This is another factor attributed for the fall in consumption.

The surplus stock, however, it is learned, is being sold to speculators, from the Transvaal, who are prepared to hold on to it in case of another shortage, when prices will again rise.

DHOLL SUBSTITUTE

Substitutes have also been found for other Indian foodstuffs, such as lentils; peas and cowpeas and beans are making excellent "dholl" dishes. Demand for these products among Indians have affected the prices considerably, from 3d. a lb. to 8d. a lb. Butter and vegetable ghee "ves" for the "Periandar." Tamarin has been replaced by lemon juice; and in many cases the Indian housewife is on the lookout for substitutes.

This seems to be some way in the process of lowering the traditional food for with Indian, finding expression in the slogan: For South African Indians South African-grown food.

BLACK MARKET IN GROOMS

ALTHOUGH we live in a world of substitutes, it will prove almost impossible to find an answer to the problem of India's black market bridegroom who, as we have already pointed out in this connection, writes the Times of India, is, in fact, it is suggested that some of these bridegrooms are thinking of "auctioning" themselves to newspapers.

This valuable commodity is fast disappearing into the black market, largely on account of a recent law passed against the dowry system, a law limiting the number of guests that may attend a wedding, and a rather drastic one for producing the dispensation for bridegrooms. The end is in sight, however, for what with inflated prices and a serious housing shortage,

For once control experts are baffled, their contribution to the solution of the problem would be to persuade female matrimonial material to follow the advice of Themistocles, "I prefer a man without money to money without a man."

CONGRESS PERPLEXED

Not When but Where to Hold Its Meeting

OFFICIALS of the Natal Indian Congress are finding it difficult to secure a venue for its annual meeting, which is advertised to take place at Durban, on February 4.

A recent ban on the holding of public meetings in the City Hall on Sundays rules out any possibility of a gathering taking place there, unless it is going to be on a weekday, which is said to be unsuitable for holding such a meeting.

No other hall suitable to hold this meeting is available in Durban.

Indian sports ground officials said the Congress secretary, Mr. P. R. Pather, to The Leader, have also placed a ban on holding meetings of a political nature on its premises. It is, however, making another try to

A Charge of Two Countries

A Round Table conference between the Governments of South Africa and India will be held next week, at which important questions affecting Indians in South Africa will be discussed. Among those who are closely connected with the subject are Indian leaders and representatives but they are not expected to take any active part in the conference. They will be there to see that no decisions are arrived at which will be detrimental to the interests of Indians in the Union of South Africa.

The Union Government is said to be prepared to discuss the whole question of Indians in South Africa and to consider any proposals which may be put forward by the Indian Government. It is understood that the Union Government will not be represented at the conference by any Cabinet Ministers, but by officials of the Department of Interior and Immigrants and they will be under instructions to consult with the Cabinet Ministers in charge of the Department before any decisions are arrived at.

It is understood that the Union Government has some right to consider the rights acquired and established under the Immigrants Regulation Act, and that any Indians who have entered the Union legally will continue to operate as such. Quite a large section of Natal Indians, mainly in Durban, are confined to certain areas under the Asiatic Land Tenure Act, and these also have been promised by the Union Government that they will continue to enjoy their rights as such. Even the Union Parliament with the franchise Act, has given the Indians certain rights, and it is understood that they have been promised that these rights will not be taken away.

There are the assurances that the Indians have received from the Union Government, but the fear is that the Union Government may, for the purpose of obtaining the future of the Indians in South Africa, may be prepared to make concessions wherever he is here.

South Africa must some arrangement with India whereby the Indians will be repatriated to India, and the Union Government will have a final solution of the problem. It is said to be on the subject of the South African Indians themselves, be the last Round Table conference between the two countries, and a satisfactory result of two days' talks.

restaurants such as shellac, rosin, oilseed cakes and cottonseed cake are available in plenty. Improvements have been effected in the manufacture of plastics from coffee beans, rubber grounds can also be used. Shellac, which is used for insulation purposes, is found in a hard substance in shell lounges and is now being commercially exploited. Certain limestones are also found to be suitable substitutes for shellac. Many of the products of these materials available locally which were hitherto considered to be of no value, the solution for the present, non-availability of shellac is expected from an unpretentious weed.

AS we enter the New Year—the sixth of this war for Democracy—we recall with pride India's contribution towards this gigantic struggle. On both the Continental and Asiatic battle fronts Indian troops have brought new glories during the war. In the Italian campaign they have played a notable part in the march on Europe. Hong Kong, Malaya, East Indies, the Sudan, Egypt, Iraq, Kenya, Aden, Somaliland, Eritrea and Abyssinia—varied battle fronts such as these have witnessed exploits of Indian arms, the saga of Indian courage in World War II. They have died that freedom may flourish, that we, too, blood of their blood, may enjoy some of those things for which they gave their lives.

May this New Year, in its course, see that peace issues with victory, and that some of those ideals for which they made the supreme sacrifice find practical realization in our own lives.

AR

March on Europe

Indian troops were there at Sidi Barrani way back in the first "great hour of victory."

It fell to the honour of the Fifth Indian Division to liberate the first victim of Fascist rule, in their commander, the Duke of Aosta surrendered at Amba Alagi.

Indian divisions played their part in the capture of the Tobruk beacon that saved all Egypt.

From the Desert Battle in June, 1941, to the final victory in Tunisia, the line reads names of Alem Hamza, Gazala, Tobruk, El Alamein, Mareth Line, Wadi Akarit are the signposts of the final triumph in which Indian troops had such a glorious part.

In Tunisia, the Fourth Indian Division and the Seventh Armoured Corps shared honours.

They were a formidable combination of Indian troops, Major Oliver wrote; "So long as they are in the line we need not worry. They will be the spearhead of any attack."

Indian soldiers and divisions are fighting in Italy today.

Tough, versatile, resourceful as campaigners do, these men have fitted with great skill into the new, and held aloft the finest traditions of the Indian Army—and have added to the Allied laurels.

War Efforts Of Women

IN India as in Britain, though for obvious reasons on a smaller scale, war has given many Indian women scope for doing what they can, both in the fields hitherto reserved for men and in other spheres in which they have come to the front.

Welfare work for troops, Red Cross working parties, Nursing Sisterhood these have claimed their attention. And as they have entered the Women's Branch of the Indian Medical Service with full commissioned rank.

There are many women who are playing an important part in the vital communications work of organising the army. The tact and organising ability of Indian women have been brought to bear helpfully, by teaching them hundreds of savvy occupations, from the old-fashioned crafts of cooperating to some work and of the war effort.

The Women's Voluntary Service has done splendid work. It gives information and assistance in all spheres of women's war service in India. To find war jobs for which women are best suited and to supply information about openings for service. It also runs canteens and helps families of Service personnel and evacuees in need of guidance.

Another organisation that has developed rapidly is the Women's Auxiliary Corps (India). Recruited on a voluntary basis, its members are paid and their service is for the duration of the war and limited to the confines of India. They are wholetime workers entitled to leave under Army regulations.

All women between the ages of 18 and 30 who are British subjects or subjects of Indian States are eligible for enlistment and among the duties they may perform are those of switchboard operators, cipher operators, wireless operators, mechanical transport drivers, the Navy, Army and Air Force have each got its own WAAC wing.

which it has made available for direct war purposes, details of which cannot be revealed.

Research between Navy gives an impetus to industrial development; the industries mainly benefited include the vegetable oil, plastics, chemicals, paints and lubricants industries.

Researches of the Council into the properties of vegetable oils as lubricants have proved particularly useful. Various kinds of vegetable and mineral oils have been tested.

Plastics has received much attention. While synthetic resins are not available in India, natural resins and resin-forming

India's Navy

IN Indian waters, in the Atlantic and Mediterranean, over the wide expanse of the Indian Ocean, in the Persian Gulf and Red Sea, and off the Arakan coast the Royal Indian Navy has played its part during five years of war. It is bearing an increasing share of the burden of the war at sea.

India has had her own naval forces for more than 300 years. But it was only in the last three years, long known as the Royal Indian Navy, were recognised as the Royal Indian Navy.

Before the present war, up to 1939 the Royal Indian Navy had undergone many changes. Since then its expansion has been rapid, and, today, apart from the ships, the service has over several thousand highly trained officers and men.

In the Eritrean campaign H.I.N. sloops took part. When Berbera, the capital of British Somaliland, was captured the Red Sweep was cleared of mines by minesweepers of H.I.N. "Parwati" and H.I.N. "Netravati."

Heroism at Sea

While James was encountering Malaya some ships of the R.I.N. were attached to the South China Station, the chief duty of which was escorting reinforcements and supplies to Singapore.

H.M.I.S. "Sutlej" distinguished herself in escort duties in these waters and later returned to the Bay of Bengal. H.M.I.S. "Jumna" also served with great gallantry in these waters.

The minesweeper H.M.I.S. "Bengal" fought on November 11, 1917, an action that will rank as naval history with that of H.M.S. "Jervis Bay" on November 5, 1940.

While convoying the Dutch tanker Caledon (about 1,000 miles south-east of Java, H.M.I.S. "Bengal" encountered two enemy warships.

The merchant ships were engaged by the Japanese warships, but they were returning fire with their small guns. The leading and larger raider was hit by the "Bengal's" first salvo and the second and the raider eventually sank. "Bengal" then closed with the armed raider, and though hit and damaged fore and aft, she remained in action.

REVIEW

Leapt into News

Late in the summer of 1965, the Royal Indian Navy leapt into news. Ships of the R.I.N. took part in escorting the Seventh Army convoys across the Mediterranean and had contacted in daring attacks-raids on the Sicilian beaches.

The ability of the Royal Indian Navy in combined operations was demonstrated in the attack on the Japanese supply base at Myebon, south of Akyab in 1965. R.I.N. ships engaged in escorting convoys, minesweeping and anti-submarine patrols steamed over 1,750,000 miles during the 12 months ended March 31, 1945. This figure does not comprise the distance covered by the seagoing ferry.

During the 12 months R.I.N. ships ranged far and wide on escort duty. Some steamed long distances in the Atlantic protecting important convoys.

Air Force

THE Indian Air Force, though young, has proved its mettle in war.

It is lead and guide all. In close, hard-hitting fighter.

Since those early days the I.A.F. has grown considerably, slowly at first, but at a tremendous rate latterly.

It has not been engaged, such as the Spitfire squadrons, in the Battle of Britain, but it has done magnificent work on the various fronts. There I.A.F. units were in the Middle East, Malaya and Burma.

The Spitfire squadrons have not passed unnoticed. Several Indian pilots have received the Distinguished Flying Service Order, have been mentioned in despatches, and only recently did the list of the dividends announced but also of the squadrons to which they belonged, and of the Indian Air Force generally.

Tactical and photographic reconnaissance, strafing, transport, and many delicate operational missions ranging from dropping medical supplies to delivering official instructions to Army units these they have done remarkably well.

Fighter ground maintenance and disciplinary squadrons have been in action on the Burma front. Flying over inhospitable territory in all kinds of weather, I.A.F. harassed enemy lines and rear areas, carried out reconnaissance and assigned information and photographs of the highest value.

"Good show" is good bombing" to the squadron responsible.

Whenever I feel a little "tied up" inside, and in need of digestive help, two little Partons do the job for me. They're different from the ordinary laxative. They're also a tonic. This makes them superior to any pill I've ever used, definitely. Partons for more energy time.

PHYSICAL CULTURE TRAINING

E. D. Nadan, the secretary of the Natal Amateur Weight Lifting and Physical Culture Association, in submitting his annual report, said that the year under review has been a very successful one and that the scheme of three associations had been fulfilled in the most fortunate in that a modern equipped gymnasium built in or around Durban where young and old of both sexes can take part in physical training at all times of the day.

[illegible] cannot be said "will not solve the many ailments that is preventing the progress and physical fitness of our community. A well-planned physical training by full-time instructors coupled with diet and other essentials will materially help to build up a healthy nation."

[illegible] Durban Council for physical education has been approached for a grant and we hope that our City Council will not fail us in this direction when asked upon.

get Currie's Fountain for the meeting on February 4. He has written to the sports officials.

In the meantime the Congress officials are perplexed with the question not where to hold the meeting, which had been bothering them all along, but where to hold the meeting. This, in the opinion of a well-informed, whose long [illegible] that if [illegible] should be beyond the interests of those who "followed the Pretoria Agreement and "authorised" the term "extra-territorial" to "residential" area," which covered the otherwise very plain term for segregation, to find a solution.

Two hundred Indian soldiers, including 100 non-commissioned from an Indian Military Hospital, had a pleasant surprise when they were invited to have tea with the Troops on the banqueting hall of the Victoria Home overlooking the famous Medical gardens. Lord and Lady Wavell and the Commander-in-Chief entertained the guests.

WIN FOR INDIAN TEAM

Two days' interesting cricket was witnessed at Currie's Fountain over the weekend, when the Europeans XI, captained by Compton, played the Natal Indian XI. The Indians won by 87 runs on the double innings.

Lined were the Indian and the Indian side scored their innings on a perfect wicket. Kamal and Naidoo went in to face Carpendale, who opened the attack from the town end. Kamal scored with a brace and when 7 runs were scored Naidoo presented an easy catch to Lowell off Carpendale, which was accepted. Goolam Mahomed filled the vacancy and was out in the second ball he received from Carpendale. Kamal was batting confidently but was out at 1. With the exception of Dwarat and Kamal the other batsmen failed and the innings closed at 70.

V. Ball and Hammond opened for the Europeans. This pair batted confidently and a bowling change took place, Pendal being replaced by Naidoo. Hammond was caught and bowled by Kamal, and on his second he clipped Ball's wicket at 56 and five other wickets were down, and at close of play the score stood at 12 for six wickets. Kamal got five wickets for 6 runs in six overs, four of which were maidens.

Resuming on the second day, the side failed and were out for 75 runs.

In the second innings for the Indians Ted Chetty and Kamal opened and at 2 Kamal was out, neatly stumped by Bob Williams. The bowling of Lowell and Stark was trembling the batsmen and the side was out at 125 runs, leaving the Europeans nine to get to win. Ball hit a fine 50 runs, which was followed by 17 runs.

In Kenya 50 per cent. of the properties ... owned by Indians and yet that handful of Europeans was always surrounding ... the rights of the Indians.

HAJEE I. H. ISHAK

Mr. Ibrahim had seen the working of the Kenya Colour Bar. There was nothing like it in Kenya. Indians were generally in all professions. With the exception of ... Indians could enter into any kind of trade. They were employed on the railways, in the customs department, in the courts and in the post offices.

In Uganda Indian magistrates had recently been appointed from lawyers of that population. Indians could acquire properties freely and were able to ... values and expand freely.

Where the war Smuts and leaders of Indian thought in East Africa told the ... authorities that if the Indian was recruited on a basis of complete equality with the Europeans then only would they advise Indians to volunteer freely. Unfortunately this offer was not accepted. Despite this the Indian had done magnificent work on the Home Front. Further on the outbreak of war the Europeans and Indians had agreed to suspend all questions of racial difference, but strangely enough this arrangement was only adhered to until the tide turned at El Alamein. Immediately the problem of war had swung in favour of the Allies the Europeans broke the truce.

The last elections of the Legislative Council of Kenya was held on the basis ... of ... Indians, a ... candidate who ... the Indians must get the most votes.

The Springbok editors had attempted to carry South African prejudices into ... Kenya. They objected to the liberty given to Indians there.

Non-Europeans in East Africa were definitely opposed to close union with South Africa. They feel that the South African colour bar will spread. It was to the distinct disadvantage of the non-Europeans if any closer union of these was evolved. History had abundant evidence of this fact. The non-Europeans opposed amalgamation of Kenya with Uganda and Nyasaland for they were afraid that the prejudices of Kenya would spread to the other two countries and the Native would be the greatest sufferer.

Mr. Ibrahim intends spending about three months in this country in order to study the Indian question.

SATURDAY, JANUARY

A New Judi Commissio

THE situation resulting from the Indian Judicial Commission's Report is one which requires careful consideration. The Commission has not, in fact, done anything, but advise that a Commission, quite legitimately set up by the Government, should be appointed to the Indian question. The Government, by reason of the terms of reference to the Commission, is precluded from taking any action on the Commission's recommendations at the present time. We must therefore, as a community, be content to wait and see what the Government will do with the Commission's report. We must, however, make it clear that the Indians should not be expected to bear the whole burden of the solution of the Indian problem. The Government must determine what is to be done, and must be prepared to take the necessary steps to implement its decisions. Indians, as a community, have no desire to be unreasonable, and have always been prepared to meet the Government half-way in any reasonable proposal. Unfortunately, the Commission's terms of reference have not permitted it to investigate the Indian problem in its entirety, and it has, therefore, been unable to make any recommendations which would be of a comprehensive character. Nevertheless, it has made certain recommendations which, if implemented, would go a long way towards solving the Indian problem in Natal. Whether the Government will be prepared to implement the Commission's recommendations remains to be seen, but we are hopeful that the Government will not be unmindful of the fact that the Indian community has been loyal and co-operative in the past, and we are confident that it will continue to be so in the future, provided it is dealt with fairly and justly. We are also Irritable? Me?

Yes—you—yes. Not to-day. When I feel the need of a little "unwinding up" emotional take a dose of Parton's. Next day the irritable has gone. Bowels are free. No headaches. No tension.

They make me the jolly old boy you see here. A very fine fit in the Autumn of Life, but the tonic in Parton's makes me feel that Father Time is really good to me. No wonder I'm "buzzing about" yet, as my daily routine. Vigour, limbed with real good circulation is a word. Parton's puts Spring into my Autumn step.

I've been using for years at busy week Partons.
