the office when an African crossed his path and suddenly threw a handful of chili powder into his eyes, temporarily blinding him. One of the bandits grabbed the bag containing the money and ran.

SCREAMED

"I screamed and attracted the attention of passers by," said Mr. Sewpersadh, "and then gave chase. I finally caught up with the African and tripped him. As he fell, I retrieved the bag of money and hung on to it."

The bandit quickly got up and was lost in the crowd.

No arrests have been made.

Youth Congress "deeply deplores" Naicker ban

"Leader" Reporter

THE confining of Dr. Naicker, President of the Natal Indian Congress to the Magisterial district of Durban for five years and depriving him of freedom of movement is not compatible with justice and democratic thinking, and is deeply deplored says a statement issued yesterday by the Natal Indian Youth Congress.

The statement said that the banning was a mockery of democracy and was imposed because the Government feared the "personality cult of our great leader."

"Dr. Naicker, as leader of the Congress movement and the Indian people, has made many sacrifices to fight for the common rights and civil liberties of all the oppressed people of South Africa. He has always fought by peaceful means, and no one can deny that he has followed in the footsteps of his predecessor, Mahatma Gandhi, who founded the Congress movement."

The statement ends: "The Youth Congress records its solidarity with Dr. Naicker and states that truth will eventually triumph over evil."

In terms of the banning, Dr. Naicker will have to engage new counsel for his appeal against his recent Group Areas conviction, as his present counsel, Mr. A. Fischer, is himself banned and the two may not communicate.

Think of these things

By THE GOOD DISCIPLE

"BE anxious about nothing; but in everything by prayer and supplication with thanksgiving let your requests be made unto God. And the peace of God which passeth all understanding shall keep your hearts and minds through Christ Jesus."

Prayer is one of the greatest privileges given to man, and when man realises his need and turns his face to God and admits that he has a need and requests the blessing of God, He will fill every need. Seek ye the Lord while He may be found, call ye upon Him while He is near; let the wicked forsake his way and the unrighteous man his thoughts, and let him return unto the Lord and He will have mercy upon him; and to our God, for He will abundantly pardon. Get onto your knees in repentance, being sorry for the many times you have neglected God and failed to answer His when He has called you. Repent of your sin, wickedness and unrighteousness and call on the Lord while you read these words, for as you read—He is near—ask for forgiveness and He will abundantly pardon. Ask Jesus Christ to show you His ways, to teach you His paths, to lead you into His truths, for He is the Saviour—He is the Advocate with the Father. He is the propitiation for our sins, and not ours only, but also for the sins of the whole world. By His sacrifice, by taking our sin upon Himself and by Him dying the death we deserved, He has made us at one with the Father, the God of our salvation. For God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish but have everlasting life. Jesus said, "Let not your heart be troubled, ye believe in God, believe also in me." He that believeth . . . shall be saved; but he that believeth not shall be damned.

Put your trust and faith in the living Christ, believe in Him, make Him the Lord of your life, accept Him as your personal Saviour, acknowledge your sin and need for His forgiveness and ask that you may be received, that you may accept the free gift of salvation and enter into the Kingdom of God, not by your works or goodness, but by the finished work of Jesus on the Cross of Calvary where the spilt blood washed away all sin.

Don't be anxious, but in prayer and supplication with thanksgiving let this request be made unto God. Ask and it SHALL be given you: seek and ye SHALL find; knock and it SHALL be opened unto you.

Jesus said: "Behold, I stand at the door (of your life) and knock: if any man hear my voice and open the door, I WILL come in and sup with him and he with me." Think on these things.

WORKERS CRITICISE PINETOWN SHOE CO. AT MASS MEETING

"Leader" Reporter

A MEETING of several hundred Indians held at the Bolton Hall in Durban last week criticised the policy of the Management of a Pinetown shoe factory and resolved to call upon the Board of Directors to explain the management's policy which had resulted in the dismissal of 50 Indian employees and a further 600 being put on short time.

Mr. L. M. Ramsing, the chairman of the Durban Leather Workers Union, said that the cause of the dismissal and retrenchment of workers by the administration staff of the company was an attempt to indicate to the Board of Directors that better and economical methods could be achieved if it reduced its staff to keep in line with production.

Replying to the alleged destruction of machinery, Mr. Ramsing dismissed it as nonsense. "It is unbelieveable," he said, "that anyone endeavouring to eke out a livelihood would want to destroy the means by which they exist."

Mr. J. Munsamy, a vice-chairman of the Union detailed the work of his Union to bring about better relations between the workers and the management. He said an agreement was reached on this aspect, but the company abrogated this agreement when it suited them, and dismissed the workers without giving any reasons for their actions.

The company paid the workers a week's pay instead of giving notice. Among the workers dismissed were several Europeans. Some were reinstated, or new employees replaced them.

The meeting decided to appoint a deputation of five to approach the Board of Directors and place before them the grievances of the workers.

Chatsworth rail link wanted

THE non-European Railway Passengers' Association is seeking an interview with the full South African Railways Board when it makes a tour of Durban and the Natal South Coast at the end of next month for an on-the-spot inspection of the sites of important railway projects.

The interview is being sought to plead with the board for the extension of a passenger rail link with Indian housing schemes at Chatsworth and Merebank, which would enable residents here to travel cheaply to their work.

Meanwhile the Durban City Council is discussing the feasibility of requesting the Government to extend rail services to the Chatsworth housing scheme.

The Council has already received a report from a firm of engineers regarding the cost of such an undertaking.

The engineers estimate the cost at R3,300,000 if the line was to be built from Merebank and R3,250,000 if the junction point was at Montclair.

CHEAPER ROUTE

The route via Montclair to Durban would be 1½ miles shorter than via Merebank, and fares therefore would be cheaper, but the Merebank route would have the advantage of serving the Merebank-Wentworth housing as well.

Either route would not interfere with existing houses and services at Chatsworth or the proposed Outer Ring road.

AROUND THE CAPITAL

IT is customary for people and nations, industrial companies and other institutions to celebrate their silver, golden and diamond jubilees or a centenary, but the Dick Whittington Footwear Manufacturing Company took the unusual step of celebrating its 15th anniversary last Monday.

The latest issue of the Dick Whittington Welfare Committee's newsletter contains a review of managing director, Mr. J. A. Terblanche, and his associates the company's history.

It was recorded that when the decided to build their own factory, many people wondered whether the new enterprise would be profitable.

It has according to the newsletter.

The new factory at Pleasslaer became an accomplished fact and the first pair of shoes was produced there on May 20, 1948.

The Welfare Committee pays tribute to the company for their co-operation in maintaining a healthy employer/employee relationship, and for their gift of a full outfit for the company's soccer club which plays in the local Leatherworkers Soccer League.

To mark their 15th anniversary, the company has given gifts of footwear to the inmates of the Aryan Benevolent Home. The old people know the name of their benefactor and they are certainly grateful.

SHOPBREAKERS have been reaping rich gains in the Capital.

One night last week burglars broke into Cara's American Outfitters shop in Retief Street through a fanlight and helped themselves to shoes, clothing, wrist watches and transistor radios worth R700.

Two nights later, burglars wrenched three locks affixed to a burglar guard in N. M. Amod's general dealer's shop across the road and escaped with about R400 worth of wrist watches.

Between Boom Street and Church Street, Retief Street has become the haunt of pickpockets, confidence tricksters and what have you. Shopkeepers, flat-dwellers and pedestrians are pleading for police patrols in the daytime, let alone at night, so dangerous has this area become.

Grocers not keen to sell liquor

"Leader" Reporter

A RECENT suggestion to proclaim legislation to enable grocers to stock and supply wines and liquor to Indians has not been favourably received by Indian merchants.

In an interview with "The Leader", Mr. E. H. Ismail, president of the Durban Indian [illegible] tailers Association, said he did not think that the sale of wines and liquors by Muslim grocers would be received [illegible]cally. The Muslim religion forbade association with liquor in any form and the distribution of it by grocers was in conflict with the teachings of Islam.

THUGS STAB, ROB WORKER ON VICTORIA BRIDGE

"Leader" Reporter

MR. NUNDLALL MUNGHROO, of Merebank, was held up and robbed of his entire wages by three well-dressed Africans on the Victoria Street Bridge last Friday night.

He was on his way to catch a bus at the Victoria Street rank, when the incident took place.

He was stabbed twice on his hand and was told not to shout, while the thugs went about rifling the contents of his pocket. They took R17—his week's wages—with which he was to have bought woollies and other baby's wear for his newly-born child.

Mr. Munghroo said that he finished his work late on Friday. It was nearing eight o'clock when the thugs set upon him. "I screamed for help, but suddenly one of the robbers warned me to keep quiet or he would kill me. He then flourished a knife and to prove his point stabbed me on the wrist," he said.

Many people were walking on the bridge at that time but none ventured to help him. And there was no policeman near the scene.

The bridge, together with the unused Municipal testing grounds in Warwick Avenue, and the "robbery mile" in Alice Street, are the most notorious haunts for the robbers. Despite pleas for a round-the-clock police patrol in these areas, little or nothing has been done to alleviate the dangers for the pedestrians.

Papwa Fund

THE officials of the Papwa Trust Fund are pleased that the local community is showing excellent response to its appeal for funds to send Papwa overseas next month. R100 cheques from the South African Soccer League, Natal Golf Association and the Durban Indian Sports Grounds Association, plus R50 from the Durban Football Association has shot the total to R1,467. But more money is still needed.

Schools are co-operating "wonderfully", according to Mr. R. Lutchman, the treasurer of the Fund.

Varsity play is treat for theatre goers

"Leader" Reporter

DURBAN theatre-goers are in for a rare treat when the Maritzburg section of the University of Natal stages William Shakespeare's "The Taming of the Shrew" at the M. L. Sultan Theatre Hall this weekend.

The production, which is part of the University's Festival '63 programme, is being put on in Durban on an exchange basis with "The School for Scandal", the Durban Academy of Theatre Arts presentation.

An undertaking of a similar nature was effected last year when "Measure for Measure" was brought to Durban.

The production, which will take place in a non-racial atmosphere, has been acclaimed by audiences of all races at performances in Maritzburg, and it is said to be the most popular dramatic effort at the Varsity in the past ten years.

Mr. J. A. Berthoud, a lecturer in the Department of English, produced the play, the cast of which features both students and members of staff. A combination, according to Mr. Berthoud, that tends to make for a much higher quality of production. Added to this the cast is experienced in Shakespearean plays.

STARS

The leading roles of Katherine and Petruchio are played by Hildur Gulbrandsen and Neville Holgate respectively.

Other prominent players include Ray Rutherford-Smith, Llewellyn Alexander and Peter Hey.

"The Taming of the Shrew" deals with the relationship between men and women. The main plot shows how a man sufficiently dominates a fiery woman to make a "human being" out of her, and the sub-plot shows the reverse truth—how deceptiveness and intrigue between lovers lead to misunderstanding and conflict.

Aspects which lend enchantment to the production are the delightful costumes and the music.

The costumes were designed by Astrid Berthoud and her work won for her the special University award, the President's Cup.

Dr J. C. Poynton, a member of the Zoology Department, specially composed the music for the play, and this is played by three musicians in costume on stage.

Lovely, or rather, luverly Diane Todd who plays cockney Eliza Doolittle in the biggest musical hit of all time, "My Fair Lady," opening soon at Durban's Alhambra Theatre. Miss Todd, a Scots lass, made her first stage appearance at the age of four and has had vast experience in both straight plays and musicals. In this musical adaptation by Learner and Loew of Bernard Shaw's stage success, "Pygmalion," she is teamed with David Oxley (Henry Higgins) and John Bascomby (Mr. Doolittle).

Wrist watches stolen

Burglars broke into the Empire Watchmakers shop in lower Church Street, Pietermaritzburg, on Saturday night and cleaned the shop out of its entire stock of wrist watches valued at more than R600.

The burglars gained entry into the shop by scaling a 10ft.-high iron gate and smashing open the burglar guard on the back door.

Farce of job reservation in present grave worker shortage

THE Government has, under a recent decree, banned Indians and Coloureds in Durban and the surrounding areas, from carpentry, joinery, wood-machining, plastering, plumbing, electrical wiring and shop fitting. The decree came into effect from Monday, May 13—an unlucky day for the Blacks.

The magisterial districts of Durban, Inanda and Pinetown are affected. Perhaps more than half of South Africa's Indians live in these districts.

The decree is retroactive. Only those Indians and Coloureds who were employed in these trades on November 9 last year are unaffected by this ban.

Under a high-sounding, platitudinous name, the Government calls this "job reservation". In actual fact it is the denial of jobs to a man of colour because he happens to be black. It is the caste system in operation.

It is done in the name of White supremacy and apartheid. The idea is to keep the Black man in his place. Who does it all help? Certainly not the Whites.

For but a few days after the decree came into force, the Secretary of the Durban branch of the Amalgamated Society of Woodworkers is reported as saying that conditions in Natal's building trade are so good that "anyone, even the sick, the lame and the halt, who can handle tools, is assured of a job". There is a serious shortage of artisans and the position would be desperate in six months' time.

Says he: "We can guarantee any worker at least R40 per week with overtime."

Any White worker, that is. Any building artisan, he says, from London or Rhodesia is guaranteed an immediate job "under the best conditions the industry has ever enjoyed".

ROSY FOR WHITES

A rosy picture indeed — but for Europeans and Rhodesians only.

What future is there for our children under this South African caste system? What future is there for a country which denies a man of colour his God-given right to earn a decent living by doing a day's hard, honest work? Suffice to say that no White man in this country would like this to happen to his children.

WHY, THEN, SHOULD IT HAPPEN TO US?

Ratepayers oppose North Coast housing scheme

THE Mayville Indian Ratepayers' Association opposes the Durban City Council's proposals to build an Indian housing scheme in the Phoenix and Mt. Edgecombe areas on the Natal North Coast.

The Council's proposals are for about 2,300 houses a year to be built in this area, in addition to Chatsworth and Merebank housing schemes, "as long as the shortage of housing for Indians exists."

The association describes this as an attempt on the part of the Council to "rid" Durban of its entire Indian population. of the Housing Committee, the

In a letter to the Chairman of the association's secretary, Mr. Sooboo Rajah urges the Council not to approve of the proposals for the new housing scheme.

"These undesirable proposals," Mr. Rajah's letter states, "are absolutely unwarranted on the grounds that they are morally wrong to disintegrate the whole structure of Indian life and its economy which has been built over a period of more than 100 years.

Mr. Rajah "notes with regret" the "dangerous part" the Council is playing in co-operating with the Government to "get rid of the Indian, from Durban without paying any regard to justice and fair play."

"Why should the Council," asks Mr Rajah, "take the initiative to pave the way for resettlement of its Indian citizens outside the borough of Durban? We contend, in all seriousness, that the Council has the power to refuse being a party to removing Indians to distant areas."

Saying that the Council should build Indian housing schemes within the borough of Durban, Mr. Rajah adds: "It will be impracticable to implement Government policy under the Group Areas Act now or for ever.

"Neither the Government nor the City Council can afford to spend on three fronts — European areas, Indian townships and 'Ghost' towns," says Mr. Rajah.

Sub fleet for India

THE Indian Navy is examining proposals for equipping itself with a submarine fleet and the need for these boats has been recognised by the Government.

This information was disclosed in the Lok Sabha recently by Defence Minister Y. B. Chavan. He added that the creation of the fleet might take some time; Naval headquarters have, however, been asked to submit proposals.

Earlier, replying to a question, the Minister said that the Government of India was aware that the Chinese Navy had the capacity of operating some of its submarines and other craft in the Bay of Bengal and the Indian Ocean.

Mr. Chavan said that the Indian Navy possessed a number of fast ships. The aircraft on the aircraft carrier Vikrant were also capable of tracking and pursuing suspicious vessels.

He added that there were proposals for constructing both speed naval ships and the matter was under the consideration of Government.

More cigs in India

PEOPLE in India seem to find tobacco irresistible whatever the medical men may have to say about its effect on health.

The consumption of cigarettes and of "Bidis" has been spiralling up since 1955, according to figures available in New Delhi.

In 1955, factories in the country rolled out 22,828.5-million cigarettes, nearly 62.57-million a day. Six years later production had nearly doubled to 41,044 million. In 1962 during the first five months alone, cigarette production had reached 20,646-million, about 96.5-million pieces a day.

Besides, an average of 152-billion "Bidis" were rolled out in the country from 1955. In 1960-61 "Bidi" production reached an all-time level of 160-billion, about 438.4-million a day.

LEADER OPINION

"A ROSE BY ANY OTHER NAME"

THE word "apartheid" has become unpopular not only in our own country but overseas. The State Information Office, Radio South Africa and Government newspapers prefer the phrase "separate development." Now a Nationalist Senator has suggested what he terms a nicer word for apartheid. Call it "parallel development," he says.

For Senator H. van Aarde it is a "rose by any other name." But giving apartheid a nicer sounding "word" does not turn it into a rose.

Not only do we have to abandon the word apartheid, but everything it means in practical (and unpractical) terms!

What difference does it make if Group Areas, Job Reservation, Race Classification, Segregated Varsity Education, the Pass Laws and the whole volume of racial laws in their operation are given a nicer sounding word? It makes not a tittle of difference to its victims when one word is substituted for another.

What is the object? Is it to deceive the unsuspecting foreign investor or visitor or prospective immigrant that apartheid is not what it really is in practice? Some of them may be bluffed into thinking that it is something nice—if we are a nicer word.

But does the use of a nicer word or phrase make life different for those who suffer from apartheid's oppressive yoke? We do not believe so.

Pak. President to visit U.K.

PRESIDENT MOHAMMAD AYUB KHAN has accepted an invitation from Queen Elizabeth II to visit Britain this year, says a Press Note issued by the Ministry of External Affairs, Government of Pakistan.

The President's visit will take place towards the end of [illegible] adds the Press Note. The [illegible] of the visit will be announced later.

President Ayub said Queen Elizabeth had originally proposed that he visits Britain in June this year, but he suggested a later date owing to preoccupations relating to the forthcoming Budget session of the National Assembly, which will be held in Rawalpindi at that time.

RENEWED

The original invitation to the President was extended by the Queen, during her visit to Pakistan in March, 1961. This has now been renewed.

It is understood that during his visit, the President will have the opportunity of conferring with the British Prime Minister and other top leaders of the Government and the Opposition Parties to exchange views on important international matters.

New Kupugani depot at Magazine Barracks

"Leader" Reporter

KUPAGANI, a non-profit making organisation, has made protein rich vitamin food available to the residents in the vicinity of Magazine and Railway Barracks when they opened yet another of their depots at the Magazine Barracks Hall last week.

In an interview with "The Leader", Mr. Raymond Arde, the Director of Kupagani, who was primarily responsible for bringing this commodity within the reach of the average Indian family and especially the lower income group, said that the foods marketed by his organisation contained no animal fats, which Indians regarded as unsuitable due to their religious beliefs. These foods were invaluable to young children for it would enable them to build up resistance against undernourishment and consequent malnutrition.

HEALTH OFFICER

Mr. Arde said that the various depots in and around Durban were inter-racial, and the public was asked to buy the low cost food.

He added that the appointment of Mrs. Agnes Ellis as a Health Education Officer had resulted in two depots being established amongst the Coloured community. The first of these was opened at the Coloured Memorial Centre at Sparks Estate last Friday, and the other at St. Raphaels Church, in Stratford Road, Durban.

Mrs Ellis said that it was the intention of the Kupgeni organisation to extend their operations to the Bantu community soon.

Pather rejects Asherville "panic"

"Leader" Reporter

Mr. P. R. Pather, president of the Natal Indian Organisation, has rejected the suggestion that Asherville will be proclaimed either for Whites or Coloureds, and that the more than 1,000 Indian families living there may have to move out to Indian housing schemes being built by the City Council far from the city.

He said: "The fears existing in the minds of some property owners at Asherville are unfounded. I do hope that the rumours that Asherville may not be proclaimed an Indian group area are not inspired by some unscrupulous persons, for these rumours might conceivably result in panic selling by some

Mr. Pather stated that the Asherville area, which contained sub-economic and economic houses was determined for Indian ownership and occupation under Section 16(3)(b) of the Group Areas Act.

"It is this determination that enabled the Durban City Council to proceed with the housing scheme. The fact that no Indian owner in Asherville applied for a determination to build or occupy, unlike other areas in Durban, is sufficient proof that the area as a whole has been determined for Indian ownership and occupation," he said.

Reward for service

MR B. J. MAHARAJ was elected the Hon. Life Vice-President of the Welbedacht Indian School Committee at its annual meeting. He has been the Hon. Secretary of the School Committee for the last 18 years.

During his term of office two blocks of nine classrooms were erected, soup-kitchen and caretaker's quarters were built, school ground levelled and many other improvements were made at the school.

Mr Maharaj is also the chairman of the Cavendish Hindu [illegible] Sabha which is an educational, religious and cultural [illegible].

Low price for Stella Hill land

INDIAN property owners in Stella Hill are disappointed at what they claim low valuations given for their lands by the Group Areas Board.

They say that the Board has given a basic valuation far below the actual market price and maintain that the properties are worth more than three times the Board's figures.

Mr I. Kris Naidoo, who owns more than an acre of land in the area, which has been proclaimed for the Whites, told "The Leader" that the Board estimated the basic valuation of a building plot there at R600. In his opinion R1,290 would be a reasonable offer.

LAND DEPRECIATED

He had written to the Board protesting against what he called a "meagre" offer, but he was told that since the area was proclaimed for the White group there was a depreciation in the value of land in Stella Hill. In its opinion the Board felt that R600 was a reasonable amount for a building plot.

There are about 15 families left in Stella Hill out of a total of about 500 a year ago. Most families moved out of the area immediately it was proclaimed.

BOY MEETS GIRL — IN TWO SEPARATE FILMS

"Leader" Reporter

ROMANCE is the key note—and not surprisingly—of the films "Girl Friend" and "Boy Friend" which play at the Astra and Albert Cinemas respectively. The titles of both films complement each other and although they will be shown at different venues it is somewhat of a perfect co-incidence.

What is more natural and romantic than to fall in love with the girl next door? The games of childhood, the awkwardness of adolescence, the full bloom of youth, all these go round a full cycle when a couple of youngsters grow up together. One step further and the pair are madly in love.

But the young man, Shyam, is a nephew of a rich landowner and Meera is the daughter of a humble man, and a strained relationship exists between the families. To add to their difficulties a cousin of Shyam arrives and decides upon winning the hand of Meera.

These obstacles, however, tend to make love and life more interesting for the young lovers (Kishore Kumar and Waheeda Rehman) in the film "Girl Friend" which plays at the Astra this weekend. The situations also make for an absorbing and endearing film for all the members of the family.

Bipin Gupta, Nazir Hussain, Leela Misra and Daisy Irani are co-starred.

"Boy Friend," which plays at the Albert Cinema from Monday onwards, is a story of life, fate and, of course, love.

The hero, played by Shammi Kapoor (by another strange coincidence, or is it!) goes by the name of Shyam. As a 10-year-old boy he runs away from the home of his millionaire father. Many years later fate joins him with his father, although both of them do not know this, when he sees and falls in love with a beautiful girl, Sungeeta, an actress in his father's theatrical company.

He joins the company and the young couple score an immediate success, both romantic and stage-wise. But their success is short-lived and so is their heartbreak; for their difficulties are soon resolved and everybody lives happy ever after.

A Naresh Saigal presentation, "Boy Friend" co-stars Dharmendra and Nishi. Popular Lata Mangeshkar and Mohamed Rafi head the team of playback singers in maestro Shanker Jaikishan's compositions.

"Longest Day" taught him to box

Roddy McDowall went to Paris to play a G.I. in "The Longest Day" and ended up learning to box.

McDowall plays Pte. Morris in Darryl F. Zanuck's re-enactment of D-Day, June 6, 1944. He's the young man on board a landing craft at sea who, sick and disgusted, calmly decides to jump overboard and swim back to England. He is forcibly restrained by fellow G.I.'s.

The fight scene aboard the landing craft took two days to film. A stunt man spent hours showing Roddy how to throw punches and —finally—how to take it on the chin for a knock-out. The end of the first day saw the actor retiring to his dressing-room, exhausted.

"The Longest Day", which took nine months to film and utilised 21 locations, most of them actual battle-grounds in Normandy, stars 43 leading international actors. It opens shortly at the Avalon.

Film based on Hope diamond

THE Diamond Queen," which plays at the Regent Cinema on Tuesday and Wednesday next, is a colourful saga based on the finding of the famous Hope diamond.

The film depicts the story of the swashbuckling Frenchmen who traversed the Indian sub-continent and returned with the diamond that became the capstone of the crown of Louis XIV.

'Junglee'

THE smash Hindi hit of the year, "Junglee," starring Shammi Kapoor and Saira Banu, the exciting new find of the Indian screen, enters its second week at the Roxy, Maritzburg.

Public response has been tremendous and patrons from the districts are advised to book in advance to avoid disappointment.

At the 10.30 a.m. and 5 p.m. shows on Saturday the brand new Tamil release, "Mahi Ravanan", will be shown. The film is based on the immortal tale from the Ramayanam and depicts the defeat of the cruel Ravanan.

LESSON IN HUMILITY

IT is difficult to hide one's tears no matter how old one is: and there always comes a moment when even the hardest among us is moved and wants to cry unashamedly.

Mark Robson's "Nine Hours to Rama" was a moving film. Gandhi's unnatural death makes one feel ill, and that the "greatest Hindu after Buddha" should lay in a crumpled, helpless heap at the foot of his misguided assassin makes one choke with rage at all the injustice and the disorder of our universe. Life should be for living and no man should take it upon himself to cause harm to living things.

"BAPUJI" — A SAINT

Bapuji lived the life he preached. He was a saint among men, turning hate into love and believing that if every man loved man, there would be nothing to separate men.

Gandhi believed in non-violence and he defended this way of life right up to his death. When most of us would even think of violence not to risk selling our souls for the things we believe in and which are right, Gandhi blazed a new trail of love—and even the hardest-hearted took notice.

The film vividly recreates all the things we have read and heard about Gandhiji. For Chachajan it was a moving experience. Most of you must have seen the film and I am sure you must have cried. Chachajan left the cinema with his eyes still moist.

NO SYMPATHY

It was a Hollywood production, and the film was somewhat marred by the inclusion of European actors and the unnatural Western habits of Gandhi's assassin, Nathuram Godse.

The film tries to get some of the crowd's sympathy for Godse, but with an Indian audience, it would never have succeeded. I never felt sorry for Godse at any time during the film's duration. You will have your own ideas about the film. Just as you read books critically, I am sure you also treat films the same way.

Chachajan will be interested to hear your views about "Nine Hours to Rama." If you have not seen it yet, remember that it is still showing at the "Avalon" in Durban. I travelled 100 miles from Mooi River to see it. It was worth it.

FILMS FOR CHILDREN

Children's films produced in India are being sent abroad to promote closer understanding among children of different countries.

Children of film-going age in India number more than 10 crores. The problem cannot be solved by producing one or two films a year. A large number of films are required and they should be made in the regional language as well. Members of Parliament, during a recent debate, were unanimous in the opinion that at least six films should be made every year. This will help children to develop their sense of appreciation of good films and grow up to be useful members of the community.

THROUGH MY FIELD GLASSES, BY MORGAN NAIDOO

Schools help swell "Papwa" fund

THE support the Papwa Fund is receiving from so many people and organisations is indeed commendable, and a glance at the list supplied by the Fund shows that everybody —excepting a few wealthy Indians—is giving most generously in an effort to send our top golfer, Mr. Papwa Sewsunker, overseas next month.

Included in the list are the names of several schools from throughout the province, and although the amounts against the names of these schools do not compare with the donations by other organisations and individuals, their efforts are simply wonderful.

In saying "thank you" to the schools for their interest, it is also worthy to mention the contributions made by the Durban Football Association; the Durban Sports Grounds Association; the Natal Golf Association; the South African Soccer League; and the Durban Indian Golf Club. Their contributions total no less than R400 of the R1,400 already collected.

STILL TIME

And one final appeal: The Fund hasn't closed yet. There's still a week or two to go and those that have not done their share have some time left. These schools, too, who have not sent in their cheques are asked to do so immediately. No matter what the amount may be. The Fund will accept anything — even if it is just R1. The address is: The Treasurer, Mr. R. Lutchman, Papwa Fund, Box 2498, Durban.

U. S. Champion to box in Maritzburg

By C. G. MOODLEY

MR. NIMROD TETWAYO, Pietermaritzburg's only boxing promoter, is staging an inter-provincial amateur boxing tournament in the Pietermaritzburg City Hall on the eve of the "July Handicap".

As president of the Natal Midlands Amateur Boxing Federation, Mr. Tetwayo is negotiating for the services of the South African and United States amateur flyweight champion, Lucas Matseke, and his team-mates, Nathan Ngubane and Benjamin Dhlamini, as top-liners on his bill.

Arrangements are being made for them, if they can make the trip, to get them down in Pietermaritzburg a few days before the tournament to enable them to become acclimatised. Arrangements are also being made to have a manager and trainer to accompany them and for their expenses to be paid for by the Natal Midlands Amateur Boxing Federation. The three boxers will be matched against the Natal amateur champions.

Leading boxers from the Natal Midlands and the Natal coast are expected to fill the rest of the 12-bout bill.

The Pietermaritzburg boxers who are expected to participate in this gala tournament are: Elias Ncombela (lightweight); Nicholas Ntuli (bantamweight); Nicholas Cele (flyweight), John Maphumlo (middleweight); Samuel Ngwenya (light-welter); Roy Ngubane (middle) and Kilhoene Kuneno (flyweight).

Our Johannesburg correspondent reports that Matseke is willing to come to Pietermaritzburg. "We owe it to South Africa that I am now the American champion" he said.

School sports at Umzinto

SIX Coloured schools on the South Coast will take part in the fifth annual inter-school sports at Umzinto next Friday.

The programme commences at 3.45 a.m. at the Ranjit Sports Ground, adjacent to the Umzinto Indian High School.

The Mtwalume, Umzinto, Port Shepstone, Nqabeni, Hlutankungu an Duduzu Schools will participate in the sports, at which Mr. Wilfred Goldstone of Esperanza ill be guest speaker. Trophies ill be presented by Mrs. A. A. Tyron of Braemar.

In addition to the athletics, netball and soccer matches will be played on a knock-out basis.

Soccer meeting

An executive meeting of the Southern Natal Soccer Board will be held in the board room at the Himalaya Hotel, Durban, next Monday, at 5.45 p.m. Officials, nominees and affiliated associations will take part in the deliberations. Trophies and fixtures are among the matters to be discussed.

Swim. Officials did attend

"Leader" Sports Staff

MR. R. HANSRAJ, president of the Natal Indian Amateur Swimming Association, expressed his disapproval over an article "Association officials not present at Gala" which appeared in "The Leader on May 10.

Mr. Hansraj said that all the officials except two were present on the evening of the gala in question and adds: "It was not fair to make such an accusation against the Association, which did everything possible to see that the gala was a success."

(Editor's note: The Association did help in many respects in this regard, but the absence of two officials — the secretary and the treasurer — who were appointed as timekeepers, upset some plans. As a result it was not possible to keep times for the first five events. After this the assistance of other timekeepers had to be sought.)

Lincoln beat Pool 1-0

LINCOLN CITY scraped home to a 1-0 victory against Blackpool in a lustreless SASL match before a small crowd at the Showgrounds in Pietermaritzburg last Sunday.

Lincoln were lucky to get away with full points just as Blackpool were unlucky losers.

Both defences dominated the game but, although Lincoln were off-target in the first half, Blackpool have to thank their new goalkeeper, Elias, for keeping the score down to one-nil.

Blackpool were more in the picture in the second session, but they were frequently penalised for "rough-housing."

Thiri Rampath started on the left wing but he switched to the opposite wing after Henry Glover had a minor recurrence of his foot injury. In the absence of Bophela, Don Hulley led the Lincoln attack, but he left the field with a leg injury. Hulley's replacement, "Super" Nzimande, switched positions unsuccessfully.

The only goal of the match was scored by Hulley early after Elias had fumbled a "Shortex" Danisa shot.

Results of matches played at Fitzsimmons Road were:

Senior league: Colonials 3, Shamrocks 1; Nstalians 8, Orlmans 1.

Junior league: Woodlands 5, Thistles 3; M. L. Sultan 2, Royals 2; Technicals 6, Colonials 0; V. Rangers 10, M. Wanderers 1.

SUNDAY

Juvenile "A" league: Colonials 9, Hillview 1; Daffodils 1, Thistles 4; Royals 1, Woodlands 3.

Juvenile "B" league: Yorkshire 1, Woodlands Rovers 1; Royals 1, Technicals 1; Rebels 2, Young Rovers 0.

UTC prize for Swallows

"Leader" Sports Staff

IT'S a Rand team again this week for the U.T.C. "Team of the Week" award. And it's Moroka Swallows, at present leading the log table with 15 points. Their splendid but close 2—1 victory over the previously unbeaten Hearts makes them strong favourites for the first round League honours.

In maintaining their own unblemished record, Swallows did to Hearts what teams like Maritzburg City and Aces United failed to do.

Congratulations, Swallows! Your 1,000 cigarettes, which come to you with the compliments of the United Tobacco Company and "The Leader", will be sent to you shortly.

The latest league table is:

SOCCER PREVIEW

Hearts-Avalon game at Curries should be thriller

"Leader" Sports Staff

THE Hearts-Avalon Athletic clash at Currie's highlights the South African Soccer League competition in the country this weekend. Berea and Lincoln City are billed to play the early game at Durban, while at Pietermaritzburg, Maritzburg City are billed to meet Pirates. Coastals and Real Fighters have a match at Johannesburg.

The main game at Curries Fountain will certainly be a thriller, as both teams are quite powerful sides — in spite of the fact that Hearts lost to Moroka Swallows whereas Avalon drew. Avalon Athletic have 13 points and a match in hand, while Hearts have 14 points from eight games.

Hearts were unlucky to lose the match at Johannesburg and, according to our correspondent, Hearts did everything to win, and they matched the Johannesburg team in every department of the game.

SAME TEAM

Hearts are retaining the team that beat Aces United last month. Simon Butelezi, who played against Swallows last week, is being dropped and his place is being taken by S. Hlaka.

Mr. Mac Moolla, manager of Hearts, is very confident of victory. "We were worried when we met Aces United, Maritzburg City and Moroka Swallows, but we are not terribly worried about Avalon Athletic. We know they are a strong side," Mr. Moolla said, "but we are sure of beating them. Our boys will be taken for special training before this big match and we are, of course, not leaving anything to chance."

Each of the Hearts players will be receiving an additional R4 if they beat Avalon Athletic.

Avalon Athletic manager, Mr. Danny Naidoo, thinks that the weekend's game would be a hard one "and the fittest side should win." He added that taking the performances against Swallows into consideration, his side certainly had the better chance.

As a curtain raiser to this game another SASL game will be played. Lincoln City of Pietermaritzburg meet Berea. Lincoln City has had its morale boosted since its convincing victory over Maritzburg City recently.

Berea has not found the going easy but with the new administration, things are expected to change; but whether the changes would come so quickly will only be known this weekend. Lincoln City has done enough so far to be regarded as the favourites in this game.

Orlando Pirates will be in the capital again this weekend for the match against Maritzburg City. These teams occupy middle of the league positions at this stage and the match should be an evenly contested game. With the advantage of playing on the home ground, Maritzburg City is expected to win.

The two former Division II sides meet in Johannesburg this Saturday afternoon. Although both the sides appear to be rather weak, Fighters enjoy a couple of points advantage over the Durban side. Taking this factor into consideration, Real Fighters have the better chance of increasing their number of points.

Sutherlands at Mayville

"Leader" Correspondent

CONSIDERABLY improved Sutherlands meet joint league champions, Parades, at the Mayville Ground on Sunday in the main game at 3.15. In the other senior games Daffodils meet Moonlighters and on number one ground Crimson Lads play Regents. Clare Estate United v. Manning Rangers completes the senior bill.

There are four junior games—Daffodils v. Regents; Furness United v. Sutherlands and Aryan Wanderers v. Manning Rangers.

Sutherlands, by comparison with their standards in the past 19 years, is going from strength to strength. It is learnt that this team has not won a single competition ever since it was affiliated to the Mayville Association almost two decades ago, but this season they are causing upsets. They have already won three of their games including victories over Dafodills and the more formidable Cato Stars—whom they beat 2-1 on Sunday.

WELL-BALANCED

Sutherlands has a fairly well-balanced side. Former Southern Natal's junior player, Gona Naicker, plays as a senior while Pat Manikum—who has kept goal for Junior Mayville for three years in succession—plays in the senior ranks for this side.

Soccer at Asherville

"Leader" Sports Staff

BURNWOOD, Asherville's new team, proved no match for the experienced Pastoral United in a league match played at the Asherville Ground on Sunday. Pastoral won the game 5-0 after leading 2-0 at half-time. Burnwood were not able to score, despite two penalties being awarded to them.

In the junior matches Kingston gained a 1-0 victory over Manchester Rovers while Mayfair beat Plus Fours 2-1. In the main game Pastoral led by two goals from a penalty taken by the inner right and Sewpersadh. Towards the end of the first half, Burnwood was awarded a penalty but they failed to convert it.

In the fifth minute of the second half Pastoral increased the lead with a goal from R. Jithoo. S. Vincent made the total 4-0. Burnwood again did not take advantage of a penalty. Minutes later United's inner right took the score to 5-0.

The match between Golden Eagles and Avenue Lads will highlight the fixtures here on Sunday. This match takes place at 3 p.m. Earlier in the morning Asters and Plus Fours meet in in a junior match and at 1.30 Sparks City and Leeds United will play.

Fixtures will also be played on Saturdays, and the first games are Dahlian Stars v. Manchester Rovers and Kingston United v. Essendale United.

ROYAL IS TENNIS LEAGUE FAVOURITE

By EBRAHIM OSMAN

ROYAL remained well in the hunt for the league crown when they beat Avoca by five matches to three in a tennis match on Sunday. Avoca, with a half-fit Luckraj back in the side, were unable to hold a powerful Royal side, which has only to beat Central and Moonlighters to make sure of becoming the first holders of the League Cup under the Southern Natal Lawn Tennis Union.

Central were given some anxious moments in retaining their unbeaten record against a tenacious Umzinto side, and won 5—2 after some close tussles which could have gone either way. Naran and Ally had to fight hard for their three-set victory over Sekete and Tlali; and Laljee and B. S. Moodley had to use all their experience in overcoming Vaked and Amojee, also after a three-set tussle.

Sultan "A" beat their sister team 5—1 to score their first win of the season. Sydenham also remain strong challengers for the league crown, together with Royal, Central and Moonlighters "A"—all unbeaten.

Fixtures for Sunday, May 26— (Home teams named first):

Brighton v. Umzinto "A"
Umzinto "B" v. Sydenham
Central v. Moonlighters "B"
Sultan "B" v. United (Pmb.)

LATE GOAL AND SWALLOWS ARE TOP OF THE LEAGUE

A CAPACITY crowd packed Natalspruit soccer ground last Saturday to see Moroko Swallows take over the leadership of the Soccer League. The 30,000 crowd roared and cheered as Swallows clinched their greatest victory when they defeated Natal's proud, unbeaten Hearts 2—1.

By A. G. EBRAHIM

Champagne soccer was promised but there was no bubble and the fast clean soccer was maintained.

Hearts in their first visit to the Transvaal held Swallows to a goalless first half. However many scoring opportunities were missed by both sides in the first half. Five minutes after the kick-off Benny "Goodman" Maseko stormed down after a Carlton Moloi pass but shot wide from close in.

Hearts got on top for 10 minutes but then Swallows began to swing into attack. Time after time Swallows swept goalwards but always there was a Heart's defender to stem the tide Gonasulan Arumugan the left back was outstanding in the defence.

The second half opened with Ace Gumey switching places with Carlton Moloi on the right wing. This move payed off. Carlton got possession of the ball from a throw-in, moved swiftly past two defenders and beat goalkeeper Moodley with a fierce left-footed drive from well outside the penalty area.

But the league leaders unbeaten record did not tumble so easily. Hearts levelled the score in the 25th minute when right wing Michael Thabethe, ran from mid-field, beat three defenders and with a low drive beat goalkeeper Abram Meyers.

Two minutes from time, during a melee in front of Heart's goal, inside-left Benny "Goodman" Maseko hammered in the winner — and Swallows won the game of the year.

In a match that had more comedy than skill a Press team beat the South African Soccer League Referees team 3-1. "The Leader" correspondent played centre-half and scored the second goal for the Press.

This was the curtain raiser to the big game.

Grounds appeal

Mr. R. Govindsamy, president of the Merebank Sports Association, appealed to those who attended matches at Merebank to contribute to the "Grounds Fund"

The money raised will help develop the proposed new ground which is to be built as soon as sufficient funds have been raised.

SOCCER AT MEREBANK

"Leader" Sports Staff

BOTH Beecham City and Young Dynamos provided a thrilling game at the Merebank Ground on Sunday and a crowd of about 1,000 watched both these sides play to a goalless draw. The result was perhaps a fitting end to a game that kept to an exciting pitch almost throughout the 90 minutes.

In the other games Airport Royals trounced Spain United 5-1 and Oxford United and Arcot played to a 3-3 draw. Merebank went down to Green Falcon by one goal to seven. Starlite and Travancore City drew 1-1.

On Saturday at 1.45 p.m. Marine Hearts and Starlites will be engaged in a junior encounter, and at 3 p.m. Woodsparks and Spain United play a senior game.

On the following day, matches begin at 9 a.m. with the first game between Airport Royals and Man City. At 10.30 Beecham City meet Hinds United.

Oxford United and Paper Sacks play the main game at 3 p.m. while at 1.50 p.m. Ocean View meet Merebank. At 12 noon Berea Rovers and Engles clash.

The last three games are in the senior division.

First Inter-Provincial soccer next month

"Leader" Sports Staff

THE South African Soccer Federation has just released its fixtures for the first inter-provincial competitions under the new non-racial set up. The Kajee Cup, which was previously used as the inter-race league cup, will now be used for the inter-provincial League series while the Indian Tournament Sam China Cup will be played for on a knock-out basis.

A surprising feature of the fixtures is that in the League matches Natal is billed to play as one team whereas in the knockout competition there are Northern and Southern Natal XI's.

Mr. George Singh, a Federation official in Durban, was not able to throw any light on the matter. "I think that it may be an error", he said.

Obviously the Federation knows about the division in the Province otherwise they would not have drawn fixtures separately for Northern and Southern Natal in the Cup competition.

Officials of the Southern Natal Soccer Board were also not able to say why the fixtures had been drawn with Natal having only one team in the league series.

In the knockout cup matches Northern Natal will be at home to Eastern Province on August 17 and two weeks later Southern Natal meets Western Province in Durban. On August 31 the winners of the Eastern Province-Northern Natal game play Southern Free State on the latter's ground. The semi-final will be played on September 14 and a fortnight afterwards the final takes place.

The league watches are scheduled to start on June 22 with Northern Transvaal and Natal playing at Northern Transvaal.

The fixtures are:—

KAJEE CUP

Northern zone: N. Transvaal v Natal, June 22; S. Transvaal v Southern Free State, June 22; Natal v Southern Free State, July 6; N. Transvaal v S. Transvaal, July 6; S. Free State v S. Transvaal, July 27; Natal v N. Transvaal, July 27.

Southern zone: E. Province v W. Province, June 22; Border v W. Province, June 22; Griq. West v Border, July 6; E. Province v Griq. West, July 27; Border v Eastern Province, July 27.

SAM CHINA CUP (K.O.)

First round: N. Natal v. E. Province, August 17.

Second round: S. Natal v W. Province, August 31; S. Transvaal v Griq. West, August 31; Border v N. Transvaal, August 31; S. Free State v winners of E.P. v. N. Natal, August 31.

Semi-finals: to be drawn by ballot, September 14.

Final: September 28.

In both competitions, home teams are mentioned first.

Crusader's easy win

"Leader" Sports Staff

CRUSADERS had no difficulty in eliminating Barwon United in the first round of the knock-out cup competition played at Tongaat on Sunday. Crusaders won 5-1. In the other senior game Swallows beat Tongaat B 5-3.

The junior match between Maidstone and Gandhi's Hill was a keen game and neither team was able to score. Railways defeated Brake Village 3-2.

There is only one knockout cup game this Sunday, when Sunrise and Tongaat are matched.

In the two junior league games Maidstone meet Celtix and Crusaders play Maidstone.

Newcomers to play Verulam

"Leader" Sports Staff

A KEEN match is expected at Verulam this weekend when the unbeaten Verulam Football Club take on the newly affiliated Ex-Students in a league fixture. Ex-Students have some top players and Verulam will have to put up a tough fight to beat the new side.

In the remaining fixtures Schools met Total Rangers and Real Mission are billed to meet Young Grange.

Lowly Transvaal U'td hammer a dispirited aces

"Leader" Sports Staff

TRANSVAAL UNITED, league champions in 1961—the opening year of the South African Soccer League—and at present among the bottom teams in the log, showed a glimpse of their former footballing ability when they defeated Aces United 2—1 with method and intelligence at Currie's Fountain last Sunday.

Watched by a disappointing crowd, once-glamorous Aces — no longer a draw-card — kicked off in the face of a lively breeze and a livelier Transvaal United.

The visitors preyed on the numerous misunderstandings in the Aces' team and used every trick in their bag to completely baffle their opponents' defence.

Transvaal dominated the entire first stanza, during which they gave Aces the run-around with their first-time tackling and short passing. Midway through the first half Willie Joseph nattily controlled an awkward ball, positioned himself well and truly beat "Black Cat" with a well-placed drive.

Inspired by this break-through, Transvaal scented victory and defeat loomed ahead for Aces. Even the Aces supporters sensed this. Not a squeak from them was heard, not even their familiar chant, "Don't let the ball roll by."

Sporadic were the Aces raids, but these were checked by an alert defence which in turn launched many counter-attacks.

Goal No. 2 came when the visitors' left-winger exploited an error by Sagren Naidoo and kicked from an impossible angle at close range straight at the awed goalkeeper, who mishandled and piloted the ball into the vacant net.

For Aces the ball had rolled by.

In the second half Aces made a gallant attempt to recover what was left of their prestige. They were rewarded late in the game when Gava Ellis intelligently lofted an indirect kick in the goalmouth and Sonny Moonsamy, going up to head, humped the ball over the advancing 'keeper.

Transvaal had a number of lucky let-offs through poor handling by the goalkeeper, and had Aces taken more pot shots at goal the result could have been different.

The Transvaal team, still in the process of remoulding, should develop into a useful combination as the season advances. The forwards have plenty of zest and the defence is keen. Their right-back is a real find.

He is not very big but is worth his weight in gold. He stumped many a promising move and cleared off the goal line on at least three occasions. In our reckoning he was the best player on the field on Sunday.

Golf Tournament won by Collin Perumal

"Leader" Sports Staff

After being two strokes behind at the end of the first eighteen holes, Collin Perumal, defeated the rest of the field and won the day by five strokes from his nearest rivals in the golf tournament played at the Springfield Course during the weekend. This tournament enabled the Durban Indian Golf Club to send a R50 donation to the Papwa Fund.

I. C. Andrews of the Umbogintwini Club and L. Butelezi were lying second were scores of 72 at the end of the first round. A 73 by P. Pancho put him into third place.

A strong breeze in the afternoon made play difficult and as a result Andrews and Butelezi both finished badly with 80 and 79 respectively. Meanwhile Collins returned a fine 71. Sunny Naidoo (73-73-149) was second.

Jack Nathan was joint fourth with Andrews and J. Rughubar.

SATURDAY

Daddy Nair emerged victorious in a play-off after three players tied for first place in Saturday's medal competition. The other two players were K. Pillay and R. Tiney.

RESULTS

Detailed results of Sunday's games were: Collin Perumal [illegible], Sunny Naidoo 73-73-149, L. Butelezi [illegible], Jack Nathan [illegible] [illegible]

APARTHEID SCANDAL AT D'BN COLOURED BALL

Mr. Eric Moodley with hat and his cousin Kay, are shown outside the City Hall with friends after they were refused entry to the Coloured Ball.

"Leader" Reporter

SCORES of Indians who went to a dance held at the Durban City Hall last Friday evening were turned away at the door — because the dance was "exclusively for Coloureds."

Many were shocked by the rebuff although they were in possession of tickets, and others, accompanied by their partners, felt humiliated and embarrassed. . .

The function is organised annually by the Ward 10 Coloured Ratepayers' Association, representing the elite—and exclusive—Sparks Estate area, and the highlight is the selection and crowning of "Miss Durban."

IT IS LEARNED A SIMILAR "APARTHEID" FUNCTION WAS HELD LAST YEAR.

Mr T. A. Marcus, chief organiser of the function and an executive member of the Ratepayers' Association, that the officials at the door had been instructed to keep the dance "free of hooligans." They had had no other instructions and their discretion was relied upon.

Among those turned away were Mr Eddie Moodley, his cousin Kay and his brother, who made the trip specially from Maritzburg after seeing posters publicising the dance. And nowhere on the posters was it mentioned that the function was for Coloureds only.

Mr Moodley said that after buying their tickets at the ticket office in the foyer they made their way to the doorway leading into the hall.

MONEY REFUNDED

"An official at the doorway stopped us and asked if we were Indian or Coloured. I told him we were Indian and that we had travelled all the way from Maritzburg for the dance.

"He told us that the dance was a Coloured affair and he could not admit us. He asked us to go to the ticket office for a refund of our money.

"We felt terribly embarrassed and upset about the whole affair," said Mr. Moodley.

But their troubles were not yet over. They had been left at the City Hall by friends and were to be picked up after the dance. "There was nothing to do but wait. So we walked around in the cold until midnight when our friends came to pick us up.

Well-known show business personality Mr Dickie Naidoo also failed to gain admittance. He had gone to the City Hall to complete arrangements with the bands for the South African Dance Band contest which he will be staging shortly. He was most surprised at not being admitted by members of the very community which strongly supported his highly successful non-racial shows.

A Coloured socialite told "The Leader": "Had I known it was a 'Coloureds only' function I would have stayed at home. I have many friends of all nationalities and I would never have had anything to do with an apartheid function.

"Much has been done in the way of integration on our sports fields and it really comes as a surprise that segregationist attitudes in a public function should be allowed to prevail.

"The persons who were responsible for barring Indians from the function are working against the tide and the times."

Mr Marcus stated that the annual dance had become the premier social function of the Coloured community.

"It was a very big and successful affair, and as chief organiser I had enough to do to keep me fully occupied.

"I am not aware of anyone being turned away and I can assure you I personally did not turn anyone away. Officials at the doors were told to keep hooligans out and they had no other instructions. They used their discretion in admitting or not admitting anyone."

SOME MADE IT

The irony of the whole situation was that while Indians were barred from the function, several Indians did in fact get in.

Members of one of the bands engaged to play were Indian; there were two Indian photographers present, and Indian wine stewards and waiters were in charge of catering. To cap it all there were a number of Indians on the dance floor!

The question now being asked is: How did they get in? Were they accepted as Coloureds or were they playing Coloureds? And how and where does one draw the colour line?

One cynic said that the officials were in line for any vacancies in the Race Classification Board.

Mr. Marcus pointed out that each organisation reserved the right of admission. "Anyway, we could have turned out those in the hall if we were so inclined."

He said he was sorry for the expenses incurred by Mr. Moodley and the others.

An executive meeting of the Ratepayers' Association will be held on Saturday to discuss matters appertaining to the function and it is expected that the apartheid incidents will be raised.

AROUND THE CAPITAL

With C. G. MOODLEY

I WAS an eye-witness to a pathetic scene at the Indian Post Office in lower Church Street last Friday morning.

Indian old age pensioners were drawing their pension money. It was a cold, wintry morning and the queue of old people on the pavement was snaking outwards to catch the sunshine. Suddenly an old woman, with a towel wrapped around her shoulders and shopping basket in hand, fainted.

She recovered after being attended to by some customers. But how she got home I don't know.

This incident should bring home to the authorities and the general public the plight of our aged people. Not only are they old, but most of them are frail and emancipated. Many of them come to town from Raisethorpe and Northdale, but how they manage to return home with laden shopping baskets I leave to the imagination.

May I offer two suggestions. Firstly, that those who are too frail to make the journey to the post office should legally empower someone—preferably a close relative—to collect their pensions. Secondly, that a trained first-aider be on duty at the post office when pensions are paid out.

NEW PRODUCER

A NEW music producer has blossomed in the Capital. Twenty-five-year-old Dan Naidoo, who won name and fame in his time as an amateur boxing champion and long-distance runner is the Capital's showbiz "new boy."

Last March he crashed into the neon lights by featuring Gino Loup, the cabaret king of Gay Paree, with Dan's fabulous "Phantoms" at the Hotel Kismet.

And, next Saturday night, June 8 again at the Hotel Kismet, the Phantoms will be accompanied by one of Durban's leading European dance bands, the Silverglades.

The Silverglades is the band you hear in "Review of Tomorrow" over the S.A.B.S. at 5.15 p.m. on Fridays. This will be their farewell performance before leaving on a tour of the Continent.

Main item on Dan Naidoo's June 8 programme is the South African "Twist" championship, which carries with it trophies to be won outright.

A LAZY GAME

WENT to Chatterton Road Coloured sports ground last Saturday afternoon. Soccer was being played on two grounds and on the other two women's hockey games were in progress.

Tiring of watching soccer, I wandered over to the hockey field.

Now, as anyone will tell you, hockey is a fast, skilful and pleasant game to play or watch. The first match at Chatterton Road on Saturday was between the Cavaliers and the Alston School's second XI.

The Cavaliers were much too experienced for the school team. So much so that the Cavaliers' goalminder, Norma James, and umpire Elaine August, spent the first half gossiping in the circle.

Miss James took off her pads in the second half and played on the right wing. Her exchange, Mrs. W. Green, scorned the use of goalkeeping pads and she, too, spent the rest of the game sitting on the turf and chatting with a team-mate.

During half-time Miss August, who plays for Greans, scooted across to the adjoining field to cheer her soccer team to a hard-fought 1-0 win against Callies.

Classrooms opened at Northdene

"Leader" Reporter

THE official opening of a new block of three classrooms erected jointly by the Northdene Social Club and the Northdene Educational Society, in Northdene, took place last Saturday, before a representative gathering.

Mr. S. Kuppusamy, supervisor of Indian schools, paid a tribute to the community of Northdene, particularly the two organisations, which raised the money for the building. Although they found it difficult to find the where-withal for their own sustenance, they nevertheless sacrificed their needs to provide educational facilities for their children.

Mr. S. Bridge, secretary of the Klaarwater Indian Settlement Association, thanked the members of the two associations for working in close co-operation with each other to put up the building, which stood as a monument to them.

Mr. James Naicker, a prominent resident of Northdene, who donated R100 towards the school building, unveiled the foundation stone, which has been laid in memory of his father.

Mr. D. C. Singh, chairman of the Northdene Social Club, was given the honour of opening one of the classrooms.

Think of these things

By the Good Disciple

"SHOW me Thy WAYS, O Lord; teach me Thy paths. Lead me in Thy TRUTH and teach me; for Thou are the God of my salvation; on Thee do I wait all the day." (Psalm 25, v 4, 5.).

Jesus said, "I am the WAY, the TRUTH, and the Life, no man cometh unto the Father, but by Me." No man can come face to face with God the Father, but through Jesus Christ, the Saviour of mankind. Therefore the God of the Old Testament, the God of our fathers, the God of my salvation is the same ONE, the Saviour Jesus Christ. Jesus said: "Believe me that I am in the Father, and the Father in Me." It is the will of God that all men should be saved and to come unto a knowledge of the truth. For there is ONE God, and ONE mediator between God and man, the man Christ Jesus; who gave Himself a ransom for all. For God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son that whosoever believeth on Him should not perish, but have everlasting life. For God sent not His Son unto the world to condemn the world; but that the world through Him might be saved. He that believeth on Him is not condemned; but he that believeth not is condemned already, because he hath not believed in the name of the only begotten Son of God.

And for this cause is He the mediator (one who comes between), between God and man, that by means of His death for the sin of each one of us we might receive the promise of eternal life.

God hates sin. The wages of sin is death; but the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord. He that believeth on the Son hath everlasting life; and he that believeth not the Son shall not see life; but the wrath of God abideth on him.

Eternal life through Jesus Christ, or eternal damnation through sin? That is the choice that man faces. A choice of life or death. Any sane man would choose life and to live IS CHRIST. Sin separated man from God and the righteous, holy God loved the world but hated sin, and the only way possible for man to be reconciled or reunited with God was for a sacrifice to be made. So He sent His Son, who took upon Himself the sin of the world. He was crucified; He died for your sin and mine. He was buried but rose from the dead and is exalted and sits on the right hand of God.

Men and brethren, what shall we do? Repent of your sin, admit that you are a sinner in the light of God, believe that Jesus paid the price of your sin on the Cross of Calvary and confess that He is your Lord and Saviour. As many as receive Him, to them gave He the power to become the Sons of God, even to them that believe on His name. Think on These Things.

MALAYA—LAND OF CONTRASTS

WHEN Stewart Wavell, of the BBC's Asian Services, returned last year with a Cambridge Expedition to Malaya, where he lived and worked for many years, he found exciting contrasts between modern development and ancient cultures and traditions. The expedition was concerned with the ancient cultures, and Wavell made numerous recordings of music, ceremony and drama which have survived since time immemorial, particularly in the east coast states, where much of the terrain is wild and villages isolated.

A strange sound which [was] recorded in the remote villa[ges] of Kelantan was the compelli[ng] note of the Arabic rebab, [a] three-stringed instrument some[thing] like a violin used by [the] 'pawang,' or witch doctor, [to] call the spirits from north, south, east and west, from above and below, from sea and rice fields. The pawang, he pointed out, was still a power for good among his people. A headman — or someone from the Public Works department — could organise a village, but only the pawang could inspire the whole community to right action; give them faith in what they were doing.

The pawang was a good Muslim, but he had to understand the seasons, the sea and the soil, and the whole range of Hindu and animist spirits, both good and evil, known to his ancestors from earliest times. He must know the right incantations with which to summon them.

Wavell went on to play recordings made during a 'trance' [pe]rformed by a well-known [pa]wang Mustapha at Bachok in [Ke]lantan. A poor family of [fa]ther, mother and four child[re]n were sick, suffering from profound listlessness, their [en]ergies sapped by heat, damp and monotonous toil. At [le]ngth they called in the [pa]wang to see what could be [d]one, with the goodwill of the [T]iger spirit that was the [gu]ardian spirit of their house.

First, the pawang called the [sp]irits with the rebab, then in[vi]ted them to eat a great quan[t]ity of food provided. Then, [w]ith the help of a small orchestra, he put the sick [f]amily into a trance.

"On and on through the night the orchestra played and the dancing became wilder and more intense," said Wavell. "By morning the children had begun leaping, swaying in trance, crouching, jumping and running like tigers; and the mother and father had the Tiger spirit within them." After three nights of trance dancing and three days of sleeping it off, all the tensions had been worked out of their systems. They were completely normal again.

In sharp contrast to this ancient way of life was the new Cameron Highlands Electricity project, which will make possible the growth of entire new villages and towns. In other areas in the large state of Pahang, said Wavell, the Government was sweeping away great tracts of jungle, terracing the ground and planting new rubber trees.

BROAD HIGHWAY

Pioneer families were being allotted seven acres each for growing the rubber trees, three acres for fruit trees and half an acre for a house plot. These settlements were springing up every where, and in their train came new amenities, new clinics, new schools. Now, too, there was the new broad highway striking straight up the east coast from Singapore, which in time would open up a paradise for tourists.

AFRAID OF WHOOPING COUGH

"Our Children's Day" was recently observed by schools throughout the country. In Pietermaritzburg the local Indian Child Welfare Society organised a collection among schools in the City and surrounding districts. Twenty-one schools participated in the collection drive and R217.74 was raised. Trophies were awarded to five schools which contributed the largest sums of money. Representatives of the schools, Bernadine Michael (St. Anthony's), Thanspert Moodley (Girls' High), Damyanthee Gopaljee (Shri Vishnu) and Hooseu Mia (Nottingham Road) are pictured above, left to right. Richmond School also won a trophy. Half of the money collected will go to the South African National Council for Child Welfare.

Chachajan throws "bones"

WITCHDOCTORS always fascinated me. My interest in them goes back to my years in Charlestown, when an African school teacher friend took me along with him several times to his witchdoctor.

I always accompanied him out of curiosity, and my interest in witchcraft grew when I witnessed uncanny happenings. Whether these things took place either by accident or by design, Chachajan will not be able to explain. People say that miracles do not happen. I have seen them happen and the witchdoctor whom my school teacher friend consulted always took the credit for them.

Learned people will dismiss all this as a lot of hocus-pocus, and I do not really blame them; but Chachajan still believes there is something in witchcraft and that this ugly science has more to it than meets the eye.

BONE-THROWER

I remember the time when my African friend decided to change witchdoctors. He wanted to prove to me that all witchdoctors have magic powers. We went to a celebrated witchdoctor from Charlestown, off the beaten track and on the Natal-Transvaal-Orange Free State Border.

The witchdoctor received us in his ceremonial hut and attended to his "patient" in full regalia. Both of us squatted on a straw mat. The witchdoctor first threw himself into hysterics giving out weird cries and muttering words we never understood. Then he threw himself prostrate on the ground, lifted himself with a scream and was ready for business.

He threw his bones on the hard floor. There must have been over a hundred bones and shells, each of a different kind and size. The witchdoctor "read" quickly and easily and said things that stunned me. He diagnosed my friend's trouble in every detail by looking at his scattered bones. It was all so unbelievable.

My friend was given a potion to put his troubles right; and believe me, it worked.

It may have been by sheer chance, but the witchdoctor in question had earned himself so much fame in Kateni by performing similar miracles that I was becoming slowly converted.

. With all the education I have had, I still think there is something in all this funny business.

"READING" BONES

"Reading" bones is an art passed on from father to son.

Down here in MooA River, I received a little tuition in the art of throwing and "reading" bones, and my tutor was an old African who helps in the house! Bone-throwing now is my favourite party game, and although I make a fool of myself, I do manage to get in one or two good guesses!

Black Magic is a serious business really, and Cachajan has been convinced that there is some truth in it. Call me old-fashioned if you like.

CAKE SALE FOR SCOUTS

A CAKE sale will be held outside the Moon Hotel, Clairwood, on Saturday, June 1, beginning at 7 a.m., to raise funds for the Clairwood Junior Boy Scouts and Cubs.

The conveners, Mrs. R. G. Pillay, Mrs. A. K. Naidoo and Mrs. M. C. Naidoo, said that many children in the district were keen to join the Scout movement, but through unemployment and lack of funds a number of parents were unable to equip their children with uniforms.

The public is asked to support the sale.

School's first anniversary

THE Raisethorpe Government Indian School celebrated its first anniversary recently.

To mark the occasion, the children and the teachers held a concert and a fancy dress parade. This revealed many hidden talents among the pupils.

The Acting Principal, Mr. R. N. Singh opened the programme with an anniversary prayer, followed by the anniversary song which was sung beautifully by the School Choir. Mr. Singh congratulated the School on its first anniversary and hoped the school would grow from strength to strength.

A vote of thanks was moved by Mr. R. Bitchu who also acted as Master of Ceremonies.

Cheaper weddings issue causes dissent in sabha

"Leader" Reporter

THERE is growing dissension inside the South African Hindu Mahasabha over the Hindu marriages issue. A group of members, mostly youths, are understood to be making plans to present a petition setting out their suggestions for marriage reforms to the President, Mr. P. R. Pather.

The group feels that top and older officials of the sabha are not showing any enthusiasm over the suggestion by Mr. V. S. Naidu, secretary of the sabha, that the organisation should take a leading role in bringing about the curtailment of unnecessary expenditure, pomp and pageantry at Hindu weddings.

When Mr. Naidu touched on the issue at the last conference of the sabha, he did not receive any noticeable support, nor, it is further understood, did the president encourage any discussion on the matter. This attitude on the part of the president and senior officials has now, it is further learnt, sparked off a row within the organisation.

One of the dissentient members told "The Leader": "I feel that it is high time that some younger blood took over the reins of the sabha and brought about some measure of reforms and relief to the community.

"Why must there be such expensive weddings when we are undergoing a difficult period in our political, social, educational and economic life? Cannot we utilise the money which we want to waste in holding extravagant marriage ceremonies on the poor and the destitute, instead of feeding people who can well afford to have a square meal three times a day?" he asked.

Meanwhile Mr. Naidu's recent plan for simple wedding ceremonies and the elimination of unnecessary expenses has not fallen on deaf ears.

I visited two weddings held on the lines suggested by Mr. Naidu at the old Umbilo Hindu Temple in Fossburgh, and was heartened to see that the bridal couple were as happy and contented as those that have been married in the City Hall or in any other plush place.

SHRINE WILL BENEFIT

Siva Jothi, a variety show in Tamil, spiced with music and song, dances, sketches and a one-act play, "Samaraat Asokan," will be staged in the Lotus Hall in Pietermaritzburg, at a matinee and evening performances on Republic Day.

Profits from the show will benefit the Northdale Siva Nyana Sabha's Temple Building Fund.

"TAAJIAS ARE HARRAM" DECLARES ULEMA

NO more during the Muslim month of Maharram will the taajia (pagoda) procession wend its way through the streets to the river banks — that is, if an appeal by the Jamiatul Ulema Natal is heeded.

In a pamphlet distributed by the Priests' Society, taajias are declared to be "haram" and are "clearly forbidden by Islam."

The pamphlet titled "Taajies and Haram," says that a large number of Muslims do not seem to realise the real significance of the New Year (the Muslim year 1383 A.H. is imminent) and devote more thought and attention to the martyrdom of Hazrat Imam Hussain.

It is pointed out that in India, Pakistan as well as South Africa, the occasion is observed by meetings (majalis) called to express public grief in memory of the Martyrs of Kerbala; jars of sweetened water (sabeel) are placed so that the thirsty may quench their thirst in memory of the martyrs who died on the burning hot plains of Kerbala; and finally taajias are built as a replica of the mausoleum of the martyred Imam and even a replica of his grave is placed under the dome of the taajia.

Some Muslims treated this structure with reverence as if it were a real grave, and even took vows upon it, invoking the name of the martyred Imam.

And those who practised this claimed to follow the religion of Islam, said the pamphlet.

"It is indeed regrettable the things Muslims are doing in trying to express their grief over the tragedy of Kerbala.

"The practice was totally forbidden in Islam. There was not a single feature in the observance which could be said to have the slightest sanction of Allah and His Prophet.

"All the Ulemas of the world are unanimous in denouncing these practices as un-Islamic, and all are agreed that to make a taajia is haram," says the pamphlet.

An appeal is therefore made to Muslims to abstain from such "haram actions and remain on the path of righteousness."

It is suggested that the "wasteful haram expenditure" be put to better use. "The poor and needy, the crippled and destitute, could be helped by generous charitable actions in the name and in the memory of the Martyrs of Kerbala instead of the present unseemly haram demonstrations of taajias.

Two Stabbed To Death In Berea Road Dispute

"Leader" Reporter

DURING a dispute over a woman in Berea Road, Durban, at midnight last Saturday, two young Indians were stabbed to death and two others seriously injured.

The dead men are 26-year-old Daya Rupnarain Maharajh, a factory worker, and Soobramoney Ramsamy, 19-year-old son of a Durban businessman. [illegible] detained at the King Edward VIII Hospital are Mr. N. Govender (20) of Sea Cow Lake Road, Umgeni, and Nadas Chetty of Mayville. Their condition was described as satisfactory.

An African [illegible] employed in Berea Road said that he saw a panel van stop suddenly and about eight Indians get out of the van. One was armed with a knife and the others appeared to be trying to wrest it from him.

"Everybody was shouting and I heard a woman scream," he said. "I ran towards the struggling men and saw [illegible] lying face downwards in the gutter. Blood was pouring from his head, and another man was lying near him, stabbed in the throat."

Three Indians were later detained for questioning.

Society to show classic film

Members of the International Film Society will have an opportunity of seeing one of the best 10 films made when the Society screens Jean Renoir's immortal classic, "The Great Illusion", at the Avalon Cinema on Sunday at 5 p.m.

Renoir's film of the 1914-18 war, according to one film critic, is possibly the "most profound statement about human behaviour in war ever filmed ... and the more amazing because there is never a battle shot."

It all comes through in the behaviour towards each other of German captors and captive French officers. The film is full of irony and the fascinating incongruities of human behaviour in wartime.

DISLIKE OF WAR

Scores of these touches are used by director Renoir to illustrate the essential humanity of captor and captive and their equal dislike of war.

There are French officers eating and drinking the best France can produce in food parcels honourably delivered to them by their hungry captors.

One sees French and English officers dressing up as women to make a musical comedy ... while German lads of 16 are drilled nearby for a bloodbath.

Leading players in this great film are Jean Gabin, Eric von Stroheim, Dita Parlo and Pierre Fresnay. The film comes directly from the Alhambra where it had its first Durban screening.

Membership for the new season is still open and those who would like to join are welcome.

Forthcoming films include Verdi's opera "Aida", De Sica's "Bicycle Thieves", "Love and the French Woman", a saucy comedy and "The Lady and the Little Dog", based on a Chekhov tale.

Play well acted

SOME fine acting seldom [illegible] in a rural primary school was witnessed at the Illovo Indian School's presentation of the famous Indian play "Harischandra", in the school hall.

G. Kamamma as Chandramathie and N. Perdesi as Harischandra played their parts with conviction and Ayoob Khan as the Rishi Visvamitra ably filled his difficult role.

Songs, nursery rhymes and Indian classical dancing formed the supporting items in the eleventh annual concert of the school.

In thanking the audience for their patronage the Principal, Mr. R. G. Pillay, announced that the entire proceeds of the annual concerts were used to award bursaries to promising pupils of the school to pursue a higher career and to grant free books to indigent pupils of the school.

Adam Leslie, that man of many parts and many faces, is shown above as the inscrutible Mona Lisa. His latest show, "Adam's Rib", will be at the M. L. Sultan Theatre, Durban, for one week only—June 3 to 8. When it became obvious that a two-and-a-half week season would not accommodate the crowds that stormed the booking office to see Mr. Leslie's latest satirical revue, the Durban Manager, Ronald Morris, was asked to find another venue for an extra week before the show goes to Pretoria. Mr. Morris immediately suggested the new M. L. Sultan Theatre and pointed out that it was open to all races. Mr. Leslie was delighted and agreed. Durban's Diane Wilson, who takes over from Joan Blake as his newest leading lady, displays a rare comedy sense and is well on the road to stardom.

"KING AND I" OPENS AT DURBAN'S LYRIC

THE lavish production of "The King and I" at the Lyric Theatre Durban, will be open exclusively for non-Whites from June 10, the producer, Mr. Des Morley, told "The Leader" yesterday.

He said that booking had already opened, and the run would be extended as long as there was a demand for tickets.

"The King and I" which cost R20,000 to present and costs R2,000 a week in salaries alone, is hailed as the most ambitious South African production of all time. It is estimated that 40,000 Durban people will have seen it before it goes on tour.

The play is directed by Gilbert Vernon, who was brought from London to work with Des Morley Productions. Bill Walker, well-known band leader, arranged the music.

Film does not reflect Gandhi's dignity

PRIME MINISTER NEHRU said in the Rajya Sabha that the film "Nine Hours to Rama", which the Government had refused to approve for exhibition in India, did not reflect the "dignity of Gandhiji."

Replying to questions, Mr. Nehru said that the film was mistakenly made. The ideas of the maker, he was sure, were not in any way aimed deliberately at defaming Gandhiji or anything in India.

But, Mr. Nehru pointed out, "Gandhiji comes very little in the film itself and the person who is supposed to represent Gandhiji lacks all dignity. They tried to get some one who would physically resemble Gandhiji, but he is completely different from one's conception of Gandhiji."

The Minister of Information and Broadcasting, Dr. B. Gopala Reddy, said that the script of the film had been seen by the Government, but there were various deviations from it when the film was shot.

Asked whether the Government would take steps to see that the film was not exhibited in countries having Indian nationals as it would hurt their sentiments, the Minister said that the Government could not regulate its exhibition outside the country.

The Minister said that the Government always looked into scripts whenever foreign film producers wanted to produce films on India. But there was no need for any permission for shooting films in India, he added.

Candid Commentary . . . by Politicus

COLLEGE WILL ALWAYS BE MONUMENT TO APARTHEID

". . . the alternative offered is better than nothing at all." Thus spoke the "Natal Mercury" last week in an editorial comment on the Salisbury Island Tribal University College for Indians.

Now, after 13 years, the Law is being enforced left and right; there are wholesale uprootings of the people, and who can deny that group areas are a "thriving institution" also?

Does the fact that a law was passed against a people's will, enforced rigidly to the letter and tenaciously upheld by the lawmaker, is by the very fact of its being enforced and administered a successful law?

The answer is "Never"! Even when Salisbury Island moves to Chiltern Hills where it is planned to provide facilities for up to 2,000 students by 1967, it will still be a Tribal College for Indians.

It will never be the real thing. It will be yet another monument to apartheid and to all that apartheid stands for. It will be a reminder to future generations of the working of the policy of denying a man equal opportunity because he happens to be a man of colour.

Indian leaders have stopped asking their people to go to Salisbury Island; many of their own relations and friends attend there now. But no Indian worth the name sings its praises or exhorts his people to go there.

Go there they must, but by force of law and circumstance. Let no one, therefore, call our own tribal college a "thriving institution."

Perhaps the most apt editorial comment of the week came from the Natal "Daily News": "What Nationalism fails to appreciate is the tremendous wastage of valuable human material, both Coloured and Indian (and of course, African), that its policies, or lack of them entails. While at least 15,000 unemployed Indians wander the streets of Durban alone, there are cries of manpower shortages retarding economic expansion. This waste of talent does not make sense, but neither does the Government's inability to find a solution."

India better prepared

MRS. INDIRA GANDHI told newsmen on arrival in New York on April 1 that India was much better prepared to meet any Chinese attack now than on the last occasion, according to the Press Trust of India.

Mrs. Gandhi, who was on a 12 day private tour, said that reports of fresh Chinese concentration had been received though the possibility of a renewed attack might well depend on the international situation.

It found much to enthuse over. And, as an alternative to nothing at all, it is something. This kind of cynical equation of the workings of apartheid in the sphere of higher education is to be expected from those who believe that the principle of free and unrestricted opportunity to the man of colour is an "ideal" which only dreamers, Liberals and Communists strive after.

The "Natal Mercury" commented that Salisbury Island has grown into a "thriving institution," and in proof thereof pointed out that when it was opened two and a half years ago leaders of the Indian community urged their people to have nothing to do with it. Today, the "Natal Mercury" points out, it has more than 400 students.

GROUP AREAS

Now, what is remarkable about that? When the Group Areas Act was being debated in Parliament and after it became law, Indian leaders asked the people to have nothing to do with it.

Maree interview: new advisory body likely

"Leader" Reporter

THE 12-man deputation which recently met the Minister of Indian Affairs, Mr. W. Maree, in Pretoria, considered economic concessions to Indians and were promised the Minister's assistance.

A spokesman for the deputation said afterwards that the establishment of a national body was envisaged, which would include spokesmen from all provinces and every interest. This would not necessarily be the Advisory Council planned by the Government.

MERIT NOT COLOUR

Mr. A. M. Moolla, President of the South African Indian Organisation, said in an interview with "The Leader" that his organisation welcomed economic unity and not economic division. He maintained that for progressive South African unity it was imperative that a pattern of life in the Republic must be established for its advancement based not on colour but merit.

"To that end," said Mr. Moolla, "we must make use of every opportunity for discussions and consultations with the authorities and especially for the alleviations of hardships and difficulties suffered by Indians in their day to day living. For such discussions and consultations the Organisation stand far the use of the existing machinery provided by them, and this is not to the exclusion of any other Indian organisation which may seek to discuss matters with the authorities."

Mr. Moolla said the S.A. Indian Organisation was strongly opposed to the establishment of separate economics based on colour line. They recognised the inevitability of separate development, and the Organisation would devote its efforts to a fair and just treatment in the provision of suitable and easily accessible land, service and amenities.

MYSTERY SACKINGS AT PINETOWN SHOE CO.

MYSTERY surrounds the wholesale dismissal of workers at a Pinetown shoe factory, and employees are in a quandary about their future. Nearly every week many workers among them skilled hands, are being fired while at the same time an equal number is taken on.

The workers allege that they have not been given any reason for their dismissal except that the company was reducing its staff.

The question now asked by the unemployed workers is: Why take on a new set of workers, when it is the firm's intention to reduce staff?

This poses a puzzling problem to the fired workers, who number nearly 130, and who are in a dilemma about the upkeep of their families.

Added to this there are about 250 people who have been put out on short-time by the company.

Last week the Leather Workers' Union held a meeting in Durban at which tempers ran high.

The meeting resolved to call on the executive members of the National Leather Workers Union from Port Elizabeth to visit Durban and devise ways and means to end the dispute.

Meanwhile, families of the employed workers are almost at the starvation point with their funds exhausted. They do not know where to go for money to pay rents and buy their food.

The Chairman of the Durban Branch of the National Leather Workers' Union, Mr L. M. Sarsinah, who has himself been laid off, said: "The Union feels that of the hundreds of workers who were put on short time recently 90 were asked to report for full at the expiry of three weeks. When they did so they were paid off at the end of the first day.

A spokesman for the company denied that any workers were being sacked or replaced, and said that due to factors of organisation a large number of workers had been placed on short time. These men would be re-employed as soon as possible.

CATO MANOR: APPEAL BY N.I.O. TO "WHITE CONSCIENCE"

"Leader" Reporter

THERE was not the slightest justification for taking away Cato Manor from the Indians and handing it over the Europeans, but at present owned all the best parts of Durban, said Mr. P. R. Pather, the Secretary of the Natal Indian Organisation in a statement issued yesterday.

Mr. Pather said that the Indian people had tried every conceivable means to save Cato Manor from European ownership and occupation, but it appeared that none of their efforts had been successful. There was only one other step that needed to be taken and that was to appeal to the conscience of the White people of Durban. "I would have my people to cover that which does not belong to them," he said, and I have no doubt that every European is imbued with that same feeling. Good neighbourliness and the maintenance of good race relations demand that Cato Manor should remain Indian."

NO JUSTICE

Mr. Sooboo Rajah, secretary of the Cato Manor Indian Ratepayers' Co-ordinating Council also hit out at the proposed plans by the Durban City Council and the Group Areas Development Board to develop a part of Cato Manor into a high-class residential area. Mr. Rajah described the plans as "grossly irregular" and claimed that they did not bear any sense of justice to the predominant Indian group which had owned the area for more than 80 years.

LEADER OPINION

RAMPANT RACIALISM

THE Nationalist Member of Parliament for Pretoria District made a deplorable attack on Indians during the debate on the vote of the Minister of Indian Affairs, in the Assembly, last week.

Mr. F. J. Schoonbee alleged that "the markets of the Transvaal and other parts of South Africa are controlled by Indian retailers and wholesalers in such a way that they give offence to Whites and Bantu."

Now, we are not aware of any such control, nor are we aware of any offence to Whites and Africans. That in a predominantly Indian City such as Durban, the vegetable and fruit markets have their fair share of Indians we would not deny.

MORNING MARKET

Indians leaders have stopped asking their people to go to Salisbury Island; many of their own relations and friends attend there now. But no Indian worth the name sings its praises or exhorts his people to go there.

Go there they must, but by force of law and circumstance. Let no one, therefore, call our own tribal college a "thriving institution."

Perhaps the most apt editorial comment of the week came from the Natal "Daily News": "What Nationalism fails to appreciate is the tremendous wastage of valuable human material, both Coloured and Indian (and of course, African), that its policies, or lack of them entails. While at least 15,000 unemployed Indians wander the streets of Durban alone, there are cries of manpower shortages retarding economic expansion. This waste of talent does not make sense, but neither does the Government's inability to find a solution."

This kind of unwarranted outburst against a defenceless section of the community, made under cover of Parliamentary privilege, must be condemned by all responsible persons. It is the kind of thing that leads to racial disharmony and friction.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

NO PANIC AT ASHERVILLE BUT "NO STRANGERS TO INSECURITY"

YOUR front page, eye-catching report of May 17 concerning Asherville calls for comment. We hope that at least as much prominence will be given to this letter as to your article.

The Group Areas Act, as you are no doubt aware, has played havoc with residential and trading rights of Indians. The suffering of the people of the Transvaal is a prelude to what is planted for the rest of the country if the authorities have their way. This vicious and obnoxious Ghetto Act has created insecurity and concern throughout the province and indeed throughout the country.

The residents of Asherville are on stingers to such insecurity and concern. Of course, we are fearful that Asaherville may be proclaimed a White area. Most of us have put our last penny into building and beautifying our homes and we would hate to lose them at the behest of some administrative pen.

But our concern and fears are tempered by our deep understanding and conscionsness that we can only eliminate this so-called "nightmarish feeling" when unjust laws as the Ghetto Act do not blemish our Statute Book and when we become free men in a free South Africa.

You state that the Asherville Ratepayers' Association was unable to alleviate these fears. We have, however, been able to explain to the residents something which you should be doing instead of playing on the fears of the people. We have been able to explain to the people:

● The Group Areas Act is an unwanted law which we oppose. We cannot therefore assist in enforcing such a law.

● It is an unjust Act designed primarily to oppress the Indian people. Nor, for instance, the Morning Market, as it is known, is patronised by all sections, not least the Whites and the stall-holders are a very necessary and essential part of the city's life. We are not aware that the existence of the Morning Market has led to any racial frictions or personal disturbances," as alleged by Mr. Schoonbee. It is as feeble as our saying that because most of the farms in the country are owned by Afrikaners there is a danger of racial friction.

This kind of unwarranted outburst against a defenceless section of the community, made under cover of Parliamentary privilege, must be condemned by all responsible persons. It is the kind of thing that leads to racial disharmony and friction.

● If we ask for Asherville to be proclaimed an Indian area then we have accepted the principle of Group Areas. We can't quarrel if subsequently the area is declared for White occupation.

● Even if we do succeed in getting the area proclaimed for Indian occupation we will not thereby be any more secure and free from fear than we are now. There is nothing to prevent the authorities from reversing their decision.

You will note that the first two points are a principled objection to the unjust nature of the Act. The others deal with the practical possibilities. The residents of Asherville understand the position as we have set out. It is for these reasons that every annual meeting of the Asherville Ratepayers' Association has declined unanimously to make any representations to the Group Areas Board. Certainly, we are not in people. How can we work the machinery of our own oppression by making suggestions to the Group Areas Board? any way embarrassed by our stand as your report states.

We cannot believe that even one solitary single property in Asherville has been sold out of fear or panic. Certainly properties have been sold or are being offered for sale. This is either because the owner has a substantial offer or because he is not able to meet his commitments.

We in Asherville, like all the people of Sou.h Africa, both Black and White, are living in a state of insecurity. We are concerned for our rights as human beings. We cannot hope to find justice where the very basis of law and administration is unjust and oppressive. The Group Areas Act is only one aspect of this.

Attempts have been made by sections of the Indian people to modify and ameliorate the hardship of the Group Areas Act, but the main emphasis of S.A. society is radically altered.

S. A. RANDEREE,
Asherville Ratepayers' Assoc

Supports big weddings

SIR,—With reference to the article under the title "Lavish Weddings Outdated" by your correspondent Mr. B. Naidoo, may I know from him if he knows the significance of the whole ceremony that is performed at weddings?

He congratulates Mr. V. S. Naidu for taking a bold step in introducing reforms for his sister's wedding by making the ceremony short and restricting the invitation to a small number, and further states that it will be an eye-opener to the leaders of the Hindu community.

Does Mr. Naidoo realise that by making the ceremony short is like reaving the flavour out of a curry? What is the sense in having a short ceremony when all the rows that have to be taken for the bride and groom have to be left out? Rather than have a short ceremony why have one at all?

Either a person only gets married once in a lifetime, so let it be a grand affair. Surely the Naidoo does not expect the same person to get married 365 days a year, so definitely you do not have to feel all those who you had invited for the rest of your life. Why restrict the invitations to a small number only?

I quite agree with your correspondent when he states that with the present unemployment figures increasing it is foolhardy to go ahead with lavish weddings. May I ask Mr. Naidoo why must a person get married when he is unemployed? Surely he should have enough common sense to realise that he will have difficulty in supporting his wife. Further let me draw your attention to the fact that the leaders of the Hindu community, as you have mentioned, are not so stupid as to fall in love and get married overnight.

Unmarried mothers — some points answered

SIR.—At the outset, I wish it to be known that this is not a reply to "Am I Right" nor is it any sign of a desire to continue controversy on a heavily charged topic. It is merely an explanation of the point in question and perhaps a correction of any wrong impression.

In the first place, it would be well for "Am I Right" to note that the article itself was not mine. It was a "report", the talk given by me on "Unmarried Mothers". He should also be aware that in reporting such items where brevity is also to be considered by the reporter, it is possible to lose the crux of the point in question.

The essence of my talk contained in the answers to the questions why girls become unmarried mothers. It is a pity, therefore, that substance from my script pertaining to this point, had not been given more detailed treatment. The reported article does seem somewhat unfinished by concluding in a note that required greater clarification — and this was amply given in my script.

In explaining the matter further, I would like "Am I Right" to know that the points which he dwells on to his or her letter are included in the answers given in my talk under fundamental settings, etc., details of which show considerable awareness of parents as influencing factors.

I would like to explain that the matter of girls becoming "victims" of circumstances which they themselves created, was considered against a context wherein deeper psychological factors were discussed.

N OBLAME

Finally, I do not remember that I attached any blame to the girls' at all, in fact a plea was made for public opinion and attitudes to become more tolerant and understanding and for the problem to be approached with a view to prevention and hence prevention of any increase in the problem or in any recurrence, rather than one of punishment and hence aggravation of the problem.

Protection wanted

Sir, — For a long time now "The Leader" has been campaigning for bright lights and extra foot police patrols at the Victoria Street and Winterton Walk bus terminal—but as usual the City Council and police completely ignore our pleas. I do hope "The Leader" will continue with their bold campaign.

We must demand extra lights and more police patrols not only in Victoria Street and Winterton Walk but in the central area as well.

"WE WANT PROTECTION".

Deepavali Date

Sir,—In answer to the question appealing in "The Leader" by your correspondent "Hindu" which is the correct date for Deepavali in 1963, I can inform you that the calendar reform committee of Government of India has accepted October 14, 1963 as Deepavali day on their calendar, and Rashtriya Panchangam which is printed in 12 regional languages.

Yours, etc.

CONTRASTING "WELCOMES"

TWO beautiful European actresses appearing in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Two Weeks in Another Town," were given sharply contrasting "welcomes" on their first respective days on the set.

Italian Rosanna Schiaffino made her Hollywood debut wrapped in a Turkish towel and getting her back rubbed by Kirk Douglas.

On the other hand, lovely French Dahlia Lavi's first scene in the screen version of Irwin Shaw's best-selling novel had a jealous George Hamilton giving her a black eye!

The film is due shortly at the Shah Jehan.

60 MILES OF FILM

WHEN director J. Lee Thompson finished shooting the last scene of Harold Hecht's "Taras Bulba" for United Artists release, he had 300,000 feet of colour film in the can from which to start his editing.

While on location for more than three months in Salta, Argentina, cameraman Joe MacDonald supervised four cameras during the battle scenes involving some 10,000 Gauchos portraying Cossacks and 1,000 Argentine Cavalry as Poles and Turks.

The R7,000,000 production, due for release soon, stars Tony Curtis, Yul Brynner, Christine Kaufmann, Brad Dexter, Sam Wanamaker and Perry Lopez.

Successful career of "My Fair Lady" Producer

Robert Herbert, the Producer of "My Fair Lady" which comes to the Alhambra, Durban shortly commenced his theatrical career at the School of Theatre Crafts in Melbourne — winning a Scholarship in his second year. In 1950 he joined the Anew McMaster Shakespearian Company, where he added to his already extensive experience. Later, in 1953, he toured with the J. C. Williamson Company in their production of "Reluctant Heroes" and in 1955 switched to the production side with the musical success "Can-Can", which was produced by Danny O'Neill. This was followed by "The Pajama Game", which New York producer Fred Herbert toured most successfully.

Robert Herbert then joined the Elizabethan Theatre Trust and remained with them until 1958 when he was invited by the J. C. Williamson Company to work with Sam Liff—well-known New York producer—on the fabulous "My Fair Lady" production in Australia. This opened to a Gala Premiere at His Majesty's Theatre, Melbourne on January 24, 1959.

WROTE BOOK

In addition to his work on the production side, Robert Herbert has always been interested in writing for the Theatre and has recently completed the book and lyrics for a new musical—this time a romantic adventure story set in feudal Japan.

This he plans, together with his musical collaborator, to take to New York.

At 29 years of age, Robert Herbert is surely headed for an exciting and successful career.

The fourth part of this film which is called "The Man on the Avenue" also stars Gallic actress Danielle Darrieux, Perrette Pradier and comedian Louis de Funes.

These four outstanding actors combine in this final chapter, "Man On The Avenue" to make a suspence filled close to a really exciting film.

2 CITIES OF SIN

THE spectacle of the destruction of the legendary biblical cities of sin and wickedness is the highlight of "Sodom and Gomorrah," currently playing at the Raj.

Whilst the biblical account of the destruction of the twin cities of evil covers only five paragraphs in the Bible, the story on celluloid takes up to two and a half hours.

Leading an international cast of players, Stewart Granger portrays Lot, who leads the wandering Hebrews into the Valley of Jordan and into Sodom, Pier Angeli plays Ildith, Lot's wife; Stanley Baker portrays Astaroth, the dark prince of Sodom, Rossana Podesta as Shuah, Lot's daughter, and Anouk Aimee is Bera, the fantastic pleasure-seeking queen of Sodom, who leads her people to their doom.

The newest find—and the rage—of the Indian screen, Saira Banu, who won a huge following of admirers after her appearance in "Junglee" stars in yet another domestic drama, "Shaadi," which has its first Pietermaritzburg screening at the Regent Cinema this weekend and during next week. Saira Banu stars with Manoj Kumar in this Bahar Films' presentation which should appeal to every member of the family. Balraj Sahni Indrani, Om Prakash, Sulochana and Raj Mehra are co-starred. Delightful songs and music are a feature of this entertaining film.

Comedy adapted from Broadway success

ROBERT MITCHUM and Shirley Maclaine are starred in "Two for the Seesaw," opening shortly at the Avalon. The film is a comedy adapted from the Broadway success by playwright William Gibson.

Gittle Moscawitz (Shirley Maclaine) is a slop and the happy-go-unlucky heroine of this earthy, funny, warm and surprising little comedy.

The film tells the story of Gittel's affair with a visiting fireman who has run out of steam, a lawyer (Robert Mitchum) from Omaha whose problems are somewhat contrary to Gittel's.

She has been a doormat for men, he has been a lap dog for his wife. He needs self-reliance, she needs self-respect.

In the course of their brief affair the lawyer and the slob laugh, cry, work, play, fight, love and live. And at the end of the affair they are wiser and stronger than they were before.

For the first time in his life the lawyer loves as a grown man loves, taking what he wants and leaving what he doesn't, and what he doesn't want, he decides, is to spend his life with Gittel.

The shock is painful, but for the first time in her life she refuses to give herself to a man who doesn't want her for herself.

Another Epic

A NEW and lavish epic is underway in Spain. It is called "The Valley of the Swords," a stirring slice of history about the 10th Century Spanish Christian battle against the Moors.

The cast is a colourful mixture: Hollywood veteran Cesar Romero, pop-singer Frankie Avalon, Broderick Crawford, Fernando Rey and a . . st of fiery Latin beauties.

Among the authentic backgrounds for the film are many ancient castles and monastries, some of them dating back to the 9th Century. Extras for the film will be about 7,000.

Eagerly awaited war film opens next week

DARYL F. ZANUCK'S Academy Award-winning multi-million-dollar film epic, "The Longest Day", opens at the Avalon next week and depicts the herculean effort of the Allied forces to effect a landing on the heavily fortified Normandy beaches of France on D-Day, June 6, 1944.

On a vast and somber canvas, in the black and white which was suggested by the subject, the producer has played out a story of war. And the story is told in the simple, unvarnished, searing terms of armed conflict, of death and destruction, of fear and shock, of heroism and the kind of naked courage which makes men try to do things beyond their capacities to accomplish.

The broad canvas of the whole operation shifts time and again to the accomplishments of individuals, depicting the fate of this man, or that, the actions or reactions of a specific person.

Throughout the film, under all conditions and circumstances, the camera work is superb, with the scope of the story giving opportunity for startlingly effective photography.

HONOURS

And who is to be singled out among the vast cast of 42 international stars supported by thousands of extras, for honours? The cast is so large, and so lacking in dominance is any one character, that Zanuck lists members of the cast alphabetically. However, some names should be noted.

There is John Wayne, commander of a paratroop battalion of the first wave, whose broken ankle is no deterrent; Richard Burton, as an RAF pilot Red Buttons, as a paratrooper who hangs suspended from a church steeple while his comrades are slaughtered around him; Henry Fonda, as Brig. Gen. Theodore Roosevelt, who insists on going ashore, cane in hand, with his men; Eddie Albert, as a fighting colonel who is killed in the final breakthrough off murderous Omaha Beach; Robert Mitchum, who leads that breakthrough, unlit cigar clamped in his jaw; Peter Lawford, as the commander of the British unit which relieves the men who captured and held a strategic bridge; Paul Anka (who contributed to the music), Richard Beymer, Fabian, Sal Mineo, Tommy Sands, Robert Wagner, as soldiers who did extraordinary things because they had to be done; Jeffrey Hunter, who blasted the roadblock off Omaha; Curt Jurgens, a prophetic German General; Kenneth More, as the indomitable boss of the beach.

The pace and speed and force of its telling is signified by the fact that three hours of running time, passes like one and one-half hours. This is real motion picture, striking with impact, leavened with moments of humour here and there, at once pathetic and tragic and dynamic.

Girl—follows—boy comedy

IN U.S. Navy terms, "seagulls" are the wives and sweethearts who follow the officers and men of the fleet whenever and wherever they can.

It is a group of these seagulls as personified by Connie Francis, Paula Prentiss, Dany Robin and Janis Paige, whose adventures, romantic and otherwise, are depicted with hilarious consequences in MGM's engaging girl-pursues-boy comedy "Follow the Boys," which plays at the Shah Jehan.

There are plenty of laughs and excitement in this delightful picture. Filmed in Panavision and colour on beautiful locations on the French Riviera (with the U.S. Sixth Fleet anchored at Cannes as a prop), and in other picturesque spots in the South of France.

It has Connie Francis following her hit in "Where the Boys Are" in another comedy part and singing four new songs especially written for her.

Housing schemes "vast dormitories" says report

THE annual report of the Durban Indian Child Welfare Society, tabled at the society's meeting last week, described the Municipal housing schemes in Merebank and Chatsworth as "vast dormitories," which did not bear any relation to the many other aspects which made residential areas a functioning community.

Travelling costs and inconveniences, absence of local school facilities, added drain on budgets for the housing itself, extra and new furniture, inadequate shopping facilities and other services—all these intensified the stresses of life.

"With new associations and new affiliations", added the report, "that sense of community is lost in the mass of numbers. They have to suffer gracefully the added burdens of electing to live in a new residence."

"To say the least, they provide no more than vast dormitories, unrelated to the infinite number of other aspects which make residential areas into functioning communities. The absolute density of population by virtue of the proximity of houses would, in foreseeable time, produce features that generally characterise slum areas. In this form of re-housing we cannot hope for that positiveness that promoted these projects."

"As one saw the inadequacies of these mass housing projects, so too, one noted the accumulation of social failures in the Indian community—individuals who were inadequately equipped to compete for a living in this urban milieu. They were the products of unhappy family life, of poverty-stricken homes, of the ill-equipped in education and training, all drifting into a social class and operating on a level of the sub-culture group. They were essentially the products of a social and economic system which had failed to provide them with the level of preparation essential in an industrialised society."

And this, in the society's view, was the basic factor in relation to the high incidence of unemployment which had become a monstrous problem among Indians.

In assessing the Indian's social and economic problems, the report noted the extent to which economic necessity characterised the living patterns of individuals, families and groups. The 1951 census showed that in Durban the Indian had the lowest per capita income of R80 per annum which was less than one-seventh of the European income.

"And so", stated the report, "we have the same cycle operating—poor housing because of low incomes, low incomes because of limited venues of employment, limited avenues of employment because of inadequate training and education and so on.

Chatsworth gets amenities through new Association

"Leader" Reporter

The Chatsworth Township Association is doing good work in the interests of several hundred families in the Chatsworth Indian housing scheme.

Since its inception a few months ago, the association has made representations to the various authorities for the improvement and provision of amenities in the area.

Mr. Ram Naidoo, the energetic secretary of the association told "The Leader" that the organisation worked in close co-operation with the Durban City Council, the regional office of the Indian Affairs Department and other local authorities for the many improvements sought by the residents in Chatsworth.

"We have received sympathetic understanding from them," he said.

Following representations to both the City Council and Indian Affairs Department, a temporary sports ground has been built in the area. The plans for recreational facilities envisages four large and modern grounds in the area. These are to be built soon.

After taking up the matter of police protection with the local District Commandant, the area is now patrolled by uniformed members of the S.A.P.

TWO MEETINGS

Mr. Naidoo said that since it was formed in December last year, the association held two general meetings, and a third one is been scheduled to be held in two weeks time, at which the association would like all residents to attend.

He said that it was difficult for the association to enrol members, as new residents moved into the area daily and had to be settled first before they could be approached to join. Prospective members are asked to contact the President, Mr. L. S. Naidoo, at No. 7, Road206, or the joint secretaries at No. 3, 206; and No. 30, Road 207.

To represent South Africa at centenary

"Leader" Reporter

SEVEN Durban Indians will be included in the contingent to represent South Africa at the Red Cross centenary celebrations in Geneva, Switzerland, in August.

They are Messrs. G. D. Padayachee, H. Mahabeer, B. C. Naidoo, N. G. Naidoo, B. S. Maharaj, Miss S. M. Lawrence, and Miss R. Charles.

Mr Padayachee joined the Red Cross movement 20 years ago, and is the Assistant District Commissioner for Natal — the only Indian to hold this post in South Africa.

Miss Lawrence, the first person in South Africa to open a detachment for non-Europeans in this country, has been associated with the Red Cross Society for the past 30 years since she formed the Pioneer Detachment in 1933. The enrolment then was only 25 women, among whom were several grandmothers. Five of her pupils have now become doctors.

Papwa Fund still short

By "Leader" Sports Staff

THE Papwa Fund still needs more money! That is the latest appeal from the Fund officials. Mr. Louis Nelson, chairman of the Fund, said early this week that despite Press reports that the 1963 target had been fully subscribed, "we still need more money to achieve our aim of providing Mr. Papwa Sewgolam with a decent home for himself and his family."

Mr. Nelson agreed that the actual amount needed to send Papwa overseas next month had already been received, but he pointed out that "as a tribute to a great golfer," the Papwa Fund was making an earnest bid to raise a further R4,000. When this amount was raised, it was hoped to build a home for Papwa.

Donations continue to come in and it is understood that schools are playing a great part in this drive.

Cheques or postal orders may be sent to the Papwa Fund, P.O. Box 2498, Durban.

The champion leaves for Britain and the continent on June 15, and returns two months later.

SOUTH COAST SOCCER

CHAMPIONS BEATEN BY SPRINGBOKS

THE Southern Natal Knock-out Cup champions, Bridgeview, were dealt a severe blow at the hands of Springboks in the qualifying round of the Southern Natal competition at Clairwood on Sunday. Bridgeview, playing with virtually an untried team, were eliminated from the series by losing 4—6. The last 20 minutes of the game had to be played under floodlight.

S. Magellan found an easy opening to score for Bridgeview. With so much of thrills and excitement, Bridgeview handled the ball in the penalty "box." Nicky George easily converted this to put Springboks on even terms. D. Jack blundered during the middle of the first half and scored his own goal to give Springboks a 2-1 lead at half-time.

Bridgeview equalised again through Magellan but Springboks put everything into the game. C. Williams got the ball from a George pass and after a scramble at the goal-mouth he netted. M. P. Angosa took Springboks' total to four goals. Neither of the teams stopped the fight and the crowd were enjoying the game.

With 20 minutes still left, poor light forced the officials to switch on the lights and the remaining time was played under floodlights.

Magellan, playing at his best, scored his third goal to reduce Bridgeview's deficit but Angosa netted again to make the score 5-3. In this ding-dong affair Bridgeview were again in the picture with a fine goal from Alec (5-4). Springboks' final goal came from Sailor Joseph, the former South African Coloured player.

Other results were:

Bluff Rangers 4, Temple View 3; Boystown 2, South Coast Junction 2; Airport Royals scr., Pirie Aces, w.o.; Young Pinedianas 1, Pirates 7; Stars of India 1, Roker Park 0; United Buffaloes 1, Daffodils 0; Bluff Colts 2, Crimson View 1, Flower City 1, Teakwood United 0; Golden Krust 2, Seawards 0; Stars of India1, Brighton 0.

Forwards cost City a point

By C. G. MOODLEY

MARITZBURG CITY'S deep-lying inside-forwards cost them a point against Orlando Pirates in a SASL match which ended in a goalless draw at the Showgrounds in Pietermaritzburg last Sunday afternoon.

City's diminutive centre-forward, Robert Zita, was no match against the tall Pirates' defenders whose robustness sent City's inside-right, Jaques Bishop, off the field with a leg injury.

Bishop's replacement, "Bomba" Chamane, forsook his customary sharp-shooting for plying his forwards with passes. Teddy Jamaloodeen, too, was strangely subdued and full-back Harry Lakey, was the City's star.

The match only sprang to life in the final 10 minutes when Pirates' goalkeeper, Mandy Davis, and City's F. Mathys, each saved a couple of shots from point-blank range.

In the official start to the Leatherworkers Soccer League, Glenn Rangers drew 3-3 with Bradbury United after Rangers had trailed 0-2 at half-time.

Results of Coloured soccer matches played on Saturday were: Oceans 1, Callies 0; Hearts B 4, Railway 1, McGregors 2, Hearts A 1.

3 YOUTHS GUILTY

THREE youths who were convicted in the Durban Magistrate's Court this week on charges of fraud arising from examinations written at the M. L. Sultan Technical College, Durban, last year, were each sentenced to three months' imprisonment.

The sentence was suspended for three years on condition they are not convicted on any charge involving dishonesty during that time.

One of the youths, Abemanan Govenden (23), who appeared at a separate trial, was found guilty of having a substitute sit for him to write his Latin and geography papers in the Senior Certificate Examination—the identity of the substitute being unknown.

The other two students—Mohamed Cassim (19) and Hashim Mullah (19) — appeared in court together.

The magistrate found that Mullah fraudulently wrote Cassim's bookkeeping paper in the Junior Certificate Examination.

Mullah was also a Junior Certificate candidate, but bookkeeping was not one of the subjects he himself was writing.

Passing sentence the magistrate said that the youths had disgraced themselves, their families and their school. He hoped the suspended sentence would keep them "on the straight and narrow path" in future.

He told Govenden that he had been very foolish and had jeopardised his future.

"I would not be surprised and I don't think it would be a bad thing, if the authorities stopped you writing future examinations."

Mr. R. S. Pather (for Govenden) said that the youth was "a victim of circumstance and environment."

His father, a prominent businessman, had wanted all his sons to have a university education, something which he himself did not have.

Unfortunately Govenden did not have the same ability in examinations as his brothers. He had been taunted because of his failure to pass examinations.

"His family wanted to make something out of him which he could not be," said Mr. Pather.

Verulam trounce—Ex Students

"Leader" Sports Staff

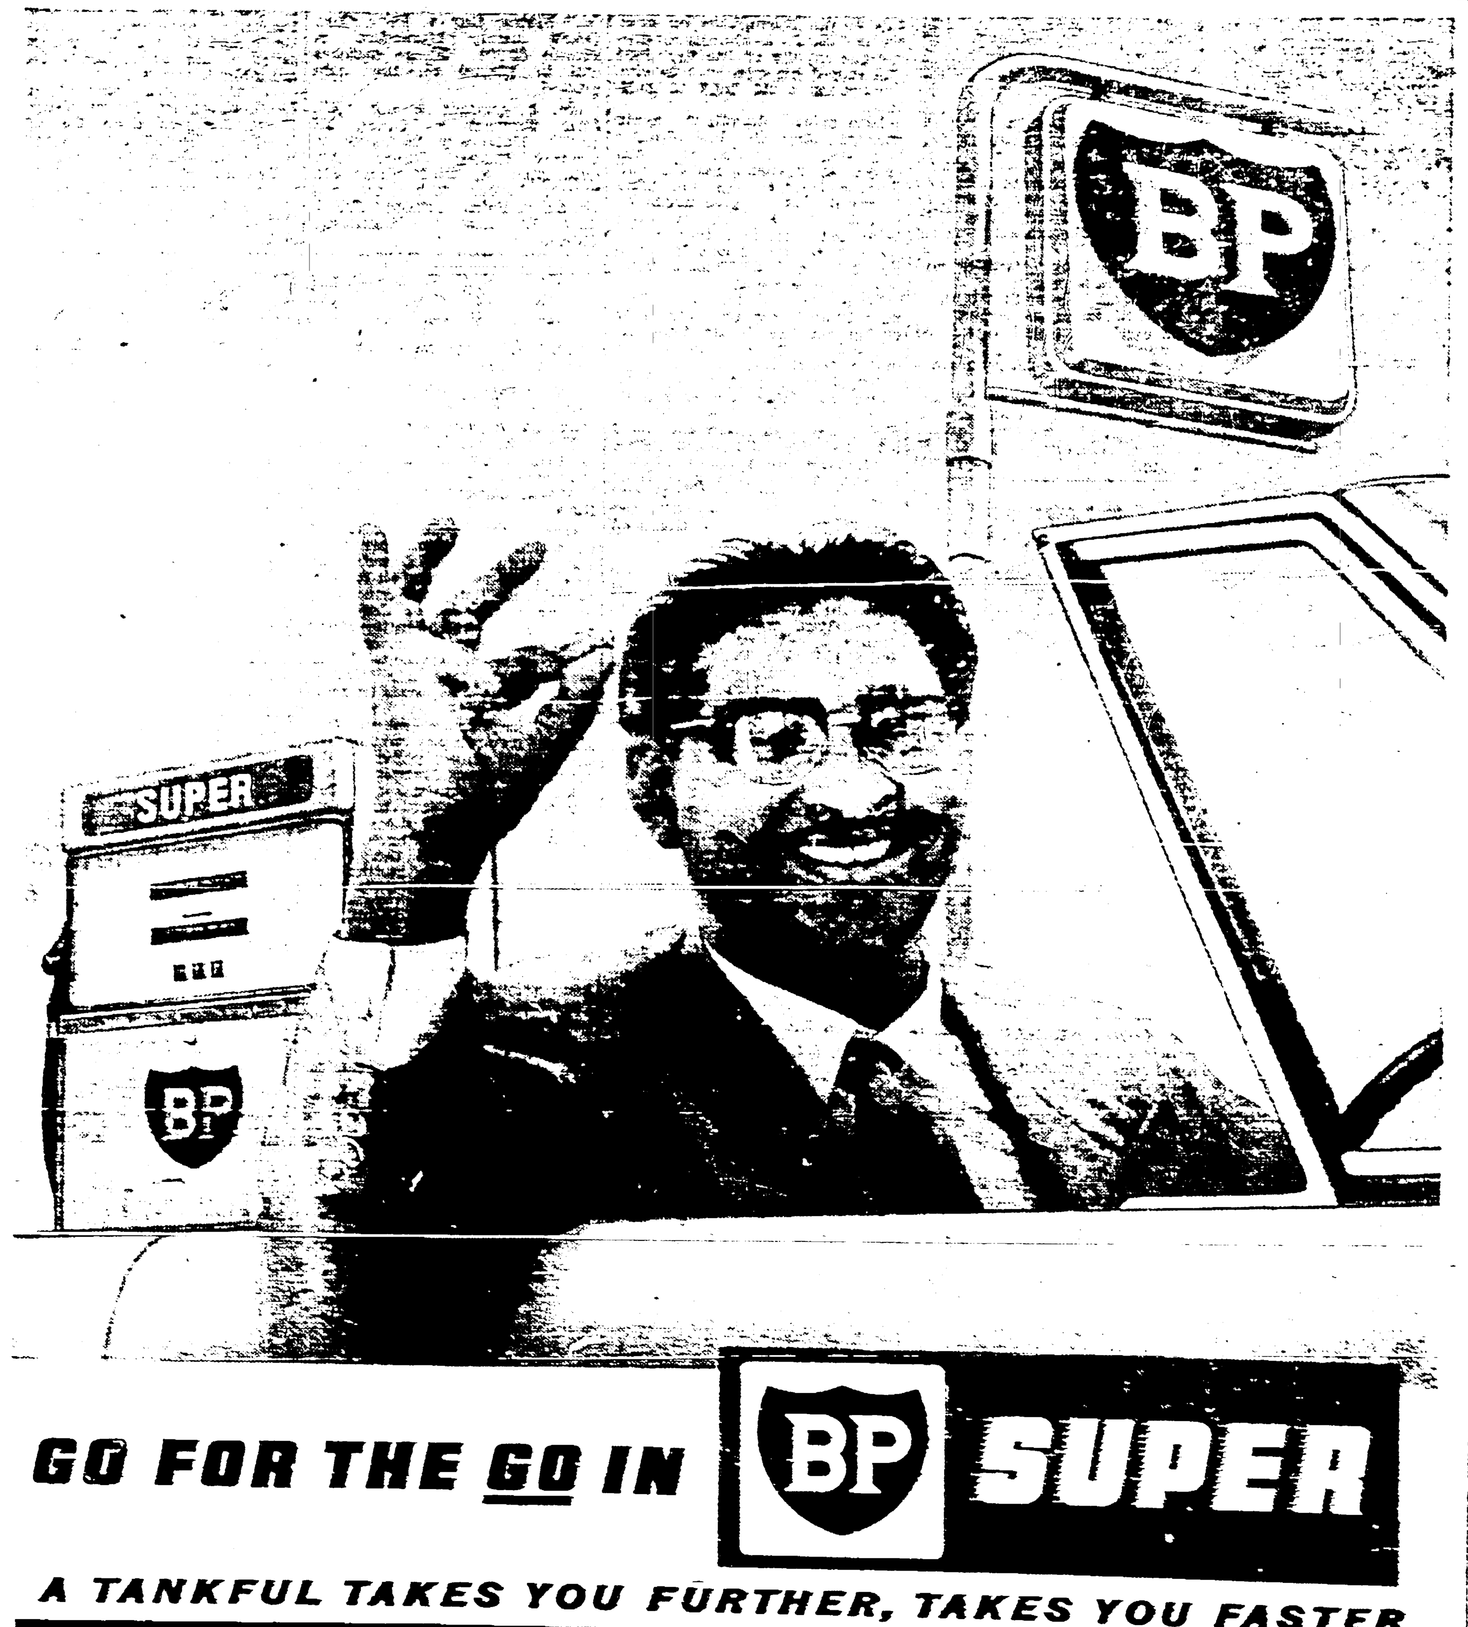
BOTH Verulam and Ex-Students began their league game at Verulam rather cautiously on Sunday, but Ex-Students missed a number of opportunities in the early stages.

Verulam changed their tactics and R. Dalais, the full-back, took a position on the forward line. This paid off almost immediately with Dalais scoring in the 20th minute. Stanley Pillay and R. Ragavaloo added another goal each to give Verulam a 3-0 lead at half-time.

Ex-Students fought back in the first few minutes of the second half when they scored a goal but they were not able to apply the pressure for very long. R. Dalais and Stanley Pillay added another two to the total to give the experienced Verulam XI a convincing 5-1 victory.

In two junior games Young Grange beat Real Mission 5-2 and Schools trounced Tidal Rangers 6-1.

Ex-Students are billed to play again this weekend and they take on Timberit in the only senior game. Verulam and Umhlotti Clubs in a junior fixture.



Mr. S. Classen, manager of the Butterworth Hotel, throws the first dart while officially opening the fixtures of the new National Darts Board of Control on Wednesday night. Standing around Mr. Classen are players of the affiliated clubs of the Board.

Darts tournament to aid V.C. Moodley Fund

"Leader" Sports Staff

THE new National Darts Board of Control was officially convened at a Durban hotel last week, and Mr. M. M. Govender was elected president.

Addressing the gathering Mr. Govender said: "I have helped to form the Durban Darts Association, the Natal organisation and the South African Board. In spite of this I shall stand by the National Darts Board of Control and give it my full support."

Meanwhile the Board has announced that a darts tournament in aid of the V. C. Moodley Fund will be held at the Butterworth Hotel this Saturday at 3 p.m. The competition is being organised by the Lotus Darts Club.

The officials of the Club have issued an appeal to the Natal Darts Union to release their players to take part in this tournament.

Winners will receive the M. M. Govender's Floating Trophy. There will also be miniatures for the runner-up and the highest scorer.

School sports meeting

"Leader" Sports Staff

THE Natal Indian Schools' Sports Association will be holding a conference of sports councils on June 1 at the Himalaya Hotel, Durban, at 9.30 a.m. The conference will opened by Mr. R. Getliffe, Inspector of Schools.

Mr. L. Raju, secretary of the association, told "The Leader" that about 18 sports councils will send their delegates to the conference. Principals of schools have also been invited to take part in the deliberations.

"The purpose of the conference," Mr. Raju said, "is to probe into the reasons for non-affiliation or participation of more than 50 per cent. of the existing sports councils to the association and to devise ways and means of "inducing and encouraging" them to become more active.

The conference will also consider and discuss some of the difficulties encountered by the various councils.

Of the 11 players selected, five of them come from Avalon Athletic, three from Berea, two from Hearts and one from Lincoln City. BREWERY TO SPONSOR R150 ANGLING CONTEST

By "Leader" Sports Staff

THE Natal non-European Angling Association has received a big boost for angling during the approaching season. A local brewery firm has agreed to donate R150 a year as a prize to its top anglers together with a trophy to the winning team. It is understood that the prize money may be increased in succeeding years depending on the success of the 1963 contest.

Mr. M. Ramlagan, the secretary of the Angling Association, told "The Leader" this week that the firm announced this award in a letter sent to them recently. ~~Commenting on the donation~~, Mr. Ramlagan said that it will encourage the sport to a much greater extent in the future. "At the moment we have just under 10 clubs but we have no doubt that the number of teams that will affiliate to us in the coming season will increase. This latest award will give the present anglers encouragement, and will induce those that have not yet taken up fishing to do so."

The constitution of the Association is being amended so as to make provisions for this new cup. The final result will be based on the results of the five intermediate contests that run all through the season.

The Association itself will conduct the competition and the prize money will be awarded as follows:

- The winning club, at the end of the season, will receive a cash prize of R100 and the "Castle Stout" Trophy;
- The angler with the heaviest aggregate will receive a cash prize of R25;
- The angler who catches the most number of fish for the whole season will receive the remaining R25.

The first of these competitions is expected to be held at the end of June. Although the Association normally commences its season early in May, the date has been put back because of the award.

Clubs from throughout the country are requested to join the Association. The address of the secretary is: 86 Sir Kurma Reddi Road, Clairwood, Durban.

SOCCER PREVIEW

OFF FORM ACES MEET CUP CHAMPIONS

WHAT are Aces United's chances against the Cup champions, Maritzburg City, at Pietermaritzburg this weekend? That is the question that will be playing on the minds of the supporters and players of these respective clubs. The clash between these two teams is the main match in Natal this weekend. At Curries Fountain, Coastals meet Blackpool, while at Johannesburg Natal meet Transvaal in an official South African Soccer League fixture.

Aces United are going through a bad patch just now, and rumours have it that several of their players have left them for other clubs. We were not able to confirm this, except to say that negotiations were being made by Coastals for the transfer of S. Lall. Even if Aces retain their players, their chances against Maritzburg City appear to be rather weak — especially taking into consideration Aces United's poor showing against the bottom of the league, Transvaal United, at Curries Fountain recently.

The last time City and United clashed was the last match of the 1962 season for the United Tobacco Company Cup final. Maritzburg City created a near sensation at that time by virtually trouncing United. These teams have not met since then and although United's performances have gone from bad to worse, City's strength has fluctuated from time to time.

Only recently they were soundly thrashed by Lincoln and in the following week they held the fairly powerful Orlando Pirates to a goalless draw. That is the way it goes with Maritzburg and therefore it is difficult to say how they will fare this weekend.

But it must be remembered that this match will be regarded as a sort of grudge match because of City's victory in the cup final. No doubt, one of Maritzburg's biggest crowds will turn out to see the clash.

Gas ends here — gess ends here

INTER-PROVINCIAL

The country's best footballers will take the field at Natalspruit on Saturday afternoon in the third inter-provincial match for the R100 cash prize and the trophy.

Transvaal will be at some advantage because of the fact that they play on the home ground and secondly because all their best players are available. This is not for so for Natal. Players from two of the popular teams, Aces United and Maritzburg City, are not available because they are engaged in a fixture during the week-end. Despite this, however, Natal has a fairly strong side and should hold their own against Transvaal. The home attack will be led by Carlton Molot of the unbeaten log leaders, Moroka Swallows.

LALL FOR COASTALS

Coastals are hoping to get their first two points at Curries Fountain this weekend when they meet Blackpool. On Monday evening Coastals were negotiating with Aces for the transfer of S. Lall and if they are successful this should strengthen the side considerably. An official of the club said that since Bathmaseelan Govender, the inner left, left them they found it quite difficult to fill in the gap but if Lall joins them their problem would be solved.

Some of those who travelled with Coastals to Johannesburg last Saturday were dissatisfied with the refreeing there and felt the Clairwood side should have at least drawn under different circumstances.

Umzinto matches

Try Again and Rovers meet in the main senior match at Umzinto this weeend. Try Again narrowly went down to Young Pilots (2—1) last week while Rovers scraped home with a 1—0 victory over Eleven Bullets.

Eleven Bullets also have a game. They meet Jumpers. In the junior game, at 12.30, Beneva meet Juvenile Tigers.

Mr. E. D. Adcock, Branch Manager of the Shell Company, is seen making the presentation of a new trophy to Mr. S. Bridgemohan, president of the Natal Cricket Board of Control at a ceremony last Wednesday night. This new trophy, which is used for the knock-out competition between champion teams of the various district Associations, replaces the trophy donated by the company in 1939.

HEARTS OUTPLAYED

Avalon now top league with Swallows

By the Sports Editor

AVALON ATHLETIC outplayed Hearts before a record crowd at Curries Fountain on Sunday afternoon. They won the game 6—0 and in maintaining their unbeaten record they went to the top of the league table—jointly with Moroka Swallows—with 15 points. In the early game Berea beat Lincoln City, 2—1 after a goalless first half.

Hearts were soundly thrashed in the game, and looked nowhere near the side that ran rings around Aces United and defeated the cup champions, Maritzburg City.

Very early in the game they earned the displeasure of the spectators for rough play—including the holding of opposing players. Immediately after these incidents occurred, it seemed obvious that they had lost considerable support from the crowd and this appeared to affect their game.

Gonaseelan Armugam, captain of Hearts, was injured towards the end of the first half and was not able to resume playing. No substitute was allowed because early in the game Richard Ntuli was replaced by S. Buthelezi. Only one substitute is allowed in any game. Armugam appeared to have hurt his chin quite badly.

In the 33rd minute of the first half Seara Wanda netted from close in to get the first goal. Not even a minute later Hector Fynn increased the lead to 2-0. Just before Avalon's third goal Armugam was injured. Blondie got Avalon's third goal. Half-time was taken with Avalon Athletic right at the top with a 3-0 lead.

Hearts improved their playing methods in the second half but not sufficiently enough to hold the powerful Avalon. They missed several scoring apportunities, but so did Avalon Athletic.

Seara got his second goal, and soon afterwards was responsible for another—Avalon's fifth. He took a drive at a pass from George Francis but the ball hit Mackie Nair, who, in attempting to save, deflected the ball into the net. George Francis scored the sixth goal.

This was a shocking performance on the part of Hearts, and a truly well deserved victory for the joint league champions.

BEREA WIN

The curtain raiser between Berea and Lincoln City certainly provided more thrills than the main game, and although Berea won 2-1, a draw would perhaps have been a more fair result as neither team really deserved to lose.

After a goalless first half Thin Rampath opened the scoring for the visitors but in the same minute Berea sent in the equaliser through Zindela. Twenty minutes from time Walter Homiel scored the winning goal for Berea.

The game continued at a fast pace with both teams making strong bids to increase their tally. But Lincoln City were unlucky not to have scored another goal and to share the points.

Olympic meeting wanted

From Our Own Correspondent

JOHANNESBURG, Tuesday.—The South African Sports Association has written to Mr. Rudolph Beslinger, the International Olympic Committee representative who is in South Africa at the moment, asking for a meeting in connection with the participation of non-Whites in the Olympic Games.

Earlier last week the South African non-Racial Olympic Committee (SAN-ROC) made efforts to meet the South African Olympic Games Committee (White) in a bid to iron out the differences before the I.O.C.'s Congress in Nairobi later this year.

In asking for the meeting SAN-ROC has suggested that all non-Whites of merit should be considered for selection. SAN-ROC warns that if this is not done the White body might face suspension. The Non-Racial body also wants improved sports facilities so that sport throughout the country could be promoted.

Central still unbeaten in tennis log.

CENTRAL maintained its unbeaten record with a comfortable 5—1 victory over Moonlighters B on Sunday. United, the Pietermaritzburg team, began its league programme with a convincing 5—0 victory over Sultan B.

Of this weekend's matches the Royal-Sydenham clash is the most important. Both teams are unbeaten and in the hunt for league honours. Royal, boasting the more balanced and experienced combination, are favoured to win but Sydenham with veterans Benny Soodayal and "Fishy" Dewcharan in the side cannot be underestimated.

Mayville meets Cato Stars

"Leader" Sports Staff

TWO well-balanced sides meet in the main clash at Mayville this weekend. The unbeaten Mayville Football Club take on Cato Stars. Cato Stars have lost only one match so far. Parades meet Clare Estate in the early match. In the third junior game Regents meet Daffodils.

Mayville Football Club has not been beaten in the league competition so far and last year they were declared joint league champions.

The remaining fixtures are: Daffodils v Spade City; Crimson Lads v Thistle and Aryan Wanderers v Furness United.

Sports Day

The Illovo Government Aided Indian School will be holding their annual sports at the school grounds on Friday May 31, commencing at 9 a.m.

Attractive soccer at Merebank

"Leader" Sports Staff

OXFORD UNITED and Paper Sacks played quite an attractive game at the Merebank Ground on Sunday to draw 1—1. In another fast game Merebank won 2—1 with a last-minute goal. Eagles beat Berea Rovers 4—3.

The main match was a fight between two equally strong and well-balanced sides. Paper Sacks gave a good exhibition of the game and although they were trailing 1—0 for most of the game, they scored the equaliser towards the end of the second half.

Merebank played a fast game and just managed to score the winning goal in the last three minutes of the match. Super Moonsamy was responsible for the narrow victory. Merebank's first goal was scored by Deva Govindsamy.

The results of the junior matches were: Airport Royals 1, Man City 1; Beecham City 0, Hime United 2.

WEEKEND SOCCER

The knock-out cup competition begins here this weekend with the main game between Ocean View and Airport Royals at 3 p.m. The other matches are: Paper Sacks v. Eagles (1.30); Spains United v. Woodspark and (Juniors) Merebank v. Green Falcon (9.0) and Man City v. Himes United (10.30).

WELL DONE, AVALON

By "Leader" Sports Staff

WITHOUT and doubt, this week, we say it's Avalon Athletic for the cigarette award. Their fine play against Hearts earned for them the respect of a large majority of the crowd that watched these teams play at Curries Fountain on Sunday.

In trouncing Hearts 6—0, they maintained their unbeaten record in eight games and join the leaders, Moroka Swallows, with 15 points. They have also conceded the least number of goals so far. They have scored 30 for and six against, and their close rivals Swallows, have 30 for but 12 against.

A good piece of work, Avalon! We are hoping that you will go through the first round, at least, with an unbeaten record.

Your prize of the 1,000 cigarettes with the compliments of the United Tobacco Company and "The Leader" will be coming to you during the week.

LOCKOUT OF CHILDREN AT S.R.S. SCHOOL

Desks thrown outside in dispute over repairs

"Leader" Reporter

MORE than 60 children whose ages range from eight to 14 years have been evicted from their classroom, the doors locked and their desks thrown outside. The school is the annexe of the S.R.S. Government-aided Indian School in Overport, which has been in existence for 10 years.

With locked doors behind them and their desks thrown out of their classrooms, the children of the S.R.S. Government-aided Indian School (Annexe) in Overport hold classes in the open. Their classroom was closed this week by the Overport Social Club, who allege that the S.R.S. School Management Committee had failed to carry out certain repairs and maintenance to the classroom.

Mr. R. Ramkissoon, a prominent member of the Indian community of Overport and Grantee of the S.R.S. School told "The Leader" that due to a shortage of accommodation at the S.R.S. School, the management of the Overport Social Club loaned the Club's premises to accommodate the children. Classes were held in the building for children from Class I to Standard IV, in two different sessions.

The premises were erected by public subscription and it was agreed by the management of the S.R.S. School to undertake repairs and maintain the premises to conform to the requirements of the Health Authorities. This has been satisfactorily done.

Mr. Ramkissoon personally undertook to comply with these requirements, but the management of the Club said that the exterior of the premises was not painted and without warning closed the door, threw the children's desks outside and left the children and teacher without a classroom.

When I visited the building yesterday I saw the children sitting on the grass and pursuing their studies. I am reliably informed that it is doubtful whether the children will be allowed to re-enter the building, even from the lawns, as this could mean trespassing on private property.

HECKLERS BREAK UP RAMAKRISHNA MEETING

WHILE a section of a gathering at the Ramakrishna Centre Avoca headquarters sang kirtans and prayed, last Sunday a group of backbenchers are alleged to have jeered, heckled and used abusive language.

The centre was calling a special committee meeting to discuss a lawsuit, when the incident is understood to have taken place. The meeting had to be be abandoned after repeated requests from Swami Nischalananda to the hecklers to stop their "disgusting" behaviour.

It is alleged that several former members had brought car loads of hoodlums to break up the meeting. At one time tempers grew so heated that blows were nearly exchanged.

Swami Nischalananda then asked the members who were supposed to take part in the committee's deliberations—about 50 of them—to sing and pray instead of lending their ears to those who apparently gatecrashed into the meeting. While the singing and praying was in progress, it is further alleged, the opposing group, shouted "hobees", and began catcalling.

The swami intervened and asked the chairman to close the meeting until a future date.

SHEBEENS CAUSE SLEEPLESS NIGHTS AT MEREBANK

RESIDENTS of Merebank, near the Merebank Station, are having sleepless nights because of the existence of a number of shebeens run mostly by women.

The shebeens, strangely enough, do not sell any "European" liquor such as brandy, cane spirit, wines or whisky, but confine themselves wholly to gavine, an African concoction, which is "mailed" by Indian bootleggers, from distant African areas.

Apart from a few Africans patronising these dens of vice, the majority of the clientele are Indians — men, women, youths and old men—who not only partake of the liquor, but create a din that is intolerable.

Many students — university, high school and training college —living in close proximity to the shebeens are unable to study in their homes as a result of the intermittent brawls and rowdyism coming from the shebeens.

Last weekend a neighbour had a bottle of gavine flung through his window by two drunks who were trying to hit each other with the bottles. One of the bottles slipped from its holder's hand and crashed into the house.

No one may dare question the owners of the shebeens about their practices for fear of being assaulted either by strongarm thugs employed by the underworld bosses, or in some cases by the women who run them. Recently a youth who crossed the path of one such woman was severely dealt with by her.

Some of the people are afraid to report the shebeens to the police for fear of reprisals such as throwing of stones on their houses and assaults.

Even the landlords are powerless to eject these notorious characters from their premises.

Cyclone toll 22,000

PRESIDENT AYUB KHAN flew into East Pakistan today to survey the havoc caused by the May 28 cyclone as grim reports trickling in from remote areas steadily raised the death toll.

Unconfirmed Press reports put the dead at 15,000 to 50,000, but incomplete official figures said that about 22,000 died.

Fishing nets were used in some areas to recover floating corpses, drifting with animal carcasses.
